A GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE UNIVERSITY

The city of Canberra, which has since 1927 been the capital of the Commonwealth of Australia, is situated in the Australian Capital Territory. The Territory is about 200 miles by road south-west of Sydney, and 400 miles north-east of Melbourne, and is connected to those cities by good air and road services and by rail. Canberra, which is now developing rapidly as the national capital, is the headquarters of most of the Departments of the Commonwealth Government, and has a population of some 80,000 and is estimated to reach 100,000 by 1967. The city stands at the altitude of 1,800-2,000 feet, and has a pleasant and healthy climate. It has been laid out in accordance with a comprehensive plan, and an imaginative programme of tree-planting has made the city and growing suburbs very attractive. When the plan of the city of Canberra was decided upon in 1916, a site close by the main city area was set aside ‘for university purposes’.*

An authoritative statement on the history and development of Canberra and the Capital Territory is included in each issue of the Official Year Book of the Commonwealth of Australia, which may be consulted in most libraries and in the offices of Australian diplomatic and consular representatives abroad. Reference may also be made to Canberra—A Nation’s Capital, edited by H. L. White, Canberra, 1954.

Canberra University College

In 1927 the Commonwealth Government, recognizing the great public importance of providing facilities for higher education at the seat of government, appointed a Committee to report on the provision of university facilities for residents of Canberra, with particular reference to the needs of officers of the Federal Public Service and their families. This Committee recommended the establishment of a university with certain facilities.

In January 1929 the University Association of Canberra was formed with the main object of promoting the establishment of a University in Canberra. Proposals put forward by the Council of the University Association were accepted by the Commonwealth Government and in December 1929 the Canberra University College Ordinance was passed, providing for the creation of a University College pending the establishment of a teaching University in Canberra. Arrangements were made with the University of Melbourne which amounted to recognition of the College by that University on terms permitting of its full development in the faculties of Arts, Science, Commerce and Law. Lectures were arranged in fourteen subjects of the Arts, Science and Commerce courses and the first lectures were given on 31 March 1930. There were thirty-two students enrolled.

Early development of the College was slow, being hampered by the depression of the early thirties and the war, but enrolments rose sharply in the immediate post-war years. The first professors were appointed in 1948, and by 1960 the full-time teaching staff had increased to 90, with a student enrolment of more than 800, of whom 240 were full-time students.

The Decision to Establish the University

While the College was still some way from its full establishment, at the end of the 1939-45 war, a group of people with academic interests who were concerned in other connections with shaping the post-war development of Australia, came together to consider future university development in Canberra. It was from these deliberations that there emerged the Bill which, on its enactment by the Commonwealth Parliament in August 1946, became the Australian National University Act.

The University envisaged in the Act was to differ in two main ways from the universities already established by the Australian States. In the first place, although the Act stated that 'the University may provide for the incorporation in the University of the Canberra University College', the University was to be primarily concerned with research and research training. In the second place it was envisaged that the University would select certain defined fields in which to begin its work, those first contemplated being the medical sciences, the physical sciences, the social sciences and Pacific studies.

Early Activities of the University

The University Act placed complete power of management in the hands of a Council and, to provide for the development of the University before the Council could be formed, the Act established an Interim Council. The Interim Council included substantial representation of the professorial staffs of the other Australian universities, and conducted the University's affairs from its appointment in August 1946 until the permanent Council took office in July 1951.

Very early in its operations the Interim Council established an Academic Advisory Committee of four members, all of whom held senior academic appointments in the United Kingdom and were either themselves Australian or were well acquainted with academic matters in Australia. The Committee took a leading part from 1947-51 in advising the Interim Council on the basic plans and early development of the University.
The Interim Council, as soon as it had decided to establish the four original research schools, set about recruiting senior staff members for them.

The first appointments were made in 1948 and, until premises were available in Canberra, the Librarian and Heads of Departments concerned worked in other centres. By the end of 1952 all but two Departments had been moved to Canberra, though even then most were housed in temporary quarters. Simultaneously, the Interim Council sought to advance the interests of other Australian universities by means of the award of scholarships and Research Fellowships for study abroad and the arranging of seminars in Canberra to which leading overseas scholars were invited.

Association with Canberra University College

Development of the University continued steadily, both in regard to the building up of staff and in the provision of permanent buildings, but the Government was obliged to come to a decision on the future of Canberra University College which was rapidly approaching the stage when it could either become an independent university, which meant the development of postgraduate studies as well as undergraduate teaching, or when, as envisaged in the Australian National University Act of 1946, it should be incorporated in the University.

The Government decided that the College's future lay with the University and asked the two Councils to submit proposals for a desirable form of association. In March 1960 an Act was passed giving effect to this decision and on 30 September 1960 the Canberra University College became associated with the Australian National University as its School of General Studies, while the four Research Schools continued their work in the Institute of Advanced Studies.

Government of the University and the Act of 1960

The Act of 1960 provided for the dissolution of the governing body of the College and for an enlarged Council of the University. The Council includes members of Parliament, of the University staff, of the student body and of Convocation, and persons appointed by the Governor-General. The Chancellor, or in his absence the Pro-Chancellor, presides at meetings of the Council. The present holders of these offices are Sir John Cockcroft and Dr H. C. Coombs respectively.

Convocation will eventually be a body composed primarily of graduates of the University, but in order to bring Convocation into existence at an early stage, and to foster the interest of Australian academic leaders in the University, special steps were taken. The University invited to membership of Convocation its academic and certain non-academic officers, the members of the Academic Advisory Committee, the Chancellors and Vice-Chancellors (or equivalent officers) of the other Australian university institutions.
and other research organizations and five other members nominated by each of those bodies. Association with the College has enlarged Convocation to include members and past members of the former Council of the College, members of the College staff, and graduates of the University of Melbourne who took their degrees through the College: in addition two hundred other persons were invited, together with those members of Parliament who were graduates. Though at present the only function of Convocation is to elect members of the Council, it is hoped that, as the University develops, ways will be found to give Convocation opportunities to exercise an influence in university affairs commensurate with the wisdom and experience of its members. Occasional meetings of local members are now held in centres such as Melbourne and Sydney.

The University's senior academic bodies are the Boards of the Institute and of the School. The Vice-Chancellor is the Chairman of both Boards, which comprise, in the Institute, the Heads of Research Schools, the Heads of Departments within those Schools, the Deputy Vice-Chancellor, the Principal of the School of General Studies and three members of the Board of the School; in the School the Board consists of all professors of the School, the Deputy Vice-Chancellor, the Principal and three members of the Board of the Institute. There is also a Professorial Board, comprising all professors of the University, but its role is purely advisory. While the Council is the governing body of the University, it looks mainly to the Boards of the Institute and of the School for guidance and advice in all matters of academic policy and practice. The Institute is responsible for matters concerning doctoral degrees and the School for other degrees, though students reading for masters' or doctoral degrees may be supervised in either the Institute or the School.

Present Structure of the University

The administrative staff is led by the Vice-Chancellor, who is the principal executive officer of the University, and the Registrar, who is in charge of the work of all other officers of the central administration and of the administrative officers of the Institute and of the School. The Bursar deals with property and finance. The nature of much of the University's work is such as to call for abundant technical, clerical and secretarial support.

The University has established a superannuation scheme similar to the F.S.S.U. in the United Kingdom, with provision for supplementary benefits in the event of early death or invalidity, or of hardship on retirement.

The Institute of Advanced Studies

The Institute comprises the four original Research Schools, which are led by Directors or Deans: the John Curtin School of Medical Research (Dean: Professor A. H. Ennor, C.B.E.), the Research School of Physical Sciences (Dean: Professor J. C. Jaeger), the Research School of Social Sciences (Director: Professor P. H. Partridge), and the Research School of Pacific Studies (Director: Professor Sir John Crawford, C.B.E.). Besides the Directors, the permanent academic staff of the Institute comprises Professors, Readers, Professorial Fellows, Senior Fellows and Fellows. Each Professor is responsible for the research conducted and the research training given in his Department. In addition to the permanent staff, Senior Research Fellows and Research Fellows are appointed for periods of from one to five years. At the end of 1964 there were 220 members of the academic staff and 254 full-time research students.

From the beginning it was recognized that if the best standards in research were to be maintained, the relative academic isolation of Australia must be overcome by generous provision for study leave. Professors are entitled to one year's leave in four with a maximum allowance for expenses of £1,600; other permanent members of staff also benefit from liberal provisions. Shorter leave can be taken before the full leave is due.

The conditions on which all members of the academic staff of the Institute are appointed lay down that the member's principal responsibility is to devote himself to research and the advancement of knowledge in his subject, and the University's policy is to make every effort to ensure that the member's time will be unencumbered by other duties. There is, however, a responsibility on members of the staff to assist in the training of graduate students and to make such contributions as they can to the work being done by the other Australian universities.

The School of General Studies

The School consists of five Faculties, each of which is responsible under the general oversight of the Board of the School of General Studies for academic matters falling within its special field. There are Faculties of Arts, Economics, Oriental Studies and Science, each comprising groups of kindred Departments, and a Faculty of Law.

The academic staff of the School comprises Professors, Associate Professors, Readers, Senior Lecturers and Lecturers. There are also Demonstrators and Tutors, and a number of part-time Lecturers, Demonstrators and Tutors. Study leave provisions are comparable with those in other Australian universities. At the end of 1964 there were 207* members of the academic staff and approximately 2,100 students.

Members of the academic staff of the School, while being responsible in the first instance for undergraduate teaching and for courses leading to masters' degrees, have the opportunity to supervise students for postgraduate work leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The research requirements of the staff are that they will devote a reasonable proportion of their time to research or other original work in their subjects.

The Library

The University Library comprises three main sections attached to the Institute of Advanced Studies, the School of General Studies and the Centre of Oriental Studies.

The Advanced Studies collection of some 180,000 volumes is closely related to the special interests of the four Research Schools in the Institute. It has a wide range of periodical literature and is strong in the fields of anthropology and linguistics, mathematics, mathematical statistics, physics, chemistry and the non-clinical medical sciences, and has sought to acquire a good working collection of secondary material of high standard in the social sciences.

The General Studies collection (approximately 90,000 volumes) is designed to further teaching at all levels in the Faculties of Arts, Economics, Science and Law, and to provide research facilities in the humanities.

The Oriental collection (mainly Chinese, Japanese and Indonesian) is primarily a research collection and at present contains approximately 65,000 volumes.

The resources of the National Library of Australia are available to members of the University, who also have the advantage of access to many specialized collections of material held by government instrumentalities in Canberra.

Site, Buildings and Accommodation

The University occupies about 315 acres of land in the Canberra districts of Acton and Turner, and a further 200 acres at Mount Stromlo. These sites are being developed in accordance with plans approved by the Council.

In the Institute, the John Curtin School of Medical Research and the Research School of Physical Sciences are housed in their own permanent buildings. The main building of the Research School of Physical Sciences was opened in September 1952 and the building of the John Curtin School of Medical Research was first occupied in March 1957. In 1963 the Department of Mathematics moved into a permanent building. The Department of Astronomy is situated at Mount Stromlo Observatory ten miles from Canberra. A Field Station has been established at Siding Spring Mountain near Coonabarabran in New South Wales. Two telescopes, three houses and a residential Lodge have been constructed for the Field Station. The Chancellor opened the H. C. Coombs Building in September 1964.
This building houses the Research Schools of Social Sciences and Pacific Studies. A lecture theatre to seat 400 is being designed as an addition to this building.

In the School of General Studies, the first permanent building—the Haydon-Allen Building was occupied in July 1960; an extension to this building was completed in 1962. The Physics Building was occupied in 1961, the Chemistry building in 1962, the Geology building in 1963 and the Zoology building in 1964.

A building to house the Faculties of Economics and Law is under construction and will be completed in 1966. The Faculty of Oriental Studies and the Department of Far Eastern History in the Institute of Advanced Studies will occupy a new building in 1965.

University House, the University's first collegiate building, was completed in 1954 and provides accommodation for single research students reading for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and for staff members and, for the time being, for some married research students and staff without children. The House also serves as a faculty club for non-resident members of the University.

Bruce Hall, named after the first Chancellor, Lord Bruce of Melbourne, was occupied early in 1961. An extension for another 60 students was completed in 1963. Accommodation in the Hall consists of 210 study-bedrooms.

Two new Halls of Residence, to house a total of 500 students, are under construction. One of these will be completed in 1965.

The University has established a Department of Forestry within the Faculty of Science. For the next three years at least, this Department will be located on the site of the existing Australian Forestry School in the Canberra district of Yarralumla and will use the facilities on that site.

The University Union building has been completed for occupation in 1965.

A sports oval and pavilion have been completed, which provide the first stage of sporting facilities on the site. A second oval has been planned.

The first stage of the Chancelry, a permanent building to house the University's administrative staff, was completed in 1964. Extensions to this building are under construction.

With the completion of the Canberra Lakes Scheme the University is developing Sullivans Creek, which runs through the site, as a water feature, and two bridges have been built over the creek.

The period of the University's establishment in Canberra was one of acute shortage of building labour and materials and the housing situation in the city was in any case extremely difficult. The University was therefore obliged to take a far more vigorous interest in the housing of its staff and research students than is normally the practice in Australia. Houses and flats have been built, or their tenancies otherwise acquired, in numbers sufficient to make it possible to house those with families coming to Canberra, at least for an initial period. Plans are in hand to provide 50 flats for married research students without children.

Finance

The University's expenditure in 1963 was £3,921,957 for running expenses and £2,307,827 for capital and other non-recurrent expenditure. Apart from relatively small amounts received from gifts, rents and fees, income was provided by the Commonwealth Parliament.

Biochemistry

Many different problems are being studied in the Department. These include the chemistry and biochemistry of the naturally occurring phosphorylated guanidine derivatives together with investigations designed to elucidate the mechanism of the reactions catalysed by ATP: guanidino phosphotransferases and the function of divalent metal ions in the activation of these enzymes. Studies are also being carried out on the biosynthesis of certain D-amino acids and naturally occurring phosphodiester. The biosynthesis and distribution of compounds containing carbon-bound phosphorus are being investigated in Tetramymena. Another research group is investigating enzymes which reduce ribotides to deoxyribotides. Special attention is being directed to the mechanism by which coenzyme forms of vitamin B12 stimulate this reduction. Fundamental research is also being done in the general field of protein synthesis and here the production of secreted enzymes is being studied with the aim of elucidating both the mechanism of enzyme synthesis and the mechanism of protein secretion from cells.

Several aspects of amino acid metabolism are also being investigated with particular reference to the elucidation of the precise steps by which they are completely oxidized. The Department is well equipped with modern facilities enabling work to be carried out on almost any aspect of the subject.

Electron Microscope Unit

Two Siemens Elmiskop I electron microscopes and one Philips EM 200 electron microscope and their accessory apparatus are in operation. The Unit is equipped for all types of structural analysis using these instruments. Work in progress, partly in collaboration with other departments and organizations, includes: the structure of a number of viruses and their development in host cells, the fine histology of several insect tissues and of mammalian skin, the cytology of bacterial cells secreting enzymes and the structure of blood vessels.

Experimental Pathology

Research in the Department of Experimental Pathology is concerned with the pathology, physiology and biochemistry of lipid transport and metabolism with special reference to cardiovascular disease, the structure and functioning of the blood-vascular and lymphatic systems in various diseased states and the reactions of the tissues to foreign matter and the nature of immune responses.

Genetics

The work of the Department is concerned particularly with molecular and biochemical genetics. The fungus Neurospora crassa is the main experimental organism, but others including man will be used when research demands. The problems under particular study include the mechanisms of recombination and of mutation, the fine structures of genes and their relation to function and the genetic control of metabolism. In the last, attention is being directed towards the genetics of feed back inhibition and of permeability.

Medical Chemistry

The correlation of chemical structure with physical properties in biologically-active substances is an important activity of the Department. Such correlations supply biologists with fundamental data for understanding the physico-chemical basis of drug action. These aims are implemented by:

Organic chemical studies, e.g., synthesis of the relevant heterocyclic substances, e.g., pteridines, pyrimidines, purines, quinazolines, indolizines, indoles, and azalogues of these families of substances. Studies of acridine chemistry have been resumed because of the renewed interest of biologists in this nucleus. Many substances are forwarded to biological workers in various parts of the world for inclusion in pharmacological testing programmes.

Physical chemical studies, e.g., quantitative aspects of the binding of metals by substances of biological interest with special reference to factors governing the oxidation-reduction potentials of metal complexes. Special apparatus has been built for investigating rapid reactions by optical and potentiometric methods: the kinetics of covalent hydration and the Dimroth rearrangement are studied in this way. By ultraviolet, infrared and Raman spectroscopic techniques, the preferred structures of tautomeric substances of biological interest are being determined.

Research is conducted in analysis, and visitors can be received for instruction in both 'empty tube' and 'oxidative catalyst' types of combustion methods currently used for organic elemental microanalysis. Ionization constants are determined as a service to other scientists in Australia.

Microbiology

The activities of the Department are centred upon the study of animal viruses. These are being studied at all levels of complexity: myxomatosis and virus encephalitis as problems in epidemiology, the spread of viruses through the body as one aspect of experimental pathology, and the nature of the cell-virus interaction. At the cellular level the fundamental problems of viral multiplication are being examined by genetic, physical and chemical methods, as well as the more usual biological techniques.

Detailed investigations are being made into the neutralization of viruses by antisera; and immunological methods are being extensively used as a means of analysing the complexities of structure and function among the influenza and poxviruses. Work has commenced recently on the growth of insect viruses in cultured insect cells.

Physical Biochemistry

The Department is interested in the investigation of physico-chemical aspects of biochemistry, particularly the physical chemistry of macro-molecular substances and systems. Work is at present being carried out on proteins, including enzymes, and on the properties of components of connective tissue and of systems formed from them. The Department is equipped with the more important instruments required for this type of work.

Physiology

The equipment comprises five experimental rooms very fully equipped for all types of electrophysiological investigation and in particular for work with intracellular microelectrodes. There are also two rooms fitted for physiological chemistry and good facilities are provided for pharmacological investigations of the physiological processes in the nervous system and for fine mechanical investigations on muscular contraction. There is also equipment for isotope measurements. Staff and equipment are available for aseptic surgery. Research work is in progress in the following fields:

(i) Biophysical properties of nerve cells and on the nature of the synaptic excitatory and inhibitory action thereon.

(ii) The pathways and organization of nerve cells in the spinal cord and brain.

(iii) Pharmacological investigations on the central nervous system and on sympathetic ganglia using electrophysiological techniques.

(iv) The transmission mechanism at the neuromuscular junction.

(v) Synaptic excitatory and inhibitory transmitters in the central nervous system.

(vi) Cellular electrophysiology of skeletal muscle.

THE RESEARCH SCHOOL OF PHYSICAL SCIENCES

Astronomy

The Observatory on Mount Stromlo (ten miles from the centre of Canberra) is one of the major observatories in the southern hemisphere. It is equipped with a wide range of telescopes, the largest being the 74-inch reflector, together with the necessary auxiliary equipment. The programme of observations is extensive, with special emphasis upon stellar spectroscopy, the precise measurement of time and latitude variation, the study of the Milky Way system and other galaxies, notably the Star Clouds of Magellan. While the Observatory employs optical techniques exclusively, it works in close collaboration with the radio-astronomy section of the Radio-physics Laboratory of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization in Sydney.

Mount Stromlo Observatory maintains a Field Station on Siding Spring Mountain near Coonabarabran, New South Wales. The principal instrument at the Field Station is a 40-inch reflector of modern design.

Computer Centre

The main purpose of this centre is to provide a service to the University and some instruction in programming. The present machine is an IBM 1620 and an IBM 360 is on order. The activities of the centre are being expanded considerably and a Head of the Centre is being sought.

Diffusion Research Unit

The broad aim of studies within the Unit is to gain information about the liquid state. Several methods for measuring liquid transport properties are used and in particular the radio-tracer diffusion method and precise counting techniques have been developed extensively. Diffusion studies are in progress in organic liquids, electrolyte solutions and molten salts, the last-named system being of interest in fuel cell work. The adaptation of solid-state detectors for radiochemical work is being investigated and if successful, it is hoped that diffusion measurements can be made in the liquified rare gases which is an area of great theoretical interest.

Electron and Ion Diffusion Unit

The Unit is investigating the collision processes of both low energy electrons and positive ions in monatomic and diatomic gases. The investigation has now been extended to gases, the investigations having recently been extended to situations in which electron attachment and ionization are significant processes. One aim of the present work is the refinement of well established techniques to eliminate experimental inaccuracies which have not been understood hitherto and which are responsible for many inconsistencies in the current literature. Measurements of three transport coefficients are made for electron or ion swarms drifting and diffusing through the gas under investigation and from these data detailed information about the collisions between the charged and uncharged particles is deduced.

Geophysics and Geochemistry

The main lines of work of the Department are:

(i) Experimental deformation of rocks, minerals and metals. Equipment for deforming specimens of various sizes at confining pressures of up to 10,000 atmospheres and temperatures of up to $1000^\circ C$ is available, together with strain-gauge, X-ray and optical facilities for deformation studies.

