The Journal of Pacific History serves historians, prehistorians, anthropologists and others interested in the study of man in the Pacific Islands, including Hawaii and New Guinea. It publishes articles, annotated previously unpublished manuscripts, notes on source material and comment on current affairs, and is concerned generally with political, economic, religious and cultural history. It also welcomes articles related to other geographical regions, such as Africa and Southeast Asia, or of a theoretical character where these are concerned with problems of significance in the Pacific.

Contributions should be typed on one side of the paper only, double-spaced, with wide margins on all sides, and should follow the style used in this issue. Two copies are requested, and a copy should be retained by the author, who will receive 25 offprints without charge. Additional offprints may be purchased if they are ordered in advance.

The Journal appears twice a year and may be obtained by subscription sent direct to the Editors, The Journal of Pacific History, Australian National University, Box 4, P.O., Canberra, A.C.T., Australia 2600, or through subscription agencies, at the rate of $A12.50 or its equivalent in other currencies ($US17.00) annually; single copies are $A7.00 or equivalent ($US9.00). The recommended retail price of single copies obtained through booksellers is $A8.40. Back issues (11-XIII) are $A12.50 ($US17.00) each volume. BOOKS, ARTICLES AND CHAPTERS

This bibliography covers books, articles and chapters which have appeared in 1978 and the early part of 1979, with some of earlier date sighted too late for inclusion previously. The book section includes some works of restricted availability, but excludes official publications, except for a small number of readily obtainable reference books. Works of fiction are also usually omitted, unless they are considered likely to be of special interest to Pacific historians. To reduce annotations to a minimum, articles and chapters have been classified by geographical area, unless the theme covers more than one island group. In this case they will be found under a subject heading. An attempt has been made to supply complete and accurate bibliographical details of books and articles, based on personal examination, but this is not always possible if the work has been published outside Australia. In addition, the effects of financial cuts on library purchasing in this country have begun to result in an as yet small but nonetheless significant decrease in the availability of many new scholarly books and journals, particularly those from overseas. Information on newly-published articles and books, especially material printed in the Pacific Islands and Papua New Guinea, or written in Pacific Island languages would be welcomed.

AUSTRALIA 1788-1988
A BICENTENNIAL HISTORY

In 1988 Europeans will have been living in Australia for 200 years. To mark this occasion, a group of historians and other social scientists are planning a series of volumes under the general title AUSTRALIA 1788-1988: A BICENTENNIAL HISTORY.

The project comprises two sections working closely together. Section A will produce volumes on particular years and periods. Section B will produce reference volumes.

SECTION A will comprise five books, under the general editorship of Ken Inglis, a professor of history at the Australian National University. The first volume will take the story up to 1788. Then three volumes will centre on specific years at 50 year intervals: 1838, 1888 and 1938. The final volume will deal with the period 1939 to 1988.

If you have any enquiry about SECTION A, or the project generally, write to:

Dr Stephen Foster
Assistant General Editor (Section A)
Australia 1788-1988: A Bicentennial History
Research School of Social Sciences