(ii) Palaeomagnetism. Two astatic magnetometers are in operation for measuring the susceptibility and remanent magnetization of rocks. One of these is extremely sensitive for measurements on weakly magnetized sediments. A survey of directions of magnetization of Australian rocks is in progress. Equipment is available for studying the magnetic properties of rocks and minerals at elevated temperatures and also for A.C. and thermal demagnetizing of rocks.

(iii) Seismology. A seismological observatory equipped with long and short period Benioff instruments has been established. A study of local seismicity is being made using the results of this and fourteen other closely spaced stations. Measurements of crustal thickness have been made using portable equipment with quarry blasts or atomic explosions as sources.

(iv) Geothermal measurements. Apparatus for measuring temperatures and thermal conductivities of rocks is available.

(v) Igneous and metamorphic petrology and geochemistry. A full range of microscope, X-ray, spectrographic and chemical facilities is available. An electron probe X-ray microanalyser has been installed. An A.E.I. spark source mass spectrophotograph (MS7) is in use for studying trace elements.

(vi) Phase equilibria at high temperatures and pressures. Apparatus capable of attaining pressures up to 100,000 atmospheres and temperatures up to $1800^\circ C$ for sustained periods is in operation. The apparatus is currently used for studying phase equilibria in the mantle and the origin of magmas.

(vii) Isotope geology and age determinations. The Department possesses Metropolitan-Vickers, Nuclide and Reynolds type mass spectrometers. These are being used for age determination by potassium-argon and rubidium-strontium methods, and in the study of isotope ratios in ore leads. Facilities for mineral separation are available.

Mathematics

Research in pure mathematics is currently in group theory, number theory, functional analysis and non-linear differential equations.
Research in applied mathematics is primarily in fluid mechanics with emphasis on geophysical and meteorological applications and on hydro-dynamic stability.

Nuclear Physics

Three accelerating machines are in use in the Department—a Cockcroft-Walton generator capable of 1-25 MeV with beam currents up to 1 ma.; a 12 MeV tandem electrostatic generator, which was brought into operation in 1961, and a 2 MeV electrostatic accelerator installed in 1962.

These machines allow a wide coverage of research problems in low energy nuclear physics to be made, and are equipped with the most modern ancillary devices. High resolution and large solid angle particle spectrometers are available and detection methods include scintillation counter, solid state counter, gas counter, nuclear emulsion and activation techniques. Four pulse height analysers are in use with presentation by fast print-out, punched tape or on an X-Y plot. An IBM 1620 computer is available for data processing.

Among the main lines of research are:

(i) The determination of the locations and properties of the energy levels of nuclei with A<20.
(ii) The study of the interaction of fast neutrons with matter including some aspects of the fission process.
(iii) He\(^3\) and He\(^4\) induced reaction studies.
(iv) Pick-up (inverse stripping) and double stripping processes.
(v) Nuclear reactions initiated by heavy ion bombardments.

The 12 MeV tandem generator is one of the first of its type in the world and is the most precise and flexible accelerating machine yet designed for this energy range. With the installation of inclined-field accelerating tubes early in 1965 it is expected that the maximum energy of the machine will be raised to 14 MeV and it is hoped in the future to accelerate polarized ions.

The 2 MeV electrostatic accelerator was installed in August 1962. It operates for part of the time in its own right to accelerate H\(^1\), H\(^2\) and He\(^3\) ions. For the remainder of the time it acts as an injector to the tandem accelerator to yield He\(^4\) and He\(^3\) ions up to full machine energy.

Particle Physics

The main research interest is the development of a large homopolar generator as a source of pulse power for the production of large currents and magnetic fields. Research in plasma physics and in high magnetic fields related to applications of the generator is being pursued.

Physics of Ionized Gases Unit

This Unit is making observations of the charge exchange interaction between protons and atomic hydrogen, molecular hydrogen and other gases and vapours, with particular reference to the possibility that resonances may occur at comparatively low proton energies. It is also investigating the interactions between ions, excited and metastable atoms, with metal surfaces, in an endeavour to unravel the detailed processes of neutralization and de-excitation.

Theoretical Physics
Research is being carried out in theoretical problems of nuclear physics, on the physics of elementary particles and on many body problems and plasmas. About half the work is in fields related to the experimental activities of the School and the remainder on questions of a more general nature. An electronic computer is available.

THE RESEARCH SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SCIENCES

Demography
In subject-matter, the research interests of this Department are concerned with historical and social studies of population movements as well as with the more formal statistical aspects. The main focus has been upon Australia, New Zealand and the Pacific Islands, but recently the Department has also turned its attention to problems associated with high growth rates in low income areas, with particular reference to southern and eastern Asia, and to comparative studies of growth in high income areas with controlled fertility. Current work includes historical and contemporary studies of marriage, divorce and fertility, population projections, the history and present structure of ethnic minorities and studies of recent immigration to Australia, the growth and structure of the populations of the Pacific Islands, studies relating to internal migration and fertility in selected areas of India and West Pakistan, the economic demography of Malaysia, and the population of West Africa with special reference to Ghana.

Economic History
The main research interests of the Department are in the analysis of empirical experience of long-run economic development, through the definition of rates and character of growth; the analysis of conditions of development; and the structural and institutional changes and forms accompanying this development. Work is being carried on in the general context of the comparative development of a number of advanced countries. Current research provides for specific studies of major business institutions and market structure, and the activity of public authorities; and work is being undertaken to complete a number of major statistical series, to attempt the measurement of several basic economic relationships and generally to analyse and interpret economic behaviour in terms of rates and stability of growth, structural trends and investment and institutional policy.

Economics

The work of the Department has three main branches—economic statistics, applied economics and economic theory. The central interest is in processes and problems of economic growth and fluctuation. Research fields include the effects of changing economic conditions on the farm sector; the capital market and monetary institutions; the principles and practice of social accounting; capital accumulation and technical progress; theoretical and statistical analyses of international trade, productivity and investment in relation to the Australian work force; national and international policies for development and stability.

History

Initially, emphasis was laid on Australian problems, particularly on the growth of a distinctive Australian society during the last hundred years. This perhaps is still the major emphasis, particularly as the Department is now the headquarters of the Australian Dictionary of Biography. However, in 1959 steps were taken to broaden the work of the Department by making regular provision for the study of the history of India and this work has grown rapidly. In 1963 a beginning was made with mediaeval European history. Close collaboration exists with other Departments of the Institute of Advanced Studies and with the History Department of the School of General Studies.

There is in Canberra, in the Australian section of the National Library of Australia, in the Commonwealth Official Archives, in the University Library, and in the collection of Business Records in the School of Social Sciences, a great amount of material for the study of Australian history. The National Library of Australia also contains much material, especially of an official character, on the British Commonwealth and on the history, especially the diplomatic history, of modern Europe. Steps are now being taken to build up strength in mediaeval European history.

In the fields of Australian and Indian history regular provision has been made for field work.

Law

The Department exists to carry out research in depth into the operation of legal systems, generally, and in relation to particular branches of law. It is at present concentrating on five main topics: public law (especially the constitutional and administrative law of Australia); international law; common law (in particular, the law of contracts and of agency, and aspects of wrongs); and the general theory of law (in particular, techniques of judicial reasoning). The Department does not train persons for the active practice of law.
A good working law library is available at the University, and free use is also made of the law libraries at Parliament House and in the Attorney-General's Department.

Philosophy

The work of the Department covers a very wide field. Work is now being carried out by members of the Department and research students on social and political theory; logic and methodology, with special reference to the social sciences; the history of ideas; the philosophy of education; the philosophy of history as well as the more general problems of philosophy.

Political Science

The Department is working in selected areas of four fields: Australian politics, bureaucracy and public policy, comparative politics and world politics.

Structural studies of the Australian party system are supported by: regional and national election surveys; the compilation and analysis of comprehensive election statistics; case studies of party organization and strategy and of 'pressure' groups; and research on Australian political history since 1890.

The work on bureaucracy includes: history and organization of Australian and New Guinea public services and public service associations; case studies in the administration of selected government policies; studies of ministerial responsibility and public service neutrality; and organization theory.

In comparative politics, the Department's main present interests are in power structures and personal leadership in the U.S.S.R. All-Union Government and selected Republics. Comparative research is also done on political parties and elites in South-East Asian countries and on political development in New Guinea.

In world politics the Department's work is complementary to that of the Department of International Relations in the Research School of Pacific Studies. It is concerned with the structural development of the world system as illustrated by European economic and political integration and its implications for Britain and Australia; by the United Nations, particularly in its peace-keeping operations; and by 'Cold War' strategy and its impact on Australian foreign policy and defence. Where appropriate this work is related to formal theories of international relations.

Sociology

This Department was only formally established in 1961 and is therefore still in the process of development. The Professor of Sociology has yet to be appointed, but a leading overseas scholar has been in the Department as a Visiting Professor since September 1964. Three established academic posts were filled in 1963 and two new appointments will be filled from the beginning of 1965. Current research interests include sociological aspects of education, social class and mobility, urbanization and the sociology of religion. While this Department has naturally major interests in the study of social institutions and organization of Australian society, it is not intended that this focus should be at the expense of either social theory or comparative studies. Both of these areas are emphasized in seminars and in other aspects of the students' courses of study.

Statistics
The Department is engaged in developing the theory of probability and the mathematical theory of statistics in order (a) to devise methods of analysing statistical data in the biological, physical and economic sciences and (b) to study processes and phenomena in those subjects in which some random element enters in an essential way. Most of the work of the Department is being devoted to developing new theoretical tools for this purpose and applying them in economics, geophysics, genetics and other sciences.

THE RESEARCH SCHOOL OF PACIFIC STUDIES

Anthropology and Sociology
Since 1950 the Department has undertaken an extensive programme of field research in New Guinea, Australia, Indonesia, India and the islands of the Pacific. At present, work is concentrated in New Guinea, Australia and South-East Asia. At the end of 1964 more than eighty research enquiries were in progress or had been made by scholars, Research Fellows, permanent members of the staff and visitors using the facilities of the Department. Each enquiry usually requires from twelve to twenty-one months of field research, sometimes divided into two periods, together with a similar length of time spent at the University in preparation, library research and the writing of reports. The subjects of enquiry have varied widely but may be described broadly as the traditional social organization and culture of non-European peoples within the Pacific region, their contemporary state and the changes taking place under modern conditions. Enquiries have also been made into matters of colonial administration and into sociological problems within European Australia. Linguistic research has been undertaken within the same region and studies in prehistory have been carried out in Australia, New Guinea and Oceania. The Department is well equipped with library, seminar and other research facilities. A small collection of specimens of material culture, films and sound recordings is being organized as research proceeds.

Economics
The Department was formed in 1960, and is devoted to the study of underdeveloped areas; it offers scope for theoretical work in the economics of development and emphasizes the building up of systematic empirical knowledge of the Pacific and South-East Asian regions. Studies in current problems of economic growth and of Australia’s economic relations with the region are being undertaken.
A particular field of study of this Department, and of several other departments of the School, is the development of New Guinea.

Far Eastern History
The Department is engaged in research into the ancient and modern history of China and Japan. In the Chinese section present emphasis is on Chinese influences on neighbouring countries; contact between China and the West, particularly the spread of ideas and technical inventions; pre-Han history and the study of bronze vessels; modern Chinese history, including a joint project with the Mitchell Library to publish the Morrison papers. The Japanese section concentrates on modern and mediaeval economic development.

Facilities for research depend on the Oriental collection of the University Library which exceeds 55,000 volumes in the Chinese and Japanese languages, the Mitchell Library in Sydney, and a small collection of reference books in the Department itself. There is also a representative collection in the R. G. Menzies Building of the University Library of works in European languages about the Far East.

Geography
The interests of the Department are about equally divided regionally between the Australian continent, from the tropical north to Tasmania, and the Pacific Islands, especially New Guinea but ranging east as far as Samoa, while some work has been done in South-East Asia. On the human side, research so far has been largely in the fields of social and economic geography, initially mainly on the agricultural side, though recently work in industrial and transport geography has been undertaken. The Department has also been concerned with political and historical geography, the latter chiefly in regard to Australia itself. In the Pacific Islands, a number of detailed agrarian studies have been carried out and work has also been done in population geography. An increasing proportion of the Department’s work is devoted to geomorphological studies in various fields in Australia, New Guinea and Malaysia, especially in such fields as Karstic and periglacial phenomena. Biogeographical studies in the fields of plant ecology and palynology are being carried out in New Guinea and adjacent areas as well as in Australia.

The Department has a regional map collection, cartographic facilities and equipment for field and laboratory work; nearly all research tasks undertaken in the Department involve field work.
The cartographic facilities and map collection are used by other departments in the University, and contact is maintained with related departments and with various other organizations in Canberra engaged in research with a geographical bearing.

International Relations

The Department is concerned with the general study of international politics, especially as this concerns Australia. Its empirical work emphasizes the international politics of the Asian and Pacific regions with special reference, at present, to the foreign policies of Malaysia, Indonesia, Japan and the Chinese Peoples’ Republic, and the international behaviour of the smaller states of South-East Asia, and to Australia’s relations with them. Work is also being done on aspects of Australian defence policy. A research project has been carried out on the South-East Asia Treaty Organization. The Department also pursues theoretical studies of basic questions in international relations. Interests centre on the development of models for the analysis of the political process and the comparative study of international systems. Work has been conducted on the effects of technological change and weapon development for international relations and on the implications of schemes for arms control. The Department is also interested in the background of Australian foreign policy and in Australia’s past diplomatic experience. Theories of international politics, past and present, are studied critically. Research facilities include a Press Library containing a collection of the main Asian English-language newspapers, together with newspaper clippings arranged in accordance with the Department’s general and regional interests.

New Guinea Research Unit

The Unit assists personnel from the departments of the Research School of Pacific Studies working in Australian Papua-New Guinea as well as conducting research through an inter-disciplinary approach to applied problems on its own initiative. It began active work in January 1961, and has established permanent housing and other facilities for research personnel resident in Papua-New Guinea. The Unit’s principal research projects include the process of urbanization in Port Moresby and the relation of land tenure to particular aspects of productivity. In addition the Unit has co-operated with the Territory Administration in the analysis of an unofficial census of the indigenous population of Port Moresby and environs; and is making a study of the relation of school teachers to the community in which they reside and the attitude of indigenous parents to schools and schooling. Through the generosity of the Rural Credits Development Fund of the Reserve Bank of Australia, the Unit has been able to develop work into subsistence agriculture and cash cropping in the Territory. This work is co-ordinated with grants from the same fund made to the Department of Economics.
in the Research School of Pacific Studies covering land settlement and particular aspects of cash cropping. Co-operation with the departments of the School is maintained through daily contact and formally by a committee controlling the Unit's activities under the chairmanship of the Director. (Address of Port Moresby Office: Box 419, G.P.O., Port Moresby. Cables: Natuniv Port Moresby. Telephone: Port Moresby 5756. Contact may also be made through the Unit's office in Canberra.)

Pacific History

The Department is concerned with the study of problems relating to sustained contact between western and indigenous cultures in the Pacific Islands and in South Asia, principally Indonesia and Malaysia. The general focus of this study is that of the colonial society: its origins, its functions, and its development towards self-rule and national independence. Fields of enquiry include political development and the formulation of administrative policy; the establishment and operation of commercial, industrial, and plantation enterprises, labour traffic, and land policies; and missionary activity. Much of the Department's research requires the use of unpublished records held by government archives, mission societies, commercial firms, research libraries, and private persons. Field trips are frequently undertaken to engage in documentary research and to collect data from informants associated with the areas being studied. The Department also offers a programme of seminars based upon its current research.

THE FACULTY OF ARTS

Classics

The Department offers full pass and honours courses in both Latin and Greek, a one year course in each of Greek Civilization and Roman Civilization (art, history and literature in translation), and supervision for the master's degree in Classics. The courses are designed to allow the fullest scope to the special abilities of the staff and the special interests of the individual student by offering in the second and third years optional topics of study rather than set books.

Greek

The first-year course assumes no knowledge of Greek and is devoted to mastering the elements of the language, a special course being available for those with adequate previous knowledge. Greek II and III comprise two courses in Greek history, two set texts and a series of options covering aspects of the history, literature, thought, art and language of Greece, together with exercise in translation into Greek and extensive reading of Greek literature. Greek Studies
A and B are primarily for honours students: the first studies the transmission of classical Greek civilization to the Roman, Byzantine and later European world; the second, the origins of Greek civilization between the Homeric world and the Persian wars. The fourth year concentrates on some particular period of Greek civilization and studies in detail its history, literature, art, thought and language.

Latin

There is a course available for students with no previous knowledge of Latin, and students may under certain conditions pass from this into the second and third years. The normal first year provides an extensive study of Virgil or Cicero coupled with intensive grammatical training and an introduction to Roman history. Latin II and III comprise two courses in Roman history, one set text and a series of options covering aspects of the history, literature, thought, art and language of Rome together with exercise in translation into Latin and extensive reading of Latin literature. Latin Studies A and B are primarily for honours students: the first studies the debt of mediaeval and Renaissance Europe to the Roman world; the second, the early Imperial period. The fourth year concentrates on some particular period of Roman civilization and studies in detail its history, literature, art, thought and language.

English

For the Pass Degree of Bachelor of Arts the Department of English offers two three-year courses—English Literature, and Early English Literature and Language—and two one-year courses, Australian Literature and American Literature. In English Literature (which deals with major poets, novelists and dramatists since the sixteenth century), Australian Literature and American Literature, an historical approach serves as the basis for training in the discipline of literary criticism, which is the main purpose. In Early English Literature and Language the aim is to promote a critical understanding of mediaeval literature through a precise knowledge of its language and an acquaintance with its cultural background. For the honours degree a comprehensive study of English Literature (both mediaeval and modern) is required in the first three years, while in the fourth a special period is chosen for detailed investigation. Supervision is also offered to candidates for the Master of Arts degree, who are provided with courses in critical theory and methods of scholarship.

Geography

The Department is being developed to offer a balanced coverage of teaching and research in physical and human geography. General surveys are complemented by detailed consideration of research problems and methods. It is hoped that, in due course, the subject will become available to students in Science as well as in Arts and Economics. Pass and honours students pursue a common course, but after first year, honours students read additional courses and in their fourth year devote their attention exclusively to geographical studies. Research work is at present being carried on by staff and by candidates for the Master of Arts degree in the fields of coastal geomorphology and conservation, climatology and hydrology, political, and social (including medical) geography. Close relations are maintained with the Department of Geography in the Research School of Pacific Studies in the Institute of Advanced Studies.

History
The three courses available in history for first year students proceeding to a pass degree in Arts, Economics, or Law, are British History from the eighteenth to the twentieth centuries, Ancient History concentrating on the Hellenistic world, and a study of the making of the main social forces and ideas at work in the contemporary world (Modern History A). In later years the choice is from American History, Australian History, more recent European History (since 1815), and Indian History. The honours courses consist in more extensive explorations of phases or aspects of the periods listed above, together with an introduction to the masters of historical writing, for the light they throw both on these topics, and on the fundamental questions of method and understanding in the study of the human past. Successful honours students at present proceed direct to a Master of Arts degree by writing a thesis; pass students who wish to take out the master's degree first study three of the honours degree subjects, and pass a qualifying examination in them.

Mathematics
The Departments of Pure Mathematics and Applied Mathematics each offer full courses for the pass degree and for the honours degree. These courses may be taken concurrently by a student specializing in mathematics as part of a bachelor's degree in Arts or Science, while sections of these courses may also be taken by students specializing in other subjects.

The courses for the pass degree extend over three years giving an introduction to the basic mathematical disciplines and their applications. The honours degree requires additional work in Mathematics including a fourth year of study. It may be taken either as an honours degree in Pure and Applied Mathematics, or as a degree in either of these combined with some other subject, such as Statistics or Theoretical Physics. A combined honours course in Pure Mathematics and Philosophy is also provided. Beyond this the Departments offer postgraduate courses leading to the master's degree and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The major research interests of the Departments are at present in group theory, abstract analysis, numerical analysis, theoretical astronomy and hydrodynamics.

Modern Languages

French

For the Pass Degree of Bachelor of Arts the Department offers a three-year course in French Language and Literature, and a two-year course in French Studies. The former is designed to give students a good command of spoken and written French, an acquaintance with French civilization, a knowledge of literary history, a training in the methods of literary criticism, and an appreciation of works by major writers from the seventeenth century onwards. French Studies consist of the early history of the language together with literature of the Middle Ages and of the sixteenth century. Candidates for the degree with honours take all five of these units in their first three years. The fourth-year syllabus consists of literature of the twentieth century, further studies in the literature of previous centuries, and advanced language work.

The research interests of the present staff lie in the following fields: the mediaeval chroniclers, the theatre in the Middle Ages and the sixteenth century, the nineteenth- and twentieth-century novel, the twentieth-century theatre, and comparative literature.

German

For the Pass Degree of Bachelor of Arts the Department offers a three-year course in German Language and Literature, and a two-year course in German Studies. The former is designed to give students a good command of spoken and written German, an acquaintance with German civilization, a knowledge of literary history, a training in the methods of literary criticism, and an appreciation of works by major writers from the eighteenth century onwards. German Studies consist of the early history of the language together with literature of the Middle Ages and of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Candidates for the degree with honours take all five of these units in their first three years. The fourth-year syllabus consists of further literary studies, advanced language work, and either mediaeval philology or stylistic appreciation. An alternative course (German IA) is specially designed to provide, in one year, a practical knowledge of German for those who have not previously studied the language. Students who have passed German IA and who undertake further studies in the following long vacation, may, after a further examination at the end of February, be admitted to German Language and Literature II.

The research work of the staff has, in the main, been devoted to problems of comparative linguistics (translation, bilingualism), syntax and stylistics, special aspects of the literature of the Romantic movement (Hölderlin, Schlegel), and the modern drama ('Hörspiel').

Russian

For the Pass Degree of Bachelor of Arts the Department offers a three-year course in Russian. This is designed to provide facility in modern written and spoken Russian, an appreciation of works by major writers, particularly of the nineteenth century, a training in methods of literary criticism and an introduction to the development of Russian Civilization. No previous knowledge of the language is assumed. Candidates for the degree with honours take additional courses in Russian literature, language, society and thought in their first three years, and undertake specialized studies in these fields in their final year. The fourth-year syllabus consists of Soviet literature, further literary studies or Soviet Institutions, and advanced language work.

The chief areas of research interest of the present staff are nineteenth and twentieth century Literature, and Russian history and social thought.

In all three sections of the Department of Modern Languages, supervision is available for candidates for the degree of Master of Arts.

Philosophy

The Department engages in teaching and research work in all the main fields of philosophical enquiry. Its teaching programme comprises six unit courses for Arts students, designed also, in some cases, to be of value to students in other faculties, and a series of special honours courses to which students reading for the pure honours degree in Philosophy devote their whole time in their third and fourth years. Research work, at the present time, is concerned mainly with problems in ethics, philosophy of mind, philosophy of science (natural and social), epistemology and metaphysics, and Greek philosophy. Facilities are available for students doing postgraduate work in Arts on these and other philosophical problems.

Political Science

The Department offers courses at both pass and honours levels in political theory and institutions, public administration and international relations for the bachelor's degree in either Arts or Economics. For the Arts degree, political science units may be combined with a wide range of units offered by other departments in the Faculty of Arts; for the Economics degree, a margin of choice is available but there is a core of prescribed and co-ordinated units in economics, political science and statistics. An honours degree course in political science requires, besides the special (fourth) honours year, additional work at the higher standard in five of the ten units undertaken in the first three years of the course. The Department offers postgraduate courses in the fields already indicated for the degree of Master of Arts or Master of Economics.

Psychology

Pass courses in psychology within the Faculty of Arts are planned to contribute to the general educational background of students proposing to follow occupations other than psychology. The emphasis here is upon understanding behaviour, personality and the interaction of persons in groups. Both the honours programme in Arts and pass courses in the Faculty of Science are designed to provide the necessary basis in psychological method and findings for advanced research in psychology or for the practice of psychology as a profession. Applied psychology, as such, is not taught.

The Department pursues no co-ordinated research programme though it leans towards an emphasis upon aspects of social psychology. Currently research is in progress in the areas of group behaviour, socialization, the counselling relationship, personality theory, the development of thought processes and perception, and general experimental psychology.

THE FACULTY OF ECONOMICS

Accounting and Public Finance

The Department undertakes research and offers courses in accounting and public finance in the Faculty of Economics. Accounting is studied, not as a professional subject, but as a basic academic discipline among the social sciences. Emphasis is therefore placed on theoretical aspects of accounting and on its role in relation to business management, public administration and the formulation of national economic policy.

Accounting I is a self-contained course in the elements of accounting. Accounting II is a course in management accounting and business finance, which is especially concerned with the contribution that accounting can make to the managerial tasks of decision-making, planning and control. Accounting III is a course in public authority accounting and national economic (or social) accounting. Special emphasis is placed on the role of accounting in providing governments and other public authorities with the information they need to manage their own affairs effectively and to formulate national economic policy.

A fourth honours year is available to students wishing to specialize in accounting.

The course in Public Finance is an optional one-year unit which is most conveniently taken in the third year of the pass degree. It is concerned chiefly with taxation theory and policy, public expenditure theory and policy, government financial institutions and the national debt.
A graduate who has obtained a bachelor's degree in economics or commerce at a recognized university may enrol for the degree of Master of Economics in accounting or public finance.

The Department's research activity is concerned mainly with problems of public authority accounting (including the accounts of public enterprises), national economic accounting and public finance in Australia.

Economic History
The Department conducts teaching and research in economic history and history of economic thought, its courses being available both in the Faculty of Economics and the Faculty of Arts. Four units are offered, all of which deal chiefly with modern periods. Economic History I is intended as an introductory survey and is concerned primarily with British and American development since the late eighteenth century. It also includes a discussion of international economic conditions from 1919. Economic History II offers an intensive course on the economic development of Australia, together with a comparative study of the historical experience of growth in Australia and some other countries. The syllabus in Economic History III includes the economic development of Japan since c. 1867 and the U.S.S.R. since 1917. History of Economic Thought discusses the development of economic theory in relation to economic problems and policies since the seventeenth century.

A fourth honours year is available to students wishing to specialize in Economic History.

The Department's research interests lie mainly in Australian economic history and the history of economic thought. For the latter, materials are available in the Kashnor Collection at the National Library of Australia, as well as the University Library.

Economics
Degree courses in economics can be taken either in the Faculty of Economics or in the Faculty of Arts. In the Economics Faculty the emphasis is on professional training; economics is studied in combination with related disciplines such as statistics, mathematics, economic history, political science or accounting. In the Arts Faculty, the economics major can be combined with a variety of Arts subjects. The economics major consists of three one-year courses, in which the student studies the main branches of economic theory, the organization of business enterprise and the main problems of economic policy. Throughout, the course is closely related to Australian conditions, but much attention is given to international economics and the economic affairs of nations with whom Australia has important trade relations. In addition to the three central courses, there are one-year courses in public finance, mathematical economics, labour economics, agricultural economics, history of economic thought and economic geography.
Honours students are required to take the pass course with some additional honours work in the first three years and a fourth honours year in which they do advanced work in economics. The Department offers postgraduate courses in economics for the degrees of Master of Arts and Master of Economics.

Political Science
See under the Faculty of Arts.

Statistics
Statistics is concerned with the process of drawing inferences from data which have been generated by some mechanism in which chance elements play a part. As such its study is closely associated with that of the Theory of Probability. The Department provides a (non-mathematical) course in statistical methods for economists and it is hoped in the future to provide a course of the same type for natural scientists. In addition a series of courses is given dealing with the theory of the statistical methods as well as their practice. These courses, which are mathematical in content, also deal with various applications of the Theory of Probability so that a considerable part of that range of subjects which is often called 'Operations Research' is covered.

Research in the Department at present consists of work in mathematical statistics and applied probability, and in the applications of statistical methods. Fields of special interest are time series analysis, queuing theory, population genetics and theories of traffic flow.

THE FACULTY OF LAW
The Faculty of Law offers courses for the Pass Degree of Bachelor of Laws, the Degree of Bachelor of Laws with Honours and the Degree of Master of Laws. A full-time student can complete the undergraduate course for the degree of Bachelor of Laws in four years. The course may also be taken part-time. It is possible to complete a combined Arts/Law course leading to qualification for the two degrees in five years of complete full-time study.

A student taking the Bachelor of Laws degree course receives basic training in New South Wales, Victorian and Commonwealth law. In addition to the inclusion of legal subjects of direct practical value, the course includes subjects which have a more general perspective making possible an appreciation of the totality and function of law in modern society.

The Bachelor of Laws degree is now recognized in Victoria and New South Wales as a professional qualification. Australian National University graduates may, subject to completing certain postgraduate requirements prescribed in the two States, practise in Victoria as a barrister and solicitor or in New South Wales as a barrister or solicitor. State requirements refer principally to the service of articles under a qualified solicitor. In Victoria one year's articles are served after graduation and in New South Wales if a graduate wishes to practise as a solicitor he must undertake two years' articles. There is no requirement as to articles in New South Wales for a graduate who intends to practise at the Bar.

After admission in either State a graduate may have his name entered on the High Court Register which entitles him to practise in all federal jurisdictions, including the Australian Capital Territory.

THE FACULTY OF ORIENTAL STUDIES

Chinese
The full three-year course includes both modern and classical Chinese. The course in modern Mandarin aims to develop a practical skill and an active command of the Chinese language as spoken and written today. The first year is wholly devoted to basic language study. The more advanced second and third-year courses include readings of a representative selection of contemporary literature, newspaper texts and documentary prose.

Classical Chinese is introduced in the second year. In the third year the students read an extensive selection of classical and mediaeval texts composed by China's great philosophers, historians, essayists and poets.

A fourth-year honours programme provides intensive courses in classical, mediaeval and modern literature.

General Linguistics
This course aims to acquaint students with the principles of linguistic analysis, phonetics, phonemics, morphology and syntax.

The first year of the course is a general survey of linguistics (synchronic and diachronic) with some emphasis on the development of practical phonetic skills. The second year is concerned with more advanced study of contemporary problems in linguistics, such as phonemics and syntax, and practical work with informants in the analysis of an unknown language.

Indonesian Languages and Literature
The courses offered are Bahasa Indonesia and Malay* I, II and III, and Javanese I and II. Instruction in certain other Indonesian languages (Minangkabau, Sundanese, Balinese) can be arranged as required.

Bahasa Indonesia and Malay I is devoted to Bahasa Indonesia, the national language of Indonesia, as a modern language, and is designed to give the student competence in the basic skills of speech, reading and composition.

* For convenience, modern Malay and Bahasa Indonesia are grouped together. During the first two years, however, the major emphasis is laid on Bahasa Indonesia.
Bahasa Indonesia and Malay II is likewise modern in orientation, and aims to develop a more active command of the language. During this year, emphasis is laid on the cultural and documentary aspects of the texts studied.

Bahasa Indonesia and Malay III includes the study of texts in so-called classical Malay, and other older forms of the language. However, an important proportion of this course is given to the continued development of practical skills and modern literary studies.

Javanese I is a course in the literary language, accepted as standard since the seventeenth century. Prescribed texts include selections from local chronicles and Javanese religious and ethical works. Javanese II is a course devoted to the forms of the language extant between the tenth and the sixteenth centuries. Prescribed texts include selections from Old Javanese historical works, court poems and renderings of the great Indian epics.

Since many of the standard works for studies in the Indonesian field (dictionaries and grammars for linguistic work, monographs and articles for historical studies) are in Dutch, a two-hour per week tutorial class in Dutch is provided within the Faculty. This class is recommended for pass students, compulsory for honours students, and is normally to be followed in the second year. Separate enrolment is not necessary.

Japanese

The object of the course is to introduce the student to spoken Japanese, to build a firm foundation for reading Japanese, and to provide some practice in the writing of Japanese.

During the first year the basic colloquial style only is studied; Chinese characters and the Japanese syllabary, as well as the romanized script, are taught; and texts in kana-majiri (Japanese writing) are read. An intensive course in basic colloquial Japanese grammar is provided which includes drill in writing simple Japanese sentences in kana-majiri. During the second year more advanced colloquial grammar is studied, with emphasis on the reading of texts in modern periodical style, and systematic practice in prose composition in Japanese. In the third year alternative courses—classical or modern emphasis—are offered. In the classical course literary and historical texts from the earliest periods to modern times are studied to give training in the reading of sorobun (epistolary), bungo (literary), kambun (Sino-Japanese), ‘Azuma Kagamibun (quasi Sino-Japanese) and koyobun (official) styles. In the modern course difficult modern periodical style and rombun, i.e. the style of academic and scientific articles, are studied together with modern Japanese literature and journalistic materials and Meiji period writings. A fourth-year honours course is provided covering modern and classical Japanese styles and lectures are given.
on modern and classical Japanese literature. Some lectures take the form of seminar periods during which students obtain guidance in producing their own renderings of hitherto untranslated works, and preparing them in a form suitable for publication. Training in reading modern periodical style and in prose-composition in Japanese is continued. Seminars in modern Japanese social institutions are held to provide background.

During the entire course training in calligraphy is available; and oral drill is provided, consisting in conversational practice under the guidance of native Japanese tutors, listening to recorded Japanese speech and participation in discussion groups conducted in Japanese.

Oriental Civilization

In order to acquaint the student with Asian culture, five special courses are presented. The introductory course in Oriental Civilization gives a general survey of the social forces which moulded the states of the Orient. It integrates the civilization of these various countries into the wider picture of Asian history and world history itself. In the more advanced second and third year courses the student is offered a choice between a Far Eastern and a South-East Asian specialization. The Far Eastern courses deal in some detail with the history, institutions and thought of China and Japan. The South-East Asian course, while not neglecting the continental countries of the area, is mainly concerned with Indonesia. In both regions, apart from political history, emphasis is also given to archaeology, literature, philosophy, art, religion and anthropology.

THE FACULTY OF SCIENCE

Botany

Instruction is given in Botany leading to the pass and honours degree of Bachelor of Science. Facilities are available for research as part of the preparation for the higher degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy. The main research interests of the Department at present are studies in inheritance and breeding systems, experimental taxonomy, plant physiology particularly relating to growth substances and photosynthesis and also studies in mycorrhizae.

The Department is temporarily housed in a wing of the permanent Physics Building and preliminary planning of a permanent building to house the Department of Botany has been undertaken. It is hoped that this will be constructed during 1967. A group of four glasshouses for raising plants for experimental use has been provided on the campus on a site immediately adjoining that intended for the permanent departmental building. In addition four glasshouses are being added to the group. Several phytotron cabinets are available for controlled environment studies, both in the Department and in the phytotron itself. Facilities are available too for work in the field.

Chemistry
The Department was founded in 1959, when 26 first-year students were enrolled. Since the beginning of 1961 a full undergraduate course and a postgraduate research programme have been carried on. The Department is located in a new, well equipped building which has permitted the improvement of the teaching and research programmes.

Research is in progress in the following fields: atomic molecular spectroscopy, heterocyclic systems, macromolecular structures (including proteins), organic-natural products, co-ordination chemistry, X-ray crystallography, electrochemistry, photochemistry.

Geology
In 1965 the Department will offer the normal courses of instruction in Geology for the pass and honours degree. In addition, facilities are provided for research towards the higher degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy. The principal research interests in the Department are in the fields of invertebrate palaeontology and micropalaeontology, igneous, metamorphic and sedimentary petrology, stratigraphy, structural geology, economic geology and petroleum geology.

Mathematics
See under the Faculty of Arts.

Physics
In addition to the regular pass and honours courses of instruction in Physics towards the Bachelor of Science degree, facilities are provided for research towards the higher degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy. The major research interests in the Department are in the fields of low energy atomic and nuclear collision processes, solid state physics and high temperature gas dynamics.

The Department is located in a well equipped building which provides the customary workshop and service facilities for both teaching and research.

Theoretical Physics
Theoretical Physics seeks to subject empirical information to the scrutiny of formal or mathematical analysis, and, by a process of abstraction, formation of concepts, and generalization, to arrive at the formulation of natural laws. The Department, which is housed in the Physics Building, gives instruction in Theoretical Physics at third and fourth year levels for the pass and honours degree. In addition facilities are provided for research leading to the higher degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy. At present the principal research interests in the Department are in the fields of quantum mechanics, general relativity theory and optical aberration theory.

Psychology
See under the Faculty of Arts.

Zoology
Zoology may be broadly defined as the study of the animal kingdom in all its aspects. The Department offers undergraduate courses extending over three years for a pass degree and four years for an honours degree. Facilities for the postgraduate work leading to the degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy are available. The research interests of the Department are chiefly centred around invertebrate physiology, parasitology, freshwater biology, histochemistry and ecology.

The Department has now occupied a new well equipped building.

THE DEPARTMENT OF ADULT EDUCATION

The Department provides courses for persons who are interested in further education but who may not wish to undertake the usual degree courses. At present these courses range in length from short courses lasting a single term to three-year language courses. The Department will also make arrangements with interested organizations for single lectures by members of the University staff.

In each class session members are encouraged to take part in discussions. The subjects included in the syllabus vary from time to time but include subjects in the sciences as well as in the humanities. The range of subjects offered at present is limited but is being extended as circumstances permit to cover a wide range of topics of interest to adults.

Materials for discussion groups and kit groups are supplied by the University of Sydney but these groups may be arranged by residents of the Australian Capital Territory as well as those residing in New South Wales.

Schools lasting a day or a week-end, refresher courses, a residential school and linked week-end schools have been held in Canberra and in regional centres. Their success has indicated a need for longer and more frequent vacation schools in the future.
GENERAL INFORMATION

ADMISSION AND TRAINING OF RESEARCH STUDENTS IN THE INSTITUTE OF ADVANCED STUDIES

The University confers, on the recommendation of the Institute of Advanced Studies, the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, to which most of its research students proceed, and higher doctorates in Letters, Law and Science. Honorary degrees of Doctor of Letters, Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Science may also be conferred. Research students admitted by the School may, in certain circumstances, study in the Institute for masters' degrees.

Before being admitted as a research student a candidate will normally be required to show that he has graduated from this or another university of senior standing and that he has since had an initial training in research.

In general, students for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy will be required to spend three years of full-time work in the University and will during that time be required to live in Canberra. Those whose fields of study make field work important are given opportunities to undertake such work and may receive contributions towards their expenses. Periods of field work are counted as part of the study required for a degree.

The principal work of the research student is the pursuit of an approved piece of research under supervision, and the submission of a thesis based upon that research. There is an oral examination on the thesis. The student is also given training in the research techniques required for the pursuit of his subject, and opportunities for considering the relationship of this specialized work with a more general background of theory. In most cases research students are required to attend some seminar classes and to prepare interim papers.

Research students who do not hold awards which provide exemption from fees are required to pay an inclusive fee of fifty guineas per annum.

Unmarried research students enrolled for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy normally live in University House.

A number of scholarships is awarded each year to enable students from Australia and elsewhere to come to the University and study for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Medical Scholarships may be awarded to those legally qualified to practice medicine. Applications for enrolment as research students or for the award of scholarships may be made at any time. The main selection of scholars is made in May and November each year and advertisements are accordingly issued in February and August.

The House also possesses a library of long-playing records which may be borrowed by members in accordance with the rules prescribed by the Gramophone Committee.

STUDENT RESIDENCE

Students can be assisted to find suitable residential accommodation in Canberra but the University cannot guarantee a place for each applicant.

Accommodation is available in:

(i) University controlled halls of residence—Bruce Hall, Lennox House and two new halls now being built, the first of which, Burton Hall, will be in operation in 1965;

(ii) University approved private lodgings.
Bruce Hall

Bruce Hall is situated on the University site at the western end of University Avenue. It has single study-bedrooms for 110 men and 100 women students. It is in the charge of the Warden, assisted by the Deputy Warden and the Women's Sub-Warden. The Hall also accommodates a number of the teaching staff of the University.

Lennox House

The University has 120 single study-bedrooms for male students in Lennox House, a group of old hostel buildings on the University site. University students resident in Lennox House are in the charge of the Warden who is assisted by a Deputy Warden and a number of Sub-Wardens. Some members of the teaching staff also live in Lennox House.

Burton Hall

Burton Hall is one of two new halls at present being built close to Bruce Hall. It will have its own residential section and dining and common rooms but it will share with the other hall a kitchen, offices and recreational facilities. Burton Hall will be opened in 1965 but the other hall will not be in operation until 1966.

Organization

Each hall of residence has a governing body consisting of the Warden and Deputy Warden and a number of elected and appointed Fellows. The Warden is the head of the hall and is assisted by a Deputy Warden and Sub-Wardens.

Admission

Applications for admission to Bruce Hall, Lennox House and Burton Hall should be made to the Warden of Bruce Hall on the prescribed form which is available from him or from the Student Administration Section. Applications should be lodged by 31 October each year.

Residence fees become due and payable on the first day of each residence term and must be paid within two weeks of the commencement of each resident term. The Registrar, School of General Studies, may approve payment of fees by the half term, or by instalments in case of hardship.

In addition, on first accepting a place, a registration fee of £5, and a deposit of £10 (which is returnable on finally leaving the residence) are required. Students readmitted will be required to pay an advance of £15 on their residence fees for the First Term, the payment to be made not later than 15 January 1965. The advance will be forfeited should a student not come into residence.

Students in residence are required to become members of the appropriate resident students' organization.

Residents of halls of residence are required to possess an undergraduate gown which can be hired from the Warden of their hall.
Fees

The residence fees, exclusive of vacations, payable at the halls in 1965 are:

Private Lodgings

Each year the University seeks for students private lodgings which it inspects and approves. Information concerning such accommodation is available from the Registrar, School of General Studies.

UNIVERSITY UNION

A University Union has been established. It is a society of university students and staff which aims to provide in the University a common meeting place for its members and to promote their intellectual and social interests and general welfare.

The Union is an integral part of the University. Its constitution, granted by the Council, gives it a substantial degree of freedom in the management of its affairs. It is managed by a Board of Management, the membership of which includes representatives of the University Council, the students (undergraduate and postgraduate) and the staff.

Located in Ellery Circuit near the General Studies Building of the University Library, the Union occupies University premises specially designed for its purposes. The premises provide dining, common and recreation rooms, rooms for student clubs and societies, and for student welfare services.

Membership is open to students, staff, members of the Council and Convocation, and graduates of the University. Undergraduates and students proceeding to masters' degrees are required to be members. Each ordinary member pays an entrance fee of £3 and an annual fee of £6. (This fee is reduced by £4 for part-time students.)

The Secretary of the Union is E. C. de Toth, B.A. (W. Aust.).

SCANDINAVIAN—AUSTRALIAN CULTURAL FUNDS

In 1952, to mark Australia's Jubilee Year, the Danish, Norwegian and Swedish communities in Australia each raised a fund for the encouragement of close and friendly scientific, educational and cultural relations between their countries and Australia, particularly by assistance towards meeting the expenses of visits in either direction. The administration of the funds was vested in the Australian National University.

Applications for grants from the income of the funds are invited in September or October each year from persons who wish, for reasons connected with their work, to visit one of the Scandinavian countries. Grants, which are usually of the order of £50-£100, are awarded for visits to one of the three Scandinavian countries in rotation over a three-year period. For example, awards for 1965 were for visits to Denmark; in 1966 Sweden will probably be chosen and in 1967 Norway—this cycle to be repeated in subsequent years. Grants are payable on 1 July each year.

The University retains the right to make grants at other times, in suitable cases if funds allow. The availability of the funds is also made known in the Scandinavian countries for the benefit of persons intending to visit Australia.

MEMBERSHIP OF INTER-UNIVERSITY BODIES

The University is a member of the Association of Commonwealth Universities, whose headquarters are at 36 Gordon Square, London, W.C.1. The Secretary of the Association, Dr J. F. Foster, will gladly answer enquiries about the University, with whose development he has been closely concerned. Details of appointments and awards offered by the University are available from the Association.

The University is also a member of the International Association of Universities, whose offices are at 19 Avenue Kléber, Paris 16, and of the Australian Institute of Nuclear Science and Engineering.

VICE-CHANCELLOR'S DISCRETIONARY FUND

The Vice-Chancellor has at his disposal a Discretionary Fund from which he can make grants, or more usually loans, to staff and students of the University who are suffering particular financial hardship.

Applications may be made to the Vice-Chancellor; enquiries may be made to him or to a senior administrative officer.

THE MORRISON LECTURE*

The George Ernest Morrison Lecture was founded by Chinese residents in Australia and others in honour of the late Dr G. E. Morrison, a native of Geelong, Victoria. The lecture was established with the object of improving cultural relations between China and Australia, the intention of the founders being that it should be delivered each year on a subject broadly covered by the title Ethnology. From the time of its inception until 1948 the lecture was associated with the Australian Institute of Anatomy, but in that year the responsibility for the management of the lectureship was accepted by the University. Since 1948 the following lectures have been delivered:

* These lectures have been printed and are available on application to the Registrar.
Professor J. K. Rideout (Department of Oriental Languages, University of Sydney), ‘Politics in Medieval China’, 28 October 1949.

Lord Lindsay of Birker (Senior Research Fellow in International Relations, The Australian National University), ‘China and the West’, 20 October 1953.

Professor H. Bielenstein (Department of Oriental Languages, Canberra University College), ‘Emperor Kwang-wu and the Northern Barbarians’, 2 November 1955.

Dr L. B. Cox (President of the National Gallery Society of Melbourne), ‘The Cave-Temples of Yun-kang and Lung-mên’, 17 October 1956.

OTHER UNIVERSITY LECTURES

The University arranges a programme of public lectures each year. It is also the University’s practice to invite newly appointed professors to give Inaugural Lectures.
OTHER OFFICIAL PUBLICATIONS

The University furnishes an annual report of its academic, financial and other transactions to the Governor-General and the report is tabled in Parliament. Copies of these reports are available on request to the Registrar. The introductory section of the report for the year 1963 will be found on pages 315-41.

The Australian National University News, which gives information about University developments, including staff appointments, is available on request to the Registrar.

The University also publishes a Faculty Handbook which contains details of the courses available in the School of General Studies. The Handbook can be obtained from the Registrar, School of General Studies, price 7/6 (post free).

Several other publications containing general information about the University are available on request to the Registrar.

STAFF ASSOCIATION

Membership is open to all those on the staff of the University possessing university degrees or equivalent professional qualifications, including senior administrative, library and technical officers.

A committee of seven, consisting of a President, two Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, a Treasurer and two other members, is elected annually to conduct the affairs of the Association between general meetings.

GENERAL STAFF ASSOCIATION INCORPORATED

The Association was formed in 1953 to promote the interests of members, to maintain and improve the conditions of their employment and the relations between them and their employer and to advance the well-being of the University. To further these ends, the Association, which includes in its membership all categories of non-academic staff, has negotiated improved conditions of employment, has served as an effective channel of communication between the University administration and staff, and is actively engaged in promoting educational opportunities for its members in Canberra.

A Conciliation/Welfare Officer works in close co-operation with an Executive Council which is elected annually and represents members in all sections of the University.

STUDENTS' ASSOCIATIONS

There are two students' associations in the University—the Australian National University Research Students' Association and the Australian National University Students' Association. Through these Associations the views of students on matters affecting their welfare and the welfare of the University are made known to the academic and administrative staff. The students elect two representatives to the University Council.
Membership of the Australian National University Students’ Association, and of the Sports Union, is compulsory for all students enrolled in the School of General Studies. At the beginning of each academic year the Students’ Representative Council, which is the executive committee of the Australian National University Students’ Association, organizes an Orientation Week programme to introduce new students to the University.

The Students’ Representative Council controls student clubs, societies and social functions. It operates a student loan fund which grants loans to students in need of assistance.

The executive committee of the Sports Union, called the Sports Council, is the controlling body for all student sport in the University.

All students enrolled in the Institute of Advanced Studies for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and for courses of research not leading to a degree, are members of the Australian National University Research Students’ Association. Through their membership of the Australian National University Students’ Association all students enrolled for the degree of master automatically become members of the Australian National University Research Students’ Association. This Association has at its disposal a small welfare fund, loans or grants from which may be made to research students at the discretion of the trustees of the fund, who are themselves research students. It also operates thesis typing and group insurance schemes, both in conjunction with the University.

STUDENT COUNSELLING

A student counselling service is available. During 1965 the Counsellor will be Mrs Margaret H. Evans.

Students who feel the need of advice on study methods, adjustment to academic life and research, or personal difficulties which may affect their progress, are strongly advised to consult Mrs Evans. She will not give advice related to academic matters within the province of the head of department. There will be no charge for this service and professional confidence will be observed.

Appointments to see Mrs Evans should be made through her secretary in the University Union.

PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE

The Publications Committee administers a fund to assist in the publication of works embodying the results of research undertaken in the University or of work cognate with that research. There is a small editorial section, which prepares manuscripts for publication and sees them through the press. While primarily concerned with the works for which it accepts responsibility, the Committee and its staff are available to staff and students for advice on publication matters generally.
SCHOLARSHIPS
POSTGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS

COMMONWEALTH POSTGRADUATE AWARDS

The Commonwealth Government provides a number of awards each year for postgraduate students in Australian universities. Applicants must be permanently resident in Australia but this does not exclude Australians temporarily resident abroad.

Students may enrol for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy (the course for which extends over three years) or for the degrees of Master of Arts, Master of Arts (Oriental Studies), Master of Economics, Master of Laws or Master of Science (a one or possibly two-year course). A scholarship will normally be extended for the whole period of the approved course.

The scholarship allowance is £982 per annum tax free for scholars enrolled for a master's degree and £1,065 per annum tax free for those enrolled for a degree of Doctor of Philosophy (or £1,536 for scholars with appropriate medical qualifications). Married scholars with dependent children are granted additional allowances of £325 per annum in respect of the first child and a further £95 per annum for each other child. Married scholars without children whose wives are not in employment are granted an additional allowance of £230 per annum. Scholars will be exempted from University fees. Fares to and from Canberra on the commencement and expiration of the scholarship will be paid.

COMMONWEALTH SCHOLARSHIP AND FELLOWSHIP PLAN

Under the Commonwealth Scholarship and Fellowship Plan various Commonwealth countries provide scholarships open to students from other parts of the Commonwealth. Countries which have from time to time invited applications from Australian graduates for these scholarships are Britain, Canada, New Zealand, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Malaya, Hong Kong, Nigeria, Rhodesia and Nyasaland, East Africa, Malta and Jamaica. They do not all invite applications every year.

The scholarships are tenable for a programme of postgraduate study or research normally extending over two academic years and leading to a university degree or similar qualification. Awards are sometimes made, however, for one academic year, or the two-year term may be extended for a third year.

Candidates must be Commonwealth citizens or British protected persons, normally resident in the country nominating them and prepared to return to that country at the end of the scholarship period.

Candidates should be under the age of 35 years and graduates of a university or college, or holders of an equivalent qualification by the time of taking up the award. Preference is given to candidates who are between 22 and 28 years of age.

The value of the scholarships varies from one country to another but usually provides return fares, tuition fees, a grant for books and equipment, approved medical expenses and a personal maintenance allowance. In addition, in some countries a marriage allowance may be provided if the scholar is accompanied by his wife and the wife is not in employment or in receipt of a scholarship herself.

Details of the awards offered by each country and information concerning the procedure for applying are available from the Registrar. Inquiries should be made well in advance, as applications frequently close some 10 to 12 months before the beginning of the academic year in which the awards are tenable.

GENERAL MOTORS-HOLDEN'S LIMITED POSTGRADUATE RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS

General Motors-Holden's Limited, under its Postgraduate Research Fellowship Plan, provides 25 Postgraduate Fellowships, tenable at Australian universities.

The Fellowships range in value from £800 to £1,200 per annum and are tenable for one year with the possibility of an extension up to a total of three years.

Applicants must be university graduates with some research experience and preference in selection is given to students who intend to follow careers in industry, or academic careers (including teaching), in Australia and who have graduated in disciplines related to the sciences, engineering, commerce or economics. Successful applicants may enrol for the degrees of Doctor of Philosophy, Master of Arts, Master of Science or Master of Economics, though preference may be given to applicants who have already qualified for a master's degree.

(b) the contribution for the return journey will be in respect of the fares to the place from which the scholar came or to his immediate destination on leaving Canberra on the conclusion of the scholarship, whichever is the less costly;

For students from the United Kingdom the return allowance is at present £Stg 390. The University will also contribute towards the travel expenses of a scholarship holder’s wife and family (if any) if he was married before the date of embarkation.

The Board will determine the department or departments in the Institute or in the School in which the scholar is to be enrolled. The offer of a scholarship does not imply any commitment by the University as to the subject of the research work to be undertaken or, if field work is necessary, the country or area in which this will be done.

Scholars are subject to the Australian National University Act 1946-1963 and to the Statutes and Rules of the University.

In 1966 the number of scholarships offered will be increased to three each year.

UNDERGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS

ANSETT AIR AND SPACE LAW SCHOLARSHIP

Ansett Transport Industries provide one scholarship annually to the student who obtains the best results in the unit Air and Space Law at the Annual Examinations.

The scholarship is to be awarded for the first time in 1965. In consultation with the Faculty of Law the scholar is expected to undertake a research project relating to the executive policy and administration of the Company’s airlines.

The scholarship provides a cash award of £25 and a grant of free air travel to a total sum of £200.

COMMONWEALTH PUBLIC SERVICE FREE PLACES

The University has a scheme of free places for selected officers of the Commonwealth Public Service stationed in Canberra. (The Commonwealth Government pays half of the lecture fees of the selected officers and the University admits such students at half rates.) The scheme also includes officers proceeding to the degree of master.

The selection of officers is made annually and the grant of a free place is subject to the fulfilment of conditions notified in the Commonwealth Gazette.

COMMONWEALTH SCHOLARSHIPS

The Commonwealth Government provides a number of scholarships each year for open competition among students who wish to undertake tertiary courses at universities and other approved institutions.

The administration of the Commonwealth Scholarship Scheme in New South Wales and the Australian Capital Territory is in the hands of the New South Wales Department of Education, which operates through its Branch Office at the University of Sydney.

The following types of awards are available:

(a) Open Entrance Scholarships: These are awarded in order of merit to applicants who sit for a matriculation qualifying examination in their own state. (Candidates in New South Wales and the Australian Capital Territory are usually considered on the basis of results obtained at the New South Wales Leaving Certificate Examination.) Candidates must be under 25 years of age on 1 January in the year in which they will commence their studies.

(b) Second and Later Years Scholarships:

(i) Second or Third Years. To be eligible students must have passed the full first year of the approved tertiary course at first attempt and they must have made satisfactory progress. Part-time applicants must have completed two part-time years equivalent to one full year of the full-time course.

(ii) Fourth or Later Years. To be eligible it is not necessary to have passed first year at first attempt but progress must have been satisfactory according to the progress rules.

Applicants in both these categories must be under the age of 25 years on 1 January of the year in which they desire to use the Scholarship.

(c) Mature Age Scholarships: These are designed to cater for candidates who did not undertake university or tertiary studies when leaving school but who have decided to do this at a more advanced age.

Age limits are as follows:

(i) Applicants who desire to commence a course must be over the age of 25 years and under the age of 30 years on the 1 January of the year in which the Scholarship is desired;

(ii) Applicants who have completed part of the desired course must have been under 30 years of age on 1 January in the year in which they commenced their course and must be over the age of 25 years.

Mature age applicants may compete on the basis of matriculation results but preference is given to those who have already completed part of their course.

A Commonwealth Scholarship covers all compulsory tuition fees but does not cover the cost of instruments, books or accommodation. Subject to a means test, a living allowance may be paid to a full-time student.

Applications must reach the University Branch Office by 30 September each year. Further information may be obtained from the Registrar, School of General Studies, or the Officer-in-Charge, University Branch Office, New South Wales Department of Education, University Grounds, Sydney.

The University offers a number of scholarships each year to students of the University during their final honours year.

The scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic merit and only to full-time students who do not hold a major scholarship or cadetship. The value of each scholarship is:

(a) £300 per annum to a student living at home; and

(3) A delegation under this section is revocable by resolution of the Council, and no delegation prevents the exercise of a power or function by the Council.

4. The Council shall cause proper accounts and records of the Scheme to be kept.

5. The Council may make agreements with Universities or other educational or research institutions for the setting up of joint machinery to facilitate the transfer of members from a superannuation scheme controlled by one such body to a superannuation scheme controlled by another, and generally in regard to matters affecting the Scheme.

Part III—The Superannuation Scheme

6.—(1) Subject to this section, the following salaried officers and salaried teachers of the University are eligible to be members of the Scheme:

The Vice-Chancellor;
Full-time Members of the Academic Staff;
The holders of offices determined by the Council to be full-time senior administrative offices;
The Librarian;

Such other officers and teachers as the Vice-Chancellor determines.

(2) The Council may, in special circumstances, exempt a person from the requirements of this section.

8A. Where a person appointed or re-appointed as a full-time member of the academic staff—

(a) would, but for this section, be both eligible and required to become a member of the Scheme;

(b) is a contributor under the Superannuation Act 1922-1951; and

(c) informs the Council prior to his appointment or re-appointment that he prefers to continue as a contributor under that Act, he shall not be required to become a member unless and until he ceases to be such a contributor.

8B. Where a person appointed or re-appointed as an officer or teacher but not as a full-time member of the academic staff—

(a) is not a member of the Scheme but would, save for this section, be both eligible and required to become a member; and

(b) informs the Council prior to his appointment or re-appointment that he prefers to become, or to continue as, a contributor under the Superannuation Act 1922-1951, he shall not be required to become a member until the expiration of three months after the date on which his appointment or re-appointment takes effect. If at the expiration of that period he is a contributor under that Act, he shall not be required to become a member unless and until he ceases to be such a contributor.

Part IV—Assurance Policy Benefits

9.—(1) When a person becomes a member he shall effect with an approved life office an endowment assurance policy on his life, or, if he is not less than fifty years of age or has an unassurable life, a pure endowment policy, for such amount as, having regard to his age, is obtainable at an annual premium equal to the contributions payable by the University and himself as provided in this Statute in respect of his salary at the time when he becomes a member.

(2) The policy shall be expressed to mature at the member's prescribed age, and the member has a discretion to determine whether the policy shall or shall not provide for participation in any surplus that may be distributed by the life office from time to time by way of reversionary additions to the sums assured under participating policies.

(3) In the case of a person who, when he becomes a member, is not less than fifty years of age or has an unassurable life, he may elect that, in lieu of the effecting of a policy on his life, the contributions under section eleven of this Statute in respect of him shall be held and accumulated by the Council with power to invest them in securities authorized by law for the investment of trust funds.

(4) Where a member has made an election under the last preceding sub-section, the moneys held by the Council and any securities representing any such moneys, together with the income from those moneys or securities, shall, for the purpose of this Statute, be treated as nearly as possible as if they were a life assurance policy effected on the life of the member for the purposes of this Statute.

10.—(1) The Council may agree to accept for the purposes of the Scheme an existing policy of assurance on the life of a member in lieu of the policy required to be effected under the last preceding section, if the policy is transferred in statutory form to the University and at the date of the transfer is not cumbered.

(2) This section does not apply to an existing policy unless—

(a) the conditions of the policy are in accordance with the requirements of this Statute as to policies for the purposes of the Scheme; or

(b) the policy has been accepted for the purposes of the Federated Superannuation System for Universities (Great Britain).

11.—(1) Subject to the next succeeding section, a member shall contribute five per centum of his salary and the University shall contribute annually a sum equal to ten per centum of the member's salary.

(2) Contributions under this section shall continue until the maturity date of the policy or the date on which the member ceases to be in the full-time service of the University (whichever is the earlier) but if the member continues in the service of the University after his pension date, contributions under this section shall continue until the member reaches the age of sixty-five years or ceases to be in the service of the University, whichever first happens.

(3) The contributions under this section shall, except as otherwise provided in this Statute, be applied by the Council in payment of the yearly premium on the policy.

(4) The University may deduct from payments of salary to the member the amounts necessary to meet the member's contributions under this section until the maturity date of the policy.

(5) The Council may pay a premium upon the policy in anticipation of contributions by the member or the University, or in default of contributions by the member.

12.—(1) If, after the policy has been effected, the salary of a member is increased or reduced, the contributions under the last preceding section shall not be increased or reduced unless and until the rate of the increased salary is greater or less, by more than Fifty pounds per annum, than the rate of salary upon which those contributions are being made for the time being.

(2) Where, by reason of a change in salary, the contributions in respect of a member are increased or reduced, the sum assured under the policy shall be appropriately adjusted.

(3) If a member is absent from the service of the University, with or without remuneration from the University—

(a) he shall pay his contributions for the period of his absence unless the Council, in its discretion, agrees to pay those contributions; and

(b) the Council may determine, in its discretion, whether the University or the member shall pay the University's contributions for that period and those contributions shall be paid accordingly.

13. Where the premiums upon a policy which is proposed to be accepted for the purposes of the Scheme are payable in sterling currency, the Council may make an arrangement with the member with respect to payment of the exchange upon those premiums and for the variation of the rights of the member under this Statute in consequence of the arrangement, and in any such case this Statute operates subject to the terms of the arrangement.

14.—(1) A policy effected for the purposes of the Scheme shall be either in the name of the University or in the name of the member and in the latter case it shall be assigned in statutory form by the member to the University.

(2) The member shall arrange for the policy to be delivered by the life office to the University.

(3) The University shall retain possession of the policy, but will make it available for inspection by the member at any reasonable time.
15.—(1) A member shall not, without the consent in writing of the Council, assign, either absolutely or as security, or charge his interest or any part of his interest in the policy.

(2) If a member—

(a) becomes bankrupt or, without the consent in writing of the Council, assigns or charges or attempts to assign or charge his interest or any part of his interest in the policy or does or suffers anything by which his interest in the policy, or any part of that interest, would or might, through his act or default or by operation or process of law, become vested in or payable to any other person; or

(b) becomes a lunatic or is in the opinion of the Council incapable of managing his own affairs, the rights and interests of the member in the policy forthwith determine and the Council may surrender the policy, or continue the policy for the time being and surrender it later, or continue it until maturity or the prior death of the member.

(3) Any moneys representing the member’s rights and interests so determined which are received by the Council, whether upon surrender or at maturity of the policy or on the death of the member, shall, at the option of the Council, be—

(a) applied towards the maintenance or benefit of the member or his dependants or of such one or more of them as the Council, in its discretion, thinks fit;

(b) paid in any of the ways mentioned in section seventeen of this Statute; or

(c) paid into the Supplementary Superannuation Benefits Fund established under Part V.

16. The University has a lien or charge upon the policy in respect of a member and the moneys payable under the policy for all moneys owing by the member in pursuance of this Statute and for premiums paid in anticipation of contributions, or in default of contributions by a member, and not recouped.

17.—(1) If a member dies while in the full-time service of the University before the policy matures, the University shall receive payment of the moneys payable under the policy from the life office and, subject to sections fifteen and sixteen of this Statute and to the next succeeding sub-section, shall pay those moneys, or the balance of those moneys, as the case may be—

(a) to the designated beneficiary or, if there is more than one designated beneficiary, to the designated beneficiaries in such proportions as the member specifies;

(b) if there is no designated beneficiary—to a dependant or dependants of the member as determined by the Council in its absolute discretion; or

(c) if there is no designated beneficiary and no dependant—

(i) to the executor or administrator to whom probate of the will or letters of administration of the estate of the member has or have been granted; or

(ii) where, after a period considered by the Council to be reasonable, there is no such executor or administrator—to the next of kin of the member or as the Council, in its absolute discretion, determines.

(2) Where a member who is an eligible member for the purposes of Part V dies leaving—

(a) a widow who is, or is deemed to be, the designated beneficiary in relation to the member; or

(b) a widower who is, or is deemed to be, the designated beneficiary in relation to the member and was dependent on the eligible member at the date of her death, the University shall pay the moneys, or the balance of the moneys, referred to in the last preceding sub-section to the Supplementary Superannuation Benefits Fund established under Part V of this Statute.

18.—(1) If the policy matures while the member is in the full-time service of the University, the University shall receive payment of the moneys payable under the policy from the life office and, subject to sections fifteen and sixteen of this Statute and to this section, the University shall pay those moneys to the member on the pension date applicable to him.

(2) If the member dies before the pension date, the Council shall pay the moneys in the manner provided in the last preceding section.

(3) If the Council thinks fit, the University may, in lieu of paying to the member moneys referred to in this section, use those moneys in the purchase of an annuity payable to the member during his life-time.

(4) If the member continues in the full-time service of the University after his pension date, the moneys payable under the policy which would otherwise be payable to the member, together with contributions by and in respect of the member under section eleven of this Statute made after the maturity of the policy, shall be invested by the Council in securities authorized by law for the investment of trust moneys, and the securities shall be held until the member ceases, by death or retirement, to be in the service of the University, whereupon the securities shall be realized and the proceeds, together with any income received from the investments, shall—
(a) in the case of death—be paid in the manner specified in the last preceding section; or
(b) in the case of retirement—be paid to the member or used in the purchase of an annuity payable to the member during his life-time.

(5) A payment of moneys under this section shall not be made—
(a) to, or for the purchase of an annuity payable to, a member who is an eligible member for the purposes of Part V; or
(b) where a member who is an eligible member for the purposes of Part V dies leaving a widow or widower who is, or is deemed to be, the designated beneficiary in relation to the member—to the widow or widower, but those moneys shall be paid to the Supplementary Superannuation Benefits Fund established under Part V of this Statute.

19.—(1) If a member resigns from the full-time service of the University before attaining his prescribed age and his resignation is accepted by the Council, the Council shall, subject to sections fifteen and sixteen of this Statute, transfer the policy to the member or according to his discretion, and the transfer shall be in full settlement of all claims of the member under this Scheme.

(2) The provisions of this section extend to the case of a member whose appointment expires by effluxion of time before he attains his prescribed age and who is not forthwith appointed or re-appointed to an office by virtue of holding which he is eligible to continue to be a member of the Scheme.

20. If a member is dismissed from the full-time service of the University before he attains his prescribed age, the Council may deal with the policy or the policy moneys as it thinks just.

21. If a member becomes a contributor under the Superannuation Act 1922-1951, the policy shall be dealt with in such manner as the Council, in its discretion, determines.

(4) For the purposes of this Part, the appropriate pension in respect of an office other than an office referred to in subsection (1) of this section is, subject to the next succeeding sub-section, a pension at such rate per annum as is prescribed by the Rules to be the appropriate pension in respect of that office and the appropriate pension in relation to an eligible member who on retirement holds that office is, subject to this section, the appropriate pension in respect of that office.

(5) The Rules may provide that there shall be two or more appropriate pensions, at such rates as are specified, in respect of an office other than an office referred to in sub-section (1) of this section and, in that case, the Rules shall make provision for or in relation to the ascertainment of the appropriate pension in relation to each eligible member who holds such an office.

(5A) The appropriate pension in relation to an eligible member who on retirement holds an office in respect of which there are two or more appropriate pensions is the appropriate pension ascertained in accordance with the provisions referred to in the last preceding sub-section.

(5B) The Rules may provide for the reduction of the rate per annum of the appropriate pension in relation to an eligible member who holds an office other than an office referred to in sub-section (1) of this section if his university service is, on his retirement, less than a specified number of years.

(6) Where an eligible member makes, or is deemed to have made, under sub-section (1) of section twenty-five of this Statute, after a promotion referred to in that sub-section, an election to continue to be an eligible member entitled to supplementary benefits as if he held the office that he held immediately before he was promoted, the eligible member shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to hold the office that the member held immediately before he was promoted.

(7) If—
(a) a member has received, in respect of any of his university service a payment or benefit that is similar to, or of the same type as, a benefit payable under this Statute; or
(b) a member who, having taken the transfer of his policy or received an amount under sub-section (2) of section thirty-two of this Statute, is restored to health, is again employed by the University and again becomes an eligible member, the rate per annum of the appropriate pension in relation to the member is reduced by an amount equal to the rate per annum, or, in the case of a married member, the initial rate per annum, of the annuity that could, in the opinion of the actuary, be purchased in respect of the member with an amount equal to the value that the benefit so received would, in the opinion of the actuary, have had on the retirement of the member if it had been invested at the time of receipt.

(8) Without in any way affecting the generality of paragraph (a) of the last preceding sub-section, a member shall be deemed to have received, in respect of any of his university service, a payment or benefit that is similar to a benefit payable under this Statute if, in relation to any part of that service—
(a) there has been paid to or in respect of the member a payment or benefit from a superannuation or retirement benefit scheme or arrangement;
(b) there has been paid to, or in respect of, the member a refund of the contributions (including interest on those contributions, if payable) paid by the member to such a scheme or arrangement; or
(c) the member or any other person has a deferred entitlement to a benefit under such a scheme or arrangement.

(9) Where the Council has approved, as university service of a member for the purposes of this Part, a part only of the full-time service by the member as a teacher or other officer of another university or any other full-time service of a similar nature by the member, the whole of any payment or benefit 24.—(1) Each of the following persons is an eligible member for the purposes of this Part:

(a) a member who is a member on the date of commencement of the Amendment Statute;

(b) a member who has not, on the day on which he is enrolled as a member, attained the age of forty years; and

(c) a member who has elected to remain, or to become, an eligible member under sub-section (4) of this section.

(2) If the Council is satisfied that the health or physical condition of a member who was a member on the date of commencement of the Amendment Statute or a member who had not, on the day on which he enrolled as a member, attained the age of forty years, is not such as to justify his remaining an eligible member without payment by him of contributions to the Fund, the Council may, within two months after the commencement of the Amendment Statute or the enrolment of the member, as the case requires, direct that the member shall not remain an eligible member unless the member pays contributions to the Fund in accordance with such conditions as the Council determines, and the member ceases to be an eligible member unless he elects to pay contributions in accordance with those conditions.

(3) If a person has become a member by reason of a direction of the Council under sub-section (3) of section six of this Statute, the provisions of the last preceding sub-section apply, mutatis mutandis, to and in relation to the member.

(4) A member who is enrolled as a member after the commencement of the Amendment Statute and has, on the date on which he is so enrolled, attained the age of forty years may, if he has obtained the approval of the Council, make, within twenty-six weeks after the Council has granted the approval, an election in writing to become an eligible member.

(5) A member ceases to be an eligible member if he becomes a contributor under the Superannuation Act 1922-1957.

25.—(1) An eligible member who, having attained the age of forty years, is promoted after the date of commencement of the Amendment Statute to an office the appropriate pension in respect of which is greater than the appropriate pension in respect of the office that he held immediately before his promotion may, within twenty-six weeks after he is promoted, make an election in writing—

(a) to contribute for increased supplementary benefits or

(b) to continue to be an eligible member entitled to sup­plementary benefits as if he held the office that he held immediately before he was promoted.

(2) An eligible member who, in respect of one promotion to which the last preceding sub-section applies, does not elect to contribute for increased supplementary benefits does not have the right to make an election under that sub-section in respect of any subsequent promotion.

(3) An eligible member, being an eligible member entitled to elect in pursuance of sub-section (1) of this section, who does not, within the period referred to in that sub-section, elect to contribute for increased supplementary benefits shall be deemed to have elected to continue to be an eligible member entitled to supplementary benefits as if he held the office that he held immediately before he was promoted.

(4) Where—

(a) in pursuance of sub-section (5) of section twenty-three of this Statute, the Rules make provision for or in relation to the ascertainment of the appropriate pension in relation to each eligible member who holds a particular office; and

(b) by reason of the application of those provisions in relation to an eligible member after he has attained the age of forty years, a greater appropriate pension would become the appropriate pension in relation to the eligible member on his retirement, the eligible member shall be deemed to have been, for the purposes of this Part, promoted to an office in respect of which there is a greater appropriate pension, and the preceding provisions of this section and sub-section (6) of section twenty-three of this Statute apply, mutatis mutandis, to and in relation to the member.

26. Except as provided by section twenty-nine A of this Statute, a member who is an eligible member by virtue of paragraph (a) or (b) of sub-section (1) of section twenty-four of this Statute is not, unless the Council has otherwise determined in accordance with sub-section (2) or (3) of that section, required to contribute to the Fund.
27. (1) A member who remains an eligible member by virtue of electing to pay contributions in accordance with conditions determined by the Council under sub-section (2) or (3) of section twenty-four of this Statute shall contribute to the Fund in accordance with those conditions.

(2) Where an eligible member who has contributed to the Fund in accordance with the last preceding sub-section resigns from the full-time service of the University and his resignation is accepted by the Council, the Council shall pay to him from the Fund such portion of the sum of the amounts so contributed by him to the Fund as is determined by the Actuary having regard to all the relevant circumstances and to actuarial principles and practice.

28.—(1) A member—

(a) who is an eligible member by virtue of paragraph (c) of sub-section (1) of section twenty-four of this Statute; or

(b) who is an eligible member who elects to contribute for increased supplementary benefits in pursuance of paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of section twenty-five of this Statute, shall contribute to the Fund in accordance with the succeeding provisions of this section.

(2) There shall be deducted from each fortnightly payment of salary of the member falling due after the date on which the member makes the election, or if, on that date, the member is absent from the service of the University, after the member ceases to be so absent, an amount calculated in accordance with the following formula:

\frac{4}{13} \times R \times \frac{I}{26}

(3) For the purpose of the formula in the last preceding sub-section, R means the amount per annum that, in the opinion of the actuary, is required to be paid into the Fund after the date of the election to enable supplementary benefits or increased supplementary benefits for and in respect of the member to be provided from the Fund.

29. In determining the value per annum of R referred to in sub-section (3) of section twenty-eight of this Statute—

(a) the actuary shall assume—

(i) that there will be no change in the office held by the member;

(ii) in the case of a member who, when he became a member, effected for the purposes of the Scheme, or had had accepted for those purposes, an assurance policy on his life that does not provide for payment of the whole of the sum assured on the maturity of the policy or on the death of the member occurring before the maturity date—that policy does so provide; and

(iii) in the case of a member who, when he became a member, elected, under sub-section (3) of section nine of this Statute, that the contributions under section eleven of this Statute in respect of him should be held and accumulated by the Council—that there had been effected on the life of the member, for the purposes of the Scheme, when he became a member, an assurance policy providing for the payment of the whole of the sum assured on the member attaining his prescribed age or on the death of the member before attaining that age for such amount as would, in the opinion of the actuary, have been obtainable at an annual premium equal to those contributions;

(b) the actuary shall take into account any payments which are already required to be made by the Council in respect of the member in pursuance of paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of sub-section (3) of section forty-one of this Statute.

29A.—(1) In this section, unless the contrary intention appears—

‘the commencing date’, in relation to an eligible member, means the first day of July, One thousand nine hundred and sixty, or the date on which he is enrolled as a member, whichever is the later date;

‘the election date’, in relation to an eligible member, means the date on which he makes an election under this section.

(2) An eligible member may, before the first day of November, One thousand nine hundred and sixty-three or the expiration of the period of six months after the date on which the eligible member is enrolled as a member, whichever is the later, elect to contribute to the Fund in accordance with this section.

(3) Where an eligible member makes an election under this section, the Council shall deduct from each fortnightly payment of his salary falling due after the election date such amount as the actuary determines from time to time having regard to all the relevant circumstances and to actuarial principles and practice.
(4) Where, in relation to an eligible member who has made an election under this section, one or more fortnightly pay days have occurred during the period from and including the commencing date to and including the election date, the eligible member shall, upon making the election, forthwith pay to the Council an amount equal to the amount determined by the actuary under the last preceding sub-section multiplied by the number of those fortnightly pay days.

(5) The Council shall pay to the Fund any amounts received by it in pursuance of this section.

(6) Where an eligible member who has made an election under this section—

(a) resigns from the full-time service of the University and his resignation is accepted by the University; or

(b) is dismissed from the full-time service of the University, the Council shall pay to him from the Fund an amount equal to the sum of the amounts contributed by him to the Fund under this section.

30. Subject to any arrangement made under section thirty-seven of this Statute, a deduction under this Part shall not be made from a payment of salary falling due—

(a) in any case—while the member is absent from the service of the University;

(b) where the member ceases to be an eligible member—after the member so ceases to be an eligible member; or

(c) where the member continues in office after the supplementary entitlement date—after that date.

31.—(1) Subject to this Part, in the event of the retirement of an eligible member at or after the supplementary entitlement date, he is entitled at his election—

(a) to be paid a pension for his life at a rate per annum equal to the rate per annum of the appropriate pension in relation to the member; or

(b) to take, in lieu of that pension—

(i) an amount equal to the moneys that would, under section eighteen of this Statute, be paid to, or used in purchasing an annuity payable to, the member, if he were not an eligible member; and

(ii) where the rate per annum of that pension exceeds the rate per annum, or, in the case of a married member, the initial rate per annum, of the annuity that could, in the opinion of the actuary, be purchased in respect of the member with the amount referred to in the last preceding sub-paragraph—a pension for his life at a rate per annum equal to the excess.

(2) A member is not entitled to benefits under this section unless he transfers to the University all his rights and interests in the moneys referred to in sub-paragraph (i) of paragraph (b) of the last preceding sub-section.

(3) Subject to this Part, the widow of a former member who dies while in receipt of or entitled to a pension under this section is entitled to be paid a pension for her life, or until her remarriage, at a rate per annum that—

(a) in the case of the widow of a former member who made an election under section twenty-nine A of this Statute—is equal to five-eighths; or

(b) in any other case—is equal to one-half, of the rate per annum of the pension of the deceased person.

(4) The widow of a former member who dies while in receipt of, or entitled to, the pension referred to in paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of this section is entitled, in addition to the pension referred to in the last preceding sub-section, to a pension at the rate of Fifty-two pounds per annum in respect of each child in her custody who is under the age of sixteen years, or if the child is attending a school, college or university as a full-time student, twenty-one years.

32.—(1) Subject to this Part, an eligible member who is compulsorily retired because of invalidity or incapacity is entitled to be paid a pension for his life at a rate per annum equal to—

(a) one half of the rate per annum of his salary on retirement; or

(b) the rate per annum of the pension that would be the appropriate pension in relation to the member on his retirement if his university service were increased by the additional service that he would have if he continued in the service of the University without promotion or increase in salary until he reached the supplementary entitlement date, whichever is the less.

(2) An eligible member may elect to take in lieu of the pension referred to in the last preceding sub-section—

(a) a transfer of his policy or, if the member so desires, an amount equal to the value, in the opinion of the actuary, of that policy, at the member’s retirement; or

Amended by Statute No. 49

Amended by Statute No. 24

Sub-section (1) amended by Statute No. 32
(b) where the policy has matured before the retirement of the member—an amount equal to the moneys that would, under section eighteen of this Statute, be paid to, or used for purchasing an annuity payable to, the member if he were not an eligible member, together with, in an appropriate case, a pension for his life at a rate per annum ascertained in accordance with the next succeeding sub-section.

(3) Where the rate per annum of the pension to which a member would be entitled under sub-section (1) of this section exceeds the rate per annum (or, in the case of a married member, the initial rate per annum) of the annuity that could, in the opinion of the actuary, be purchased in respect of a member—

(a) with an amount equal to the value, in the opinion of the actuary, of the policy of the member at his retirement; or

(b) with the moneys referred to in paragraph (b) of the last preceding sub-section, the rate of the pension referred to in the last preceding sub-section is a rate per annum equal to the excess.

(4) A member, other than a member who takes a transfer of his policy in accordance with paragraph (a) of sub-section (2) of this section, is not entitled to benefits under this section unless he transfers to the University all his rights and interests in that policy or the moneys referred to in paragraph (b) of sub-section (2) of this section, as the case may be.

(5) Where the University has a lien or charge on the policy of the member by virtue of section sixteen of this Statute, the member is not entitled to benefits under this section unless he satisfies, or enters into an agreement with the Council to satisfy, that lien or charge.

(6) Subject to this Part, the widow of a former member who dies while in receipt of or entitled to a pension under this section is entitled to be paid a pension for her life, or until her remarriage, at a rate per annum that—

(a) in the case of the widow of a former member who made an election under section twenty-nine A of this Statute—is equal to five-eighths; or

(b) in any other case—is equal to one-half, of the rate per annum of the pension of the deceased person.

(7) The widow of a former member who dies while in receipt of or entitled to the pension referred to in sub-section (1) of this section is entitled, in addition to the pension referred to in the last preceding sub-section, to a pension at the rate of Fifty-two pounds per annum in respect of each child in her custody who is under the age of sixteen years, or if the child is attending a school, college or university as a full-time student, twenty-one years.

(8) This section does not apply to a member who is compulsorily retired because of invalidity or incapacity that, in the opinion of the Council, is due to wilful action on the part of the member for the purpose of obtaining a pension under this section.

(9) The Council may, from time to time, suspend the payment, or vary the amount, of pension payable to a former member under this section if it is satisfied, after due enquiry, that—

(a) the invalidity or incapacity of the former member has ceased or substantially altered; and

(b) the suspension or variation, as the case may be, will not cause hardship to the former member.

33.—(1) Subject to this Part, where an eligible member dies leaving a widow who is, or is deemed by virtue of sub-section (4) of this section to be, the designated beneficiary of the member, the widow is entitled, at her election—

(a) to be paid a pension for her life, or until her remarriage, at a rate per annum that—

(i) in the case of the widow of a member who made an election under section twenty-nine A of this Statute—is equal to five-eighths; or

(ii) in any other case—is equal to one-half, of the rate per annum of the pension to which the member would have been entitled under sub-section (1) of the last preceding section if he had, on the day of his death, been compulsorily retired because of invalidity or incapacity and had satisfied the requirements of sub-sections (4) and (5) of that section; or

(b) to take, in lieu of that pension—

(i) an amount equal to the moneys that would, under section seventeen or eighteen of this Statute, have been paid to the widow, if the member had not been an eligible member; and

(ii) where the rate per annum of that pension exceeds the rate per annum of the annuity that could, in the opinion of the actuary, be purchased for the widow for her life, with the amount referred to in the last preceding sub-paragraph—a pension for her life, or until her remarriage, at a rate per annum equal to the excess.
(2) A widow who is entitled to be paid the pension referred to in paragraph (a) of the last preceding sub-section is entitled, in addition to that pension, to a pension at the rate of Fifty-two pounds per annum in respect of each child in her custody who is under the age of sixteen years or, if the child is attending a school, college or university as a full-time student, twenty-one years.

(3) The widow of an eligible member is not entitled to benefits under this section unless, in any case where the University has a lien or charge on the policy of the member by virtue of section sixteen of this Statute, she satisfies, or enters into an arrangement with the Council to satisfy, that lien or charge.

(4) If there is no designated beneficiary of an eligible member who dies leaving a widow, the widow shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the designated beneficiary of the member.

34.—(1) Subject to this Part, where a widow who is in receipt of a pension in respect of a child under sub-section (4) of section thirty-one, sub-section (7) of section thirty-two, or sub-section (2) of section thirty-three of this Statute dies, the child is entitled to be paid a pension at the rate of One hundred and fifty-six pounds per annum until he attains the age of sixteen years or, if the child is attending a school, college or university as a full-time student, twenty-one years.

(b) at the date of the death of the former member, the wife of the member is dead but, if she had survived the former member, would have been, or would have been deemed to have been, the designated beneficiary of the former member; and

(c) the former member leaves a child, the child is entitled to be paid a pension at the rate of One hundred and fifty-six pounds per annum until he attains the age of sixteen years or, if the child is attending a school, college or university as a full-time student, twenty-one years.

(3) A pension under this section is payable, on behalf of the child, to a person approved by the Council.
35. Where—
   (a) a female eligible member dies leaving a widower who was dependent on her at the date of her death; or
   (b) a female person who was, at the date of her retirement, an eligible member dies leaving a widower to whom she was married at the date of her retirement and who was dependent on her at the date of her death, the provisions of sections thirty-one, thirty-two, thirty-three and thirty-four of this Statute apply as if the word 'widower' were substituted for the word 'widow' and with such other modifications as are necessary.

36. The Council may, if it thinks fit, determine, either before or after the making by a person of the election referred to in section thirty-one, thirty-two or thirty-three of this Statute, that the person shall be paid a pension in accordance with paragraph (a) of sub-section (i) of section thirty-one, subsection (i) of section thirty-two or paragraph (a) of sub-section
(i) of section thirty-three, as the case may be, and, upon the making of the determination—
   (a) a pension shall be payable to that person accordingly;
and
   (b) that person ceases to have the right to make the election or an election made by that person shall not have any effect, as the case may be.

University, with or without remuneration from the University, he shall pay, either in advance or by fortnightly payments, to the University, in respect of his period of absence, an amount determined by the Council, not being an amount greater than the aggregate of—
   (a) One and one-quarter pounds per centum of the salary of the member for that period; and
   (b) three and one-quarter times the amount of the contributions, if any, that would have been payable by the member during that period under this Part, if he had not been so absent.

38.—(1) Subject to this section, where—elected, under sub-section (3) of section nine of this Statute, that the contributions under section eleven of this Statute in respect of him should be held and accumulated by the Council dies or retires, a pension payable under this Part to or in respect of the member ceases to be payable to or in respect of the member from a date when, in the opinion of the actuary, that part of the Fund that is attributable to payments into the Fund made in respect of the member would, if the payments out of the Fund to or in respect of the member (including payments of premiums, if any, falling due for payment under an assurance policy on the life of the member) had been made from that part, be exhausted.

(2) In forming an opinion, for the purposes of the last preceding sub-section, in the case of a retired member, the actuary shall assume that there has been paid into the Fund in respect of the member an amount that is, in the opinion of the actuary, the value, at the time of forming the opinion, of the unmatured policies, if any, of the member.

(3) This section does not affect the rate of pension payable to or in respect of a member whose policy has matured.

39.—(1) When a pension ceases to be payable to or in respect of a person by virtue of the last preceding section, the Council may, in its absolute discretion, authorize the payment to the person who was in receipt of the pension of an allowance at a rate per annum not exceeding the rate per annum of the pension at the time of cessation.

(2) When a person to whom an allowance is being paid under the last preceding sub-section dies leaving a widow, widower or child who would, if the person had died while in receipt of a pension under this Part, have been entitled to be paid a pension under this Part, the Council may, in its absolute discretion, authorize the payment to the widow or widower, or to a person on behalf of the child, as the case may be, of an allowance at a rate per annum not exceeding the rate per annum of the pension that the widow, widower or child, as the case may be, would have been so entitled to be paid.

(3) The Council may cancel an allowance under this section at any time.

40.—(1) If a person in receipt of a pension under this Part—

(a) becomes bankrupt or, without the consent in writing of the Council, assigns or charges or attempts to assign or charge his interest or any part of his interest in the pension or does or suffers anything by which his interest in the pension, or any part of that interest, would or might, through his act or default or by operation or process of law, become vested in or payable to any other person; or

(b) becomes a lunatic or is, in the opinion of the Council, incapable of managing his own affairs,

the pension ceases to be payable to the person.
(2) When a pension ceases to be payable to or in respect of a person by virtue of the last preceding sub-section, the Council may, in its absolute discretion, authorize the payment to the person who was in receipt of the pension, or any other person on his behalf, of an allowance at a rate per annum not exceeding the rate per annum of the pension at the time of cessation.

(3) When a person to whom or on whose behalf an allowance is being paid under the last preceding sub-section dies leaving a widow, widower or child who would, if the person had died while in receipt of a pension under this Part, have been entitled to be paid a pension under this Part, the Council may, in its absolute discretion, authorize the payment to the widow, widower or to a person on behalf of the child, as the case may be, of an allowance at a rate per annum not exceeding the rate per annum of the pension which the widow, widower or child, as the case may be, would have been so entitled to be paid.

(4) The Council may cancel an allowance under this section at any time.

41.—(1) There shall be a Supplementary Superannuation Benefits Fund from which shall be paid the benefits provided for in this Part, other than an allowance under section thirty-nine of this Statute.

(2) The Council may, if, at any time, there are surplus moneys in the Fund, direct that the whole or part of an allowance under section thirty-nine of this Statute be paid out of the surplus moneys and, in that event, the whole or part, as the case may be, shall be paid from the Fund accordingly.

(3) The Council shall pay into the Fund—

(a) an amount equal to one and one-quarter pounds per centum of the salary of each member;

(b) the amounts that have been, and an amount equal to the amounts (if any) that would, but for the absence of members from the service of the University, have been, deducted from the salaries of members under this Part;

(c) an amount equal to two and one-quarter times the total of the amounts referred to in the last preceding paragraph;

(d) such other sums as the Council on the advice of the actuary from time to time may determine;

(e) moneys in respect of which the rights and interests of members or the widows or widowers of members have been transferred to the University under this Part; and
(f) moneys paid to the University under the policies of members in respect of which the rights and interests of the members have been transferred to the University under this Part.

(4) Income derived from the investment of the Fund forms part of the Fund.

(5) The Council may pay from the Fund the premiums falling due for payment under a policy of a member after the member has transferred to the University, in accordance with sub-section (4) of section thirty-two of this Statute, all his rights and interests in the policy.

42.—(1) Moneys standing to the credit of the Fund shall be invested as the Council directs.

(2) The Council may lodge moneys forming part of the Fund that are held uninvested, either at call or on fixed deposit or partly at call and partly on fixed deposit, with a bank.

43.—(1) An investigation as to the state and sufficiency of the Fund shall be made by the actuary as at the thirty-first day of December, One thousand nine hundred and sixty-two, and as at the expiration of each subsequent period of five years.

(2) The actuary shall, by writing under his hand addressed to the Registrar, report to the Council the result of his investigation.

Part VI—Miscellaneous

43A. If—

(a) the Council fails to deduct from the salary of a member an amount that it is required to deduct by virtue of this Statute; or

(b) a member fails to pay to the Council an amount that he is required to pay by virtue of this Statute, the Council may deduct the whole or a part of that amount from—

(c) any future payment of salary to the member;

(d) any instalment of pension payable to the member or to the widow or widower of the member; or

(e) any other amount payable to the member or to a designated beneficiary, dependant, executor, administrator or next of kin of the member.

43B. Where the Council is satisfied, after receiving a report from the actuary, that, by reason of circumstances outside the control of a member, the period within which the member is entitled to make an election referred to in Part V of this Statute is insufficient, the Council may, whether before or after the expiration of that period, extend that period for such further period as the Council determines.

44. The Council may, from time to time, make Rules, not inconsistent with this Statute, prescribing all matters which by this Statute are required or permitted to be prescribed for carrying out or giving effect to this Statute.

from spending at least four terms in actual attendance at the University.

16. (1) Except as provided in sub-rule (2) of this Rule, a candidate and a research student who is not a candidate shall spend his full time in the pursuit of his approved course.

(2) The Board may admit as a candidate for the degree of Master of Arts or Master of Science a person engaged in employment other than the full-time pursuit of his course, if in the Board's opinion that employment is of a nature likely to assist the candidate in the pursuit of his course of study and research. The Board shall not prescribe for the approved course of such a candidate a period of less than three or more than five years.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-rule (2) of this rule, the Board may antedate the commencement of the course of any person employed by the University who is admitted as a candidate for a degree under that sub-rule if that person has before the making of this rule done work within the University which the Board considers proper to be considered as part of his approved course of study and research.

19. The examination of candidates for degrees shall be conducted as follows:

(iA) (a) Examination shall be by submission of thesis, or by written examination and submission of thesis, with, in each case, but subject to these sub-rules, an oral examination based on the thesis.

(ii) in some other language, if the Board had determined at the time when the candidate was admitted as a candidate for the degree that he should be permitted to submit a thesis, and should be examined, in that other language.

(b) (i) Save as provided in sub-rule (5) of this rule, a written examination shall be held only on a direction of the Board made on the recommendation of the Degree Committee and of a Director, Dean or Faculty Board not less than twelve months after the beginning of a candidate's course and not less than six months before the end of the course.

(ii) The Degree Committee shall specify the subjects in which a written examination so directed shall be held.

(iii) The examiners for a written examination so directed shall be the examiners appointed under sub-rule (2) of this rule, but one of the examiners so appointed shall be a member of the staff of the University.

(iv) Subject to sub-rule (6) of this rule, the Registrar and the examiners shall arrange for the holding of a written examination so directed.

(1) The candidate shall not less than three months before the time at which he wishes to be examined give notice to the Registrar in such form as the Board requires. The Faculty Board, Director or Dean may dispense with this requirement in special cases.

(2) (a) The Degree Committee shall after recommendation from the Faculty Board, Director or Dean of the appropriate Research School appoint not fewer than two examiners in such a manner that except by special leave of the Board one is not a member of the staff of this University and one, other than the candidate's supervisor should he be an examiner, is likely to be able to take part in the oral examination.

(b) The Degree Committee may at any stage of the examination appoint an additional examiner and shall do so in the event of disagreement between two original examiners unless the Degree Committee is of the opinion that there are special circumstances which render the appointment of an additional examiner unnecessary.

(c) If none of the examiners appointed under paragraphs (a) and (b) above is available for the oral examination an additional examiner shall be appointed by the Degree Committee. The examiner or examiners present at the oral examination shall act for absent examiners and shall submit a report on the oral examination to them.

(3) (a) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this sub-rule, a candidate enrolled on or after 1 January 1959 shall within the last six months of his course present to the Registrar three copies of a thesis in such form as the Board prescribes, embodying the results of his approved research. The thesis shall be a complete study incorporating an account of the result of the candidate's work during his approved course.

(aa) The thesis must be a connected piece of writing which may comprise a series of papers on related topics, provided that these are accompanied by an adequate explanation of their relationship to each other and to the wider context of the subject. The thesis or component parts thereof may, if already published, be submitted in the published form.

(b) In special circumstances the Board, on the recommendation of the Degree Committee, may grant an extension of time of not more than one year for the submission of the thesis. In very exceptional circumstances the Board may grant a further extension of time but in no circumstances may the total extension of time exceed two years.

(4) A candidate enrolled before 1 January 1959 shall present his thesis in accordance with the rules in force at the time of his enrolment.

(5) (a) The candidate shall be examined orally on the substance of his thesis and on his knowledge of the subject unless the Degree Committee on the recommendation of the examiners exempts the candidate from oral examination. The Degree Committee shall not, except in very exceptional circumstances, exempt from oral examination a candidate who has submitted for examination work done jointly with another person. The oral examination shall, except with the permission of the Degree Committee, be held in Canberra.

(b) If in the opinion of the Degree Committee satisfactory arrangements for the holding of an oral examination cannot be made and the candidate should not be exempted from an oral examination, the Committee shall require the candidate to take a written examination covering the field ordinarily covered by an oral examination, and the Registrar shall make arrangements with the examiners accordingly.

(c) If the examiners are not fully satisfied by the oral examination they may recommend to the Degree Committee that the candidate shall take a written examination, the Degree Committee may require the candidate to take such examination, and the Registrar shall make arrangements with the examiners accordingly.

(6) The Board may give directions as to the procedure to be followed in the conduct of examinations; subject to these directions and to these Rules, the Degree Commmittee may act as it thinks fit in any particular examination.

(7) Each examiner, though at liberty to consult or correspond with the other examiner or examiners, is asked to submit an independent report after the whole examination has been completed. This report shall include a reference to any written examination directed under sub-rule (1A) (b) of this rule, to any oral examination, and to any written examination held in lieu of or in addition to an oral examination, and a recommendation that the candidate be admitted or be not admitted to the degree.

(8) (a) When the Degree Committee has concluded its consideration of the examiners’ reports it shall make a recommendation to the Board that the candidate be admitted or be not admitted to the degree.

(b) If the Degree Committee recommends that a candidate be not admitted it shall further recommend to the Board whether the candidate should be permitted to revise and resubmit his thesis or, if the revision necessary is sufficiently substantial, to rewrite the thesis for a new examination.

(c) The Degree Committee shall recommend a period not exceeding twelve months from the date of the Board’s decision in which a thesis which is to be revised or rewritten shall be submitted.

(9) (a) If the Board, having considered the recommendations of the Degree Committee, is of opinion that the candidate is fit to be admitted to the degree it shall recommend to the Council that he be admitted and on his fulfilling the prescribed conditions he shall be so admitted.

(b) The Board may, on the recommendation of the Degree Committee, decide that the candidate be not admitted to the degree but be re-examined. The Board shall decide whether the re-examination shall be carried out by the examiners appointed in the first place or by new examiners, and in the latter case the new examiners shall be appointed by the Degree Committee. The re-examination may take the form of a revision or re-writing of the thesis, or of a written examination in such subjects as the Board on the recommendation of the Degree Committee shall direct. So far as applicable the preceding sub-rules of this rule shall apply to a re-examination under this sub-rule, but a revised or re-written thesis shall be submitted and a written examination held not later than twelve months from the date of the Board’s decision.

(c) The Board may refer a recommendation back to the Degree Committee for further consideration.

21. The Faculty Board, Director or Dean of any Research School may make such additional regulations not inconsistent with these rules concerning the examination of candidates in that School as it thinks fit, and compliance with such regulations shall for a candidate in that School be a condition of taking an examination.

22. Any person who—

(1) holds a degree of this University; or

(2) (a) holds a degree of another University, which degree and University are approved for this purpose by the Board; and

(b) is certified by the Board to have or have had a substantial connection with this University, may at the discretion of the Board be admitted as a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Letters or Doctor of Science or Doctor of Laws.

23. (1) A candidate for the degree of Doctor of Letters or Doctor of Laws or Doctor of Science shall submit his published works in such manner as the Board prescribes. The Board shall appoint not fewer than two examiners, one of whom shall be an external examiner. The Board may at any stage of the examination appoint an additional examiner. Each examiner shall submit an independent report on the examination.

(2) Each examiner shall recommend to the Board that the candidate be admitted, or be not admitted, to the degree.
COURSES AND DEGREES

(3) If the Board is of opinion that the candidate has made an original and substantial contribution to knowledge and scholarship, it shall recommend to the Council that he be admitted to the degree and on his fulfilling the prescribed conditions he shall be so admitted.

24. A candidate for any degree shall not submit for examination work in respect of which a degree has been awarded in any University.

25. (1) Subject to sub-rule (2) of this rule each candidate for a degree shall before the degree is conferred deposit in the Library a copy of every thesis or published work successfully submitted for examination for the degree.

(2) The Degree Committee may, on the recommendation of the Librarian, exempt a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Letters or Doctor of Science or Doctor of Laws from the provisions of this rule or specify which of the works submitted shall be deposited.

(3) The Registrar shall retain one copy of every thesis submitted by a candidate who after examination is not admitted to a degree. The Registrar shall allow access to an unsuccessful thesis only after consultation with the Head of the Department concerned and after considering the views and interests of the candidate.

26. (1) The Council may admit honoris causa to the degree of Doctor of Letters, Doctor of Science or Doctor of Laws a person who has been recommended by the Board of the Institute of Advanced Studies and the Board of the School of General Studies on the ground of his distinguished eminence in learning.

(2) The Council may admit honoris causa to the degree of Doctor of Laws a person who has been recommended by the Board of the Institute of Advanced Studies and the Board of the School of General Studies on the ground of his distinguished eminence in public service.

27. A person who holds a permanent academic appointment in the University and who is recommended by the Board to the Council may be admitted to the degree either of Master of Arts or of Master of Science as the Board decides.

Part VII—Candidature of Members of the Academic Staff for Degree of Doctor of Philosophy

28. (1) Subject to the next succeeding sub-rule, the Board may, in its discretion, admit a person who is a full-time member of the academic staff of the University to be a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.
(2) The Board shall not admit a person who is a Research Assistant to be such a candidate unless the Faculty Board, Director or Dean of the appropriate Research School has recommended the admission of that person and the Degree Committee has approved the recommendation.

(3) The Board shall, when it admits a person to be a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy under this rule, specify the Department or Departments in which he shall work for the degree.

(4) A person who has been admitted to be a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy under this rule shall not submit a thesis for the degree before the expiration of such period, being not less than two years, after his admission as the Degree Committee determines, and the University shall not admit him to the degree unless he was a full-time member of the academic staff of the University throughout the period so determined.

(5) The Faculty Board, Director or Dean of the appropriate Research School shall—

(a) appoint a supervisor of each person admitted by the Board to be a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy under this rule and report each such appointment to the Board; and

(b) before the expiration of twelve months from the date on which each person is so admitted by the Board, report to the Board the research topic approved by the Faculty Board, Director or Dean for that person.

(6) A person admitted to be a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy under this rule shall pursue his course of research to the satisfaction of the Board.

(7) If the supervisor of a person admitted to be a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy under this rule is of opinion that the person has failed to pursue his research satisfactorily, he shall report to the Board accordingly and the Board may, after considering any recommendation made by the Faculty Board, Director or Dean of the appropriate Research School, resolve that the person cease to be a candidate for the degree, and the person shall thereupon cease to be such a candidate accordingly.

   (iii) between the time of issuing voting papers and the time by which voting papers must reach the Registrar; twenty-one days.

3. Nominations of candidates shall be made to the Registrar. A nomination shall be signed by two persons qualified to vote at the election and shall contain the written consent of the candidate to his nomination.

4. With every voting paper other than a voting paper in an election held in accordance with Rule 20 of these Rules there shall be issued a form of declaration and three envelopes, one envelope marked 'Voting Paper', one marked 'Declaration', and one addressed to the Registrar.

Where a voting paper has been lost or destroyed a duplicate shall be supplied on written application to the Registrar.

6. The voter shall indicate the order of his preference on the voting paper by writing the arabic numeral one against the name of the candidate, or an unbroken series of arabic numerals beginning at one against the names of the candidates for whom he wishes to vote, one number against the name of each such candidate; but he shall not be obliged to place a number against the name of every candidate.

7. 12. No voting paper shall be accepted unless it is received by the Registrar before the close of the poll.

13. The Registrar shall decide whether any voting paper shall be accepted or rejected.

14. In an election at which only one candidate is to be elected the result of the election shall be determined in the manner following:
(i) the Registrar shall count the first preference votes given for each candidate on all unrejected voting papers;

(ii) the candidate who has received the largest number of first preference votes shall, if that number constitutes an absolute majority of votes, be elected;

(iii) if no candidate has received an absolute majority of first preference votes, the counting of votes shall proceed as follows:

(a) the candidate who has received the fewest first preference votes shall be excluded, and each voting paper counted to him shall be counted to the candidate next in the order of the voter's preference;

(b) if a candidate then has an absolute majority of votes he shall be elected, but if no candidate then has an absolute majority of votes, the process of excluding the candidate who has the fewest votes, and counting each of his voting papers to the unexcluded candidate next in the order of the voter's preference, shall be repeated until one candidate has received an absolute majority of votes; and

(c) the candidate who has received an absolute majority of votes shall be elected.

15. In an election other than an election under Part III of these Rules, at which more than one candidate is to be elected the result of the election shall be determined in the manner following:

(i) the first preference votes given for each candidate on all unrejected voting papers shall be counted;

(ii) the aggregate number of such first preference votes shall be divided by one more than the number of candidates required to be elected, and the quotient increased by one, disregarding any remainder, shall be the quota, and (except as hereinafter provided in sub-section 10) no candidate shall be elected until he obtains a number of votes equal to or greater than the quota;

(iii) any candidate who has, upon the first preference votes being counted, a number of such votes equal to or greater than the quota shall be declared elected;

(iv) where the number of such votes obtained by any candidate is equal to the quota, the whole of the voting papers on which a first preference vote is recorded for such elected candidate shall be set aside as finally dealt with;

(5) where the number of such votes obtained by any candidate is in excess of the quota, the proportion of votes in excess of the quota shall be transferred to the other candidates not yet declared elected, next in the order of the voter's preferences, in the following manner:

(a) all the voting papers on which a first preference vote is recorded for the elected candidate shall be re-examined, and the number of second preference votes, or (in the case provided for in section 18) third or next consecutive preferences, recorded for each unelected candidate thereon shall be counted;

(b) the surplus of the elected candidate shall be divided by the total number of votes obtained by him on the counting of the first preference votes, and the resulting fraction shall be the transfer value;

(c) the number of second or other preferences ascertained in paragraph (a) to be recorded for each unelected candidate, shall be multiplied by the transfer value;

(d) the resulting number shall be credited to each unelected candidate, and added to the number of votes obtained by him on the counting of the first preference votes;

(6) (a) where, on the counting of the first preference votes or on any transfer, more than one candidate has a surplus, the largest surplus shall be first dealt with. If then more than one candidate has a surplus, the then largest surplus shall be dealt with, and so on; Provided that, if one candidate has obtained a surplus at a count or transfer previous to that at which another candidate obtains a surplus the surplus of the former shall be first dealt with;

(b) where two or more surpluses are equal, the surplus of the candidate who was the highest on the poll at the count or transfer at which they last had an unequal number of votes shall be first dealt with, and if they had an equal number of votes at all preceding counts or transfers, the Registrar shall decide which candidate's surplus shall be first dealt with.
(7) (a) Where the number of votes obtained by a candidate is raised up to or above the quota by a transfer as aforesaid, he shall thereupon be declared elected. And in such case, notwithstanding the fact that he may have reached the quota, such transfer shall be completed, and all the votes to which he is entitled therefrom shall be transferred to him, but no votes of any other candidate shall be transferred to him;

(b) where the number of votes obtained by a candidate is raised up to, but not above, the quota by a transfer as aforesaid, the whole of the voting papers on which such votes are recorded shall be set aside as finally dealt with:

(c) where the number of votes obtained by a candidate is raised above the quota by a transfer as aforesaid, his surplus shall be transferred to the candidates next in the order of the voters' respective preferences, in the following manner:

(i) The voting papers on which are recorded the votes obtained by the elected candidate in the last transfer shall be re-examined, and the number of third, or (in the case provided for in section 18) next consecutive preferences recorded for each unelected candidate thereon counted;

(ii) the surplus of the elected candidate shall be divided by the total number of voting papers mentioned in paragraph (i), and the resulting fractions shall be the transfer value;

(iii) the number of second (or other) preferences, ascertained in paragraph (i), to be recorded for each unelected candidate, shall be multiplied by the lastmentioned transfer value;

(iv) the resulting number shall be credited to each unelected candidate, and added to the number of votes previously obtained by him.

(8) (a) where, after the first preference votes have been counted and all surpluses (if any) have been transferred as hereinbefore directed, no candidate, or less than the number of candidates required to be elected, has or have obtained the quota, the candidate who is lowest on the poll shall be excluded, and all the votes obtained by him shall be transferred to the candidates next in the order of the voter's respective preferences, in the same manner as is directed in sub-section (5);
(b) the votes obtained by such excluded candidate as first preference votes shall first be transferred, the transfer value of each vote in this case being one;

(c) the other votes of such excluded candidate shall then be dealt with in order of the transfers in which, and at the transfer value at which, he obtained them;

(d) each of the transfers which takes place under the two previous clauses of this sub-section shall be deemed for all purposes to be a separate transfer.

(g) (a) Where a number of votes obtained by a candidate is raised up to or above the quota by any such transfer as aforesaid, he shall thereupon be declared elected. And in such case, notwithstanding the fact that he may have reached the quota, such transfer shall be completed, and all the votes to which he is entitled therefrom shall be transferred to him, but no other votes shall be transferred to him;

(b) where the number of votes obtained by a candidate is raised up to, but not above, the quota, by any such transfer as aforesaid, the whole of the voting papers on which such votes are recorded shall be set aside as finally dealt with;

(c) where the number of votes obtained by a candidate is raised above the quota by any such transfer as aforesaid, the surplus shall be transferred to the candidates next in the order of the voters' respective preferences in the same manner as is directed in sub-section (7), paragraph (c); Provided that such surplus shall not be dealt with until all the votes of the excluded candidate have been transferred;

(d) where any surplus exists it shall be dealt with before any other candidate is excluded.

(10) The same process of excluding the candidate lowest on the poll and transferring his votes to other candidates shall be repeated until all the candidates, except the number required to be elected, have been excluded, and the unexcluded candidates who have not already been so declared, shall then be declared elected.

16. In an election under Part III of these Rules at which two candidates are to be elected the result of the election shall be determined in the following manner:
(1) The Registrar shall prepare a list of the candidates, shall count the first and second preference votes given for each candidate on all unrejected voting papers and shall credit the aggregate of those votes to the candidates.

(2) The candidate who has received the greatest aggregate number of first and second preference votes shall, if that number constitutes an absolute majority of the votes, be elected.

(3) If no candidate has received an absolute majority of the votes, the counting of votes shall proceed as follows:

   (a) the candidate who has received the lowest aggregate number of first and second preference votes shall be excluded and each voting paper on which a first or second preference vote has been counted to him shall be counted to the candidate next in the order of the voter's preference;

   (b) if a candidate then has received an absolute majority of votes, he shall be elected;

   (c) if no candidate has received an absolute majority of votes, the procedure of excluding the candidate who has received the lowest number of votes and counting each of the voting papers counted to him to the unexcluded candidate next in the order of the voter's preference shall be repeated until one candidate has received an absolute majority of votes; and

   (d) the candidate who has received an absolute majority of votes shall be elected.

(4) Where a candidate is elected—

   (a) the Registrar shall again prepare a list of the candidates (including any candidates excluded in the course of counting of votes under sub-section (3) of this section) and credit each candidate with the first and second preference votes counted to him in accordance with sub-section (1) of this section; and

   (b) the elected candidate shall be excluded and each voting paper on which a first or second preference vote has been counted to him shall be re-examined and counted to the candidate next in the order of the voter's preference.

(5) If none of the remaining candidates has then received an absolute majority of votes, the counting of votes shall proceed in the manner provided by sub-section (3) of this section.
MEMBERSHIP OF COUNCIL

(6) Where all except two of the candidates have been excluded and each of the remaining candidates has received the same number of votes—
(a) if no candidate has previously been elected, each of the candidates shall be elected;
(b) if a candidate has previously been elected—
   (i) the candidate who received the largest number of first preference votes shall be elected;
   (ii) in the event of each candidate receiving the same number of first preference votes—the candidate who received the largest aggregate number of first and second preference votes shall be elected; and
   (iii) in the event of each candidate receiving the same aggregate number of first and second preference votes—the Registrar shall determine by lot which of the candidates shall be elected.

17. Where two or more candidates have the same number of votes and it becomes necessary to exclude one of them, then whichever of the candidates was lowest on the poll at the last count or transfer at which they had an unequal number of votes, shall be excluded and, if such candidates have an equal number of votes at all preceding counts or transfers or if there was no preceding count or transfer, the Registrar shall decide by lot which candidate shall be excluded.

18. In determining which candidate is next in the order of the voter's preference, any candidates who have been declared elected or who have been excluded shall not be considered, and the order of the voter's preference shall be determined as if the names of such candidates had not been on the voting paper.

19. Where on any count or transfer it is found that on any voting paper there is no candidate next in the order of the voter's preference, that voting paper shall be set aside as exhausted.

20. The Registrar may if he thinks fit, on the request of any candidate setting forth the reasons for the request, or of his own motion, re-count the voting papers received in connection with any election.

20a. (1) Where, before the poll is declared at an election, the Registrar is satisfied that the election has been vitiated by reason of an irregularity in the course or conduct of the election, he may declare the election to be void from the commencement of the election or from such point in the proceedings of the election as he specifies in the declaration.
being a point in those proceedings after the notification of the fact that the election was necessary but before the occurrence of the irregularity.

(2) Where, in pursuance of the last preceding sub-section, the Registrar declares an election to be void from the commencement of the election, he shall, as soon as practicable after making the declaration, conduct a further election in accordance with these Rules in place of the void election.

(3) Where, in pursuance of sub-section (1) of this section, the Registrar declares an election to be void from a point in the proceedings after the notification of the fact that the election was necessary, he shall determine what further proceedings in the election are necessary to ensure that the election will be regularly conducted and shall, subject to the next succeeding sub-section, conduct those further proceedings in accordance with these Rules in place of the void proceedings.

(4) In the conduct of any further proceedings in an election under the last preceding sub-section, the Registrar may, notwithstanding anything contained in section 1 or 2 of this Schedule, determine the intervals to be allowed between the occurrence of any events in the course of those further proceedings.

21. (1) The Registrar shall retain the voting papers on which votes have been recorded at an election for the period of three months after the declaration of the poll at that election.

(2) After the expiration of that period, the Registrar may destroy the voting papers.

DISCIPLINE ORDER

(Made by the Master and Fellows, 23 October 1957)

1. In this Order—

‘The House’ means University House, and includes the buildings, courtyards and out-houses of University House and the lawns and gardens surrounding University House bounded by Balmain Crescent, Liversidge Street, Garran Road, and the water-course between University House and the Old Hospital Buildings which runs from Balmain Crescent to Garran Roard.

‘The Master’ includes any person authorized under the provisions of this Order to exercise the powers of the Master.

‘Prejudicial conduct’ means conduct prejudicial to the good order of the House committed in the House, and includes breach of a provision concerning conduct in the House contained in a Statute of the University, a Rule of the Council or an Order of the Master and Fellows.

2. (1) The Master or a Fellow may require any person (not being a member or resident of the House) to leave the House.

(2) A person who has been required to leave the House under (1) hereof shall forthwith leave the House and shall not enter the House thereafter unless given permission to do so by the Master.

(3) A Fellow shall report to the Master the circumstances of any action taken by him under this section.

3. (1) If, in the opinion of the Master or a Fellow, a member or resident of University House has engaged in prejudicial conduct, the Master or such Fellow may make an order (herein called a suspension order) suspending the rights and privileges of such member or resident (herein called a suspended person), and shall communicate such order, either verbally or in writing, to the suspended person.

(2) If so requested, the Master or a Fellow when communicating a suspension order shall give the suspended person a written summary of his reasons.

(3) A suspension order shall operate for such period as the Master or Fellow making it specifies, but not exceeding forty-eight hours from the time of its communication.

(4) Subject to (5) hereof, a suspended person shall leave the House forthwith and shall not enter the House for the period of the suspension.
(5) A suspended person may attend the Master in the House or elsewhere and request the Master to call a Special Meeting of the Governing Body to consider the suspension. The Master shall as soon as is conveniently possible call such meeting, at which the person who made the suspension order and (if he desires) the suspended person shall attend. The Governing Body may hear such persons as it thinks fit and (if he desires) shall hear the suspended person and any person whose presence the suspended person procures to give evidence in support of his defence, and after such hearing the Governing Body may confirm, vary or quash the suspension order, or may exercise the powers given by sub-section (1) of the next succeeding section.

4. (1) In respect of any member or resident of the House (herein called a defendant) who has engaged in prejudicial conduct, the Governing Body may exercise the following powers:

(a) it may cancel a defendant’s membership;

(b) it may suspend a defendant’s membership for such period as it thinks fit, entirely or in relation to such privileges of membership as it specifies;

(c) it may exclude a defendant from the House for such period as it thinks fit, generally or in relation to such parts of the House or the use of such facilities of the House as it thinks fit;

(d) it may impose a fine not exceeding twenty pounds;

(e) it may refer the matter to the Vice-Chancellor, to be dealt with by the general disciplinary processes of the University.

(2) Except in the case of a defendant who is a suspended person under section 3, and in respect of whose suspension a Special Meeting of the Governing Body is held under sub-section (5) of section 3, the Master shall give written notice to a defendant of the prejudicial conduct alleged against him, and of the time and place of a Special Meeting of the Governing Body at which such allegation is to be considered. The Master shall summon a Special Meeting of the Governing Body accordingly at which the Governing Body may hear such evidence as it thinks fit and (if he desires) shall hear the defendant and any persons whose presence the defendant procures to give evidence in support of his defence, and after such hearing if the Governing Body decides that the defendant has engaged in prejudicial conduct, it may exercise such one or combination of powers given by this section as is appropriate.
5. (1) A decision of the Governing Body under sections 3 and 4 hereof shall be final.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Order, the Master may at any time permit a suspended person or a person who has been excluded from the House to enter the House for such special purpose and for such period as the Master specifies, but subject to such permission the suspension order or the exclusion as the case may be shall remain in effect.

(3) The Governing Body may in its discretion at any time remit or modify any penalty imposed under section 4.

6. Notices required to be given or served under this Order shall be sufficiently given or served if left at or posted to the place of residence of the person entitled to the notice last known to the Master.

7. (1) A Special Meeting of the Governing Body convened for any of the purposes of this Order may adjourn its proceedings from time to time and shall do so (and shall notify a suspended person or defendant accordingly) if in its opinion the suspended person or defendant has not had adequate notice of the prejudicial conduct alleged against him.

(2) Fines shall be paid to the Master within seven days of imposition.

(3) If a suspended person or defendant fails to comply with a suspension order or a decision made in his case by the Governing Body, such failure shall constitute prejudicial conduct for the purpose of this Order and may be separately dealt with as such under section 4 hereof.

8. When the Governing Body makes an order under section 4 cancelling membership or suspending or excluding from the House in the case of a member or employee of the University, the Master shall report the circumstances to the Vice-Chancellor.

9. The powers of the Master under this Order shall in his absence be exercised by the Deputy Master, or in the absence of the Master and the Deputy Master, by a Fellow authorized for such purpose by the Master or the Deputy Master or by a Special Meeting of the Governing Body.

Principal Activities

Report of the Australian Universities Commission

The Commission presented its Second Report to the Prime Minister on 27 August 1963. The Report referred to the improvements in Australian universities as a result of the acceptance by the Commonwealth and State Governments of the Commission's recommendations for the 1961-63 triennium; it also put forward recommendations for the 1964-66 triennium. The Commissioners believed that the financial recommendations, if approved, would provide for the continued development of Australian universities and would enable them to meet the demands which would be placed upon the universities during this period. So far as this University is concerned, the Commission recommended grants for the Institute of Advanced Studies and the School of General Studies in the 1964-66 triennium which will permit the University to develop its research and teaching programmes at a satisfactory rate.

In order to meet the increasing demands of students for residential accommodation the Commission has encouraged universities to establish halls of residence on a relatively large scale. It supported the University's request for the provision of 500-600 residential places in a hall of residence complex with centralized facilities.
In order to meet the University's urgent need of permanent buildings for research staff and students in the Institute of Advanced Studies and the School of General Studies, the Commission recom­ manded grants for several major building projects, including a new building to house the scattered parts of Geophysics; a building for Economics and Law in the School of General Studies, which will eventually become the Economics building when a separate building is erected for Law at a later date; and a building for the Faculty of Oriental Studies. It also supported the University's request for additional funds to enable the first stage of the University Union to be undertaken.

The R. G. Menzies Building of the University Library

This building was officially opened by Her Majesty the Queen on Wednesday, 13 March, before a very large and distinguished audience including the Prime Minister and Dame Pattie Menzies.
The building houses certain of the research collections of the Institute of Advanced Studies and provides facilities for their use.
It also accommodates the acquisitions and processing departments which serve the whole of the University library system.

Chemistry Building, School of General Studies

His Excellency the Governor-General, Viscount De L'Isle, opened this building on Friday, 7 June. The Chemistry Building is the second of three science buildings to be erected on the northern side of University Avenue in the science precinct of the School of General Studies. It has a total area of 52,000 square feet.

Forestry Science

Stemming from a recommendation from the Board of the School of General Studies, made on the advice of the Faculty of Science, Council sought the opinion of the Professorial Board on the development of general technological education in the University, including the question of a degree of Bachelor of Science in Forestry. In the light of this advice it was agreed, as a matter of policy, that certain of the applied sciences, with a substantial content of fundamental science, might appropriately be introduced in the University.

The Minister for the Interior has sought the University's opinion cerning the development of an acceptable form of association between the Australian Forestry School and the University. After discussions within the University, and with members of the Board of Higher Forestry Education, comprising representatives both of universities and State Forest Services, the University informed the Minister that it was willing to establish a Department of Forestry Science within the Faculty of Science and to incorporate the Australian Forestry School.
Research Work in Biological Sciences

A committee appointed by the Vice-Chancellor to consider the degree to which biological research should be further developed in the University and to suggest the form which any such development might take has now completed its investigations and produced a draft report. The committee was greatly assisted in its discussions by personal visits to Canberra by Professor Sir Howard Florey, F.R.S., and Professor D. G. Catcheside, F.A.A., F.R.S., Professor-elect of Genetics in the John Curtin School of Medical Research. Professor Catcheside has now been appointed Council's Adviser on the development of biological research in the Institute of Advanced Studies.

Third Chair of Mathematics in the Research School of Physical Sciences—Professor K. Mahler, F.R.S.
Second Chair of Economics in the Research School of Pacific Studies—Professor H. W. Arndt.

Lennox House and Schreinerhof

In order to meet the increasing demands for student accommodation in Canberra, the University occupied more space in Lennox House and purchased Schreinerhof—a large motel-type building now known as Bruce Hall Annexe.

DEVELOPMENTS OF 1963 IN SUMMARY

THE INSTITUTE OF ADVANCED STUDIES

In 1963 there were no major additions to the academic structures of the Institute of Advanced Studies; for the most part, research and postgraduate teaching in the four Research Schools continued along the lines laid down in previous years. The lists of publications appended to the separate reports of each of the Schools demonstrate that the Institute has now become a highly productive centre of original work.

There is no question that the national and international reputation of the Institute as a research centre has grown rapidly over the past few years and now stands high; part of the evidence for this fact is to be found in the number of postgraduate students being attracted from abroad, and in the number of invitations received by members of the staff of the Institute to attractive senior appointments in other universities, Australian and overseas. It is inevitable that we should lose a few men to North American and other overseas universities as the reputations of members of our research staff grow; but it says a great deal for the quality of the facilities provided by the Institute and for the general quality of its work that so few of the invitations are actually accepted, and also that the Institute is still able to attract to its own staff scholars and scientists of considerable international eminence, despite the enormous expansion of research activity and the intense competition for gifted research workers at present to be found in every advanced country in the world. The appointment during 1963 of Professor D. G. Catcheside, F.A.A., F.R.S., of the University of Birmingham to the new Chair of Genetics and of Professor K. Mahler, F.R.S., of the University of Manchester to a new Chair in the Department of Mathematics is important and significant as indicating that the Institute is having some success in fulfilling what should be one of its main functions within the Australian university system, the function of helping to attract to this country or retain here creative scholars and scientists who enjoy a high international reputation. For reasons that have been made plain in recent British discussions of the 'brain drain' from that country, the successful fulfilment of this function will no doubt be increasingly difficult as time passes, and will be an increasingly severe challenge to the impetus, the facilities and conditions of work of the Institute.

As regards the structure of research within the Institute, discussions of the proposal to establish a Research School of Chemistry which began in 1962 were continued in 1963 but have not yet reached finality. Proposals were also made concerning the possible establishment of a School of Biological Sciences and during the year the Vice-Chancellor appointed a committee to report on the development of biological research within the Institute; the committee has submitted its report to the Vice-Chancellor. Biological research was expanded by the institution within the John Curtin School of Medical Research of a new Department of Genetics and the appointment of Professor D. G. Catcheside, F.A.A., F.R.S., as Head of that Department.

Another development to which attention may be drawn is the very satisfactory growth of the Department of Mathematics in the Research School of Physical Sciences under Professor B. H. Neumann, F.R.S. Throughout the world there is an intense competition for highly qualified mathematicians: it was hoped when the decision was made to establish this Department that it would play an important part in stimulating teaching and research in mathematics.
throughout Australia. There is no doubt that the Department is being highly successful in this regard, and that it has very greatly strengthened the body of Australian mathematicians by the number and quality of the mathematicians it has attracted from abroad. With the addition of Professor K. Mahler, F.R.S., to those mathematicians already in the Department, including Professor Neumann himself, Professor J. W. Miles and Dr Hanna Neumann, the Department has already made a very significant contribution to the strength of mathematics in Australia. The new Mathematical Sciences Building is now occupied and the members of the Department of Statistics in the Research School of Social Sciences have joined the mathematicians in the new building.

In the Research School of Physical Sciences, the Field Station at Siding Spring Mountain for the Department of Astronomy is now occupied and the 16-in. and 40-in. reflecting telescopes for the new station have been delivered.

A few developments referred to in the reports of the separate Research Schools may here be mentioned for their special interest. In the Research School of Social Sciences, the progress with the Dictionary of Australian Biography reported by the Department of History is interesting because this is an example of the manner in which the Institute as a national institution can encourage work on an Australia-wide scale. In the inauguration of this great project, which involved the continuous collaboration of professional and non-professional historians throughout the whole country, Professor Sir Keith Hancock, F.B.A., and his colleagues in the Department of History took the leading part. The Research School of Social Sciences lent support to the project also by establishing on its staff a post (at professorial level) for the General Editor of the Dictionary; Professor D. H. Pike, formerly Professor of History in the University of Tasmania, has taken up this appointment. Another opportunity for co-operation with other universities has been created by the appointment in the Department of History of Dr Eleanor Searle, a mediaevalist; it is hoped that Dr Searle will be able to assist the development of teaching in mediaeval history in other universities by offering training courses (possibly during the long vacation) in the techniques of mediaeval studies for teachers and students from other Australian universities. The School expects to use some Vacation Scholarships for this purpose. The report for the Research School of Social Sciences describes work in progress in the several departments and the main innovations in research interests.

A very generous grant was made to the University by the Ford Foundation for the expansion of work relating to the Southeast Asian area. The greater part of the grant will be used by departments of the Research School of Pacific Studies, but a part of it has been made available to the Department of History in the School of Social Sciences, for assistance to its studies of the history of British India, and to the Department of Law. In the Research School of Pacific Studies a second Chair was established in the Department of Economics and filled by the appointment of Professor H. W. Arndt; a second Chair was established and advertised in the Department of Anthropology and Sociology. Within the Departments of Economics, International Relations, Anthropology and Sociology, as well as in other departments of the School, varied and extensive research projects relating to economic and political development in the countries of Southeast Asia are in progress; it may be added in this connection that the Department of Demography in the Research School of Social Sciences has intensified its work on demographic aspects of underdeveloped countries and countries characterized by a high rate of population growth. In the course of the year the Executive Officer of the New Guinea Research Unit in the Research School of Pacific Studies took up permanent residence in New Guinea; the School's work on various aspects of development in New Guinea is now proceeding with considerable momentum. In the second half of the year, Professor O. H. K. Spate served as a member of the committee appointed by the Commonwealth Government to report on the future of higher education in New Guinea. Interest in New Guinea extends to the Research School of Social Sciences: the Department of Political Science is engaged on studies of political developments, including the recent elections, and Professor R. S. Parker has been concerned with plans for the training of administrative personnel within the Territory.

As will be seen from other parts of this Annual Report, a considerable number of distinguished visitors from overseas and from elsewhere in Australia visited Schools of the Institute for varying periods of time. In the two Social Science Schools in particular, a number of members of staff of Australian universities paid short working visits to the Institute. This is one of the activities of the Institute which is of fundamental importance and one for which it will wish to make increasing provision in the future. With the enormous expansion of research work by many overseas universities and the very large resources that many of them, especially in North America, are now employing, it will not be easy for the Institute to establish and hold for itself a distinguished position as an important international centre of research (for example, in studies of Southeast Asian countries). The encouragement of leading international authorities to come and work in the Institute for a period is one of the most important ways in which the Institute can cultivate international contacts and maintain its position in the main streams of international scholarship. The success of the Institute in establishing itself as a national centre is being and will be reflected by the extent to which scholars from other Australian universities think it worth while to come to the Institute for periods of writing and research.
The opening by Her Majesty the Queen in March of the R. G. Menzies Building of the University Library marked an important point in the progress of the building programme. The permanent building for the Research Schools of Social Sciences and Pacific Studies made disappointingly slow progress throughout the year and will not be ready for occupation until about the middle of 1964. In the meantime, shortage of accommodation for the two Schools in the Old Hospital Buildings had become critical by the end of the year; it had become extremely difficult to find rooms for new members of staff, satisfactory working accommodation for many students was not obtainable, and the housing of the Department of Political Science in the annexe to the Haydon-Allen Building, a considerable distance from the other departments of the Research School of Social Sciences, has led to less than the desirable closeness of communication between it and other departments of the School. The number of postgraduate students is growing at a satisfactory rate but the provision of additional residential accommodation for them (by the establishment of a second postgraduate Hall of Residence and the building of flats for married scholars with children) has become a matter of urgency; as the number and quality of applicants for scholarships improve (as they have been during the past two years) it will be a great misfortune if the Institute is compelled to restrict its enrolments because of the absence of residences for students. It is also worth emphasizing that the increasing number of academic visitors in 1963 also placed burdens on University-owned accommodation. The Institute will not be able to follow a policy of increasing its total of Visiting Fellows if the University is not able to keep pace with accommodation for them. Both these needs will have to be accorded very high priority in the 1967-69 triennium.

During 1963, 104 scholarships were awarded and accepted in the Institute. At the end of 1963 the number of students working for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy stood at 205. It is interesting to note that approximately 40 per cent of the new students enrolled in the course of the year came from overseas, including about 20 from Britain and European countries and about 10 from Canada and the United States. It is still the case that the University does not attract a very large number of the very best graduates of other Australian universities (it is inevitable and in most cases highly desirable, that they should wish to proceed as soon as possible to the great centres of population and the great seats of learning in other parts of the world); even so, the Institute is in most departments recruiting a reasonable number of able Australian graduates; and it is gratifying that it should be recruiting in addition a respectable body of good graduates from other countries. At the conferring of degrees on 21 March 1963 the degree of Doctor of Philosophy was conferred on 35 graduates.
The resignation of Professor Sir Mark Oliphant, K.B.E., F.A.A., F.R.S.N.Z., F.R.S., from the office of Director of the Research School of Physical Sciences took effect on 31 December, and Professor J. C. Jaeger was appointed Dean of the School. Professor Sir Mark Oliphant played a leading role in the development of the Institute from the earliest days and all members of the Institute would wish a tribute to be paid to his contribution to the growth of the University on the occasion of his resignation as Head of the School which he planned and inaugurated. All members of the Institute and the University would also wish to associate themselves with the remarks in the report of the Dean of the John Curtin School of Medical Research concerning the great academic honour bestowed on Professor Sir John Eccles, F.A.A., F.R.S.N.Z., F.R.S.

The School of General Studies

In 1963 the progress of the School of General Studies has given cause for real satisfaction. The growth of the University as a whole has been almost entirely a post-war development, but already the numbers enrolled are outstripping those in the University of Tasmania which was established as long ago as 1890. If we leave aside the external enrolments of the University of New England our numbers now considerably exceed those in attendance at Armidale. Naturally enough the numbers are still considerably below those of the bigger State universities, but the present rate of growth must be regarded as a significant contribution to the problem of coping with increasing student numbers in Australia. The total enrolment in the School of General Studies in 1963 was 1,621.

The distribution of these numbers between the various faculties showed Arts still the largest faculty, with a total enrolment of 729 students; Economics second with 374, Science third with 300, Law fourth with 151 and Oriental Studies the youngest and smallest faculty with 77. At a time when there is so much emphasis on science and mathematics it is of interest to note that the Faculty of Arts still remained unchallenged as the largest faculty in the School of General Studies. The numbers in Science grew by 50 per cent in 1963 over the previous year, while the rate of growth in Law and Economics was somewhat lower. This trend in numbers has to be kept constantly in mind in the planning of accommodation for teaching and research purposes in the various faculties.

The total number of degrees conferred on graduates from the School of General Studies in 1963 was 85. Arts graduates led easily with 46 bachelor’s degrees (including eight in Oriental Studies), and two master’s degrees. Next in order of numbers of bachelors’ degrees came Economics with 24, Law with 8 and Science with 5.

The provision of new permanent buildings has been one of the most gratifying features during the year 1963. This year saw the completion and occupation of the new Chemistry Building which was officially opened by His Excellency the Governor-General in June. It has also seen the completion and occupation of the new Geology building, as a result of which the north side of University Avenue now forms a well built and delightfully laid out Science precinct. The precinct is to extend to the south side of University Avenue also, and the first stage of the expansion has been marked by the beginning of the new Zoology building designed by the firm of Grounds, Romberg and Boyd. In spite of a serious set-back in the early stages of construction the building is now well on its way to completion and occupation is expected late in 1964. The other major landmark has been the construction of the first stage of the General Studies Building of the University Library. By general agreement this is a very handsome addition to the buildings of the University; when the second stage is completed it will be an even greater ornament to the University for it will then have its correct proportions.

It is pleasing to be able to record also that in the course of the year Council approved plans for several new buildings for the School of General Studies. Foremost amongst these was the new Economics building which will eventually form a great court-yard with the buildings of the Faculty of Arts. The new Economics building will also house the Faculty of Law for a time, and this project will go to tender early in 1964. Plans were also approved for a University Union and for the Centre of Oriental Studies. These buildings are now under construction. It can be gathered from the above that the University site presents a scene of busy construction which is rapidly changing the appearance of the native bush and swamp land of the area. This change has been brought about very largely by the treatment of Sullivan's Creek as part of the Canberra plan for the development of Lake Burley Griffin. When the lake is filled Sullivan's Creek should become an attractive waterway, perhaps a little reminiscent of the Cambridge 'Backs', instead of the rather be-draggled looking creek which is rather more typical of the Australian landscape.

The other most heartening development of the building programme of the University in 1963 was the approval by Council of sketch plans for two halls of residence which are to be built to the south of Bruce Hall to house another 500 students. The two halls are each to take the form of four blocks, each four storeys high and housing some 60 to 65 students. These will be round a lower central building providing dining, common room and administrative facilities. The models prepared show a most attractive project, and one which is essential if this University is to develop its national character. The increasing demands from students in other States of Australia and overseas makes it essential that we should develop residential accommodation for students as fast as possible. There are some signs that we may be helped towards this objective by the establishment of affiliated colleges sponsored by religious bodies, if they can be accommodated on the university site.

During 1963 accommodation in Bruce Hall was increased from 165 to 210 by the addition of a new block of rooms for women students. The purchase of the former motel Schreinerhof (near Civic Centre) early in 1963 provided another 25 places for women students. At the end of the year it was decided that Lennox House (conducted by Commonwealth Hostels for some years) should be taken over completely as a hall of residence early in 1964. There were about 100 men students in Lennox House in 1963, and there should be 110 to 115 places in 1964. We should enter the academic year of 1964 with about 350 places for students in halls of residence. This number should be more than doubled in 1966 and will need to be increased steadily to attain the desirable ideal of having at least half the undergraduate students in residence. Unless this is done the title of national will be a misnomer.

Together with the active building programme there has been corresponding academic development. In the Faculty of Arts the introduction of a course for the degree of Master of Arts in Sociology, in collaboration with the Institute of Advanced Studies, has been an important new venture. The immediate response of a dozen students wishing to undertake the course showed that this has met a real need. At the same time planning had been virtually completed by the end of 1963 for the installation of a language laboratory in the basement of the General Studies Building of the University Library. This will be completed in 1964 and will serve the needs of the language departments in the Faculties of Arts and Oriental Studies.

In the course of 1963, Dr A. H. Johns who had been senior lecturer in charge of the teaching of Indonesian and Malay languages since 1958, was appointed to the newly created Chair of Indonesian Languages and Literatures. We believe that this is the first full chair in the subject in the British Commonwealth, and that we are fortunate in having Dr Johns to occupy it. During the year three new Chairs were advertised—in Accounting and Public Finance, Pure Mathematics and Russian. At the end of the year appointments to the first two were imminent, but the scarcity of senior scholars in the field of Russian studies was causing more delay in the filling of the third Chair.

The growth in status of the Faculty of Law continued and an important step was taken in enlarging the membership of the Faculty by the addition of three members from outside the University. The Hon. Mr Justice P. E. Joske, Sir Kenneth Bailey and Mr K. F. O'Leary brought a welcome representation of the Judiciary, the Commonwealth Attorney-General's Department, and private legal practitioners into the hitherto entirely academic structure of the Faculty. During the year the Faculty decided to begin publication of an annual law review, to be known as the Federal Law Review, and to be a vehicle for articles in the field of what may be called broadly federal and public law. This is a worthwhile venture which should produce useful results.

The other main developments have been in the Faculty of Economics where the course structure has been modified to encourage the study in depth of economics and closely related subjects. (Those who wish to study economics with subjects other than these can still do so in the Faculty of Arts.) For the Faculty perhaps the most moving event of the year was the resignation of Professor H. W. Arndt from his chair to accept a post with Professor Sir John Crawford in the Research School of Pacific Studies. Professor Arndt, who came to Canberra in 1951, may be regarded, together with the Principal and Professors Clark, Crisp and Hope, as one of the 'foundation professors' who did so much to shape the policy of the Canberra University College and to raise its academic status. While regretting his loss from regular undergraduate teaching we can take consolation in the fact that he is not lost either to Canberra or the University. Professor B. D. Cameron, Professor of Applied Economics since 1958, has succeeded Professor Arndt as Head of the Department; the University has been fortunate in having available such capable a successor ready at hand.

Apart from the purely academic work and expansion of the School of General Studies it can be recorded with pleasure that our relations with the Canberra community continue to develop more fruitfully each year. A great deal of this is due to the Department of Adult Education, which brings the University and the community together in a profitable and enjoyable way. The programme of activities is growing each year with marked success. In the course of the year a Committee on Extra-Mural Studies, under the chairmanship of Sir George Currie and at the request of the Vice-Chancellor, prepared a report on the future development of these activities. The report stressed the need to bring the new knowledge from research and study to the Australian community as a whole by means of radio and television. Steps are being taken to do this as financial resources become available.

From the point of view of the undergraduates it is pleasing to record that student activities have also flourished and that 1963 saw a record number of clubs and societies catering for their intellectual and social interests. The first sports oval on the University site came into use in the summer of 1962-63, and it has already become an arena for inter-university matches as well as for regular use throughout the year. The Students' Revue in 1963 reached a level of enjoyable and pungent comment on current events that would have done credit to any group of university students. These are less tangible things than new buildings, but their importance is not less. The Students' Representative Council, and the committees of the various clubs and societies have indeed made their contribution to the growth of the University.

Taking the year 1963 as a whole there have been the inevitable pluses and minuses to record. Altogether, however, it has been a year of great activity and progress from which we may justifiably take pride and satisfaction.

GENERAL UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES

Adult Education

During 1963 courses were increased to 42 and enrolments to 1,280 with higher enrolments in the longer courses. Some short courses were linked to enable students to study a subject for a year or more. Original work by students of Creative Writing will be published soon; one lecturer’s course has been accepted for publication and another course is being considered.

The Worker’s Education Association Committee at Cooma, with advice and assistance from the Resident Tutor, arranged two courses and two linked week-end schools. Regional enrolments greatly increased.

The most significant development in 1963 was the adoption of the Currie Report, recommending withdrawal from regional responsibilities, assumption of national responsibilities and engagement in television and radio activities.

Drama Committee

The Drama Committee met twice during the year, primarily to discuss the provision of theatre facilities in the University. Discussion centred on the proposed theatre for the H. C. Coombs Building, which is to be suitable for dramatic performances as well as for University lectures; a clear picture was formed of the facilities required and this has assisted the planning of the theatre. There was also discussion of a proposal to have an open-air theatre on the campus; this proposal has been communicated to the Site Consultant for his revision of the site plan.

The Committee made a grant to the University Dramatic Club to cover a loss incurred in producing the premiere of the Australian play ‘O’Leary’.

Research Students’ Association

The Association’s main activity was again the sponsoring of the Annual Lecture. This Lecture, entitled ‘The Problem of Scientific Knowledge’, was given by Professor K. R. Popper, F.B.A., of the London School of Economics and Political Science.

With the co-operation of the University, during the year a scheme was instituted to assist scholars with the typing of their theses. Through its Welfare Fund the Association has continued to assist members in temporary financial difficulties with small, short-term loans.

Students' Association

Lack of Union facilities again hindered the smooth functioning of extra-curricular activities and the best that could be made of the inadequate Childers Street buildings was not enough. Increased administrative burden has prompted the appointment of a part-time secretarial assistant.

The Australian National University Revue 'Beat Up' provided enjoyment for many and a profit for the Association. As a result of a very successful 'Bush Week' the Aboriginal Scholarship Scheme and Koomarri House each received £381.

In conjunction with the Bank of New South Wales the Association has set up a student loan service which will commence in 1964.

Sports Union

The Sports Union through its clubs allowed members, i.e., mainly the undergraduate body, to participate in cricket, hockey, table tennis, rugby, national football, soccer, women's hockey, women's basketball, skiing, cross country running, golf, rifle shooting and squash, in local A.C.T. competitions and also against other Australian universities at inter-university carnivals. Blues were awarded for the first time.

The executive body of the Sports Union allocated finances to clubs for items considered necessary, negotiated with the University for improvements and more sporting facilities and managed affairs necessary to the promotion of University sport locally and inter-varsity. In general it may be said that in 1963 the Sports Union established itself as an active and important body in student affairs.

Inaugural Lecture

Professor J. D. B. Miller, who took up his appointment as Head of the Department of International Relations in the Institute of Advanced Studies on 1 October 1962, gave his Inaugural Lecture at University House on 17 September. The title of Professor Miller's Lecture, which has since been published, was 'The Shape of Diplomacy'.

Public Lectures

In 1963 the University offered a varied programme of public lectures which included a series of three lectures on sociological topics, three public lectures in physics for senior secondary school pupils and five public lectures in archaeology which were held in conjunction with an archaeological exhibition. Several other lectures of a more specialized nature were open to interested persons.

The series under the general title of 'Lectures in Sociology' was presented by members of the Department of Sociology in the Research School of Social Sciences. The lectures were: ‘Social Classes’ (Professor Kurt B. Mayer, Chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology in Brown University who held a Visiting Fellowship in Sociology in this University in 1963); ‘The intellectual and political elites in the developing countries’ (Mr J. Zubrzycki); and ‘Religion and Society’ (Dr J. J. Mol).

The lectures for senior secondary school pupils were arranged by the Department of Physics in the School of General Studies and presented under the general title of ‘Waves’. The three lectures were: ‘Wave Motion’ (Dr C. E. Dahlstrom); ‘Light’ (Dr L. O. Brown); and ‘Sound’ (Dr J. G. Aitchison).

Five public lectures were given in conjunction with an archaeological exhibition, ‘Patterns of Culture’, which was presented in Third Term by the University in association with the University of Sydney. The series consisted of ‘From Mycenae to Stonehenge’ (Mr J. V. S. Megaw of the University of Sydney); ‘The Bronze Age art of Ancient China’ (Dr N. Barnard); ‘Angkor in archaeological perspective’ (Dr H. H. E. Loofs); ‘Stone Age hunters—past and present’ (Mr R. V. S. Wright of the University of Sydney); and ‘Is archaeology really necessary?’ (Mr J. Golson). The study of linguistics was the subject of three lectures in Second Term; two of these lectures given by Professor B. Collinder of the Royal University of Uppsala who discussed ‘How a linguist studies native peoples’. The earlier lectures were ‘What is linguistics?’ (Dr S. A. Wurm), and ‘Comparative Linguists’ (Mr J. Harris).

The University also presented a public lecture on ‘The evolution of Japanese art from ancient times to today’ by Professor Toru Mori, Professor of Aesthetics and the History of Fine Art at the Osaka Institute of Technology.

The 1963 programme included two Commonwealth Literary Fund Lectures—‘The Literary Career of J. F. Mortlock’ (Professor G. A. Wilkes of the University of Sydney) and ‘Australian English’ (Dr W. S. Ramson)—and the annual Morrison Lecture which was given this year by Professor H. F. Simon of the University of Melbourne. Professor Simon spoke on ‘Some motivations of Chinese foreign policy’.

Specialized lectures which were open to interested persons included ‘Social and medical factors in the decline of mortality in the nineteenth century’ by Professor T. McKeown of the University of Birmingham who was a Commonwealth University Interchange Visitor in 1963; and two lectures on psychological topics by Dr Z. P. Dienes of the University of Adelaide.

Publications Committee

The Publications Committee is a committee of Council whose members are appointed from the five Schools of the University. It administers a fund to assist in the publication of some works embodying the results of research undertaken in the University.

During the year 10 titles have been published: Dr K. L. Gillion, Fiji’s Indian Migrants; Dr C. A. Price, Southern Europeans in Australia, and The Method and Statistics of Southern Europeans in Australia; Dr H. C. Brookfield and Dr Paula Brown, Struggle for Land (in association with Oxford University Press); Dr T. M. Perry, Australia’s First Frontier; Dr R. A. Gollan, The Coalminers of New South Wales (in association with Melbourne University Press); Dr G. C. Bolton, A Thousand Miles Away (in association with Jacaranda Press); Professor T. H. Silcock and Mr E. K. Fisk (editors), The Political Economy of Independent Malaya; Dr A. R. Hall, The London Capital Market and Australia 1870-1914; Mr R. P. Deane, The Establishment of the Department of Trade.

Five others are in preparation: Dr C. Forster, Industrial Development in Australia 1920-1930; Dr P. J. O’Farrell, Harry Holland, Militant Socialist; Dr M. Roe, Quest for Authority in Eastern Australia (in association with Melbourne University Press); Dr R. G. Crocombe, Land Tenure in the Cook Islands (in association with Oxford University Press); Dr C. A. Price, Jewish Settlers in Australia (in association with the Jewish Historical Society). The books published in 1963 are the largest number published through the Committee to date; those at present in course of publication and the manuscripts in preparation and forthcoming suggest that 1964 will show an even greater increase.

The Publications section has in the past co-operated in the distribution of the various departmental studies—for example, the publications of the Department of Demography and the working papers of the Department of International Relations. To these have now been added the New Guinea Research Unit Bulletins. In addition, Professor J. D. B. Miller’s Inaugural Lecture—The Shape of Diplomacy, and the Morrison Lecture for 1962, by Professor N. G. D. Malmqvist—Problems and Methods in Chinese Linguistics—were seen through the press on behalf of Central Administration.

Site Works

The completion of the Canberra Lakes Scheme has necessitated a large amount of work on Sullivan's Creek which runs through the University site. This work is designed to transform the creek into an attractive water feature. One bridge across Sullivan's Creek has been completed and another is under construction.

Work is well in hand to extend the hot water reticulation around the University site. Roads and footpaths have been built. Water, electricity, sewerage and drainage have been extended to keep pace with development. The first University Oval has been opened and a programme of landscaping has been carried out.

Halls of Residence

The University has completed the first stage of a study of the design of Halls of Residence, which has been very important in finding economical ways of building accommodation that properly fulfil the needs of a Hall of Residence. The findings of this study have been used in the design of two new Halls of Residence to be built in the 1964-66 triennium.

The National Capital Development Commission has assisted the University by acting as its agent for many of the University's projects.

The following bibliography lists the scholarly books and articles published by members of the University from 1 October 1963 to 30 September 1964. The list includes publications by former members when such publications are based on work carried out at the University.

Works of joint-authorship are listed under the name of the author first appearing in the credit line or contents list of the original journal. Each author's publications are in alphabetical order, grammatical articles and the convention 'Contribution to' having been ignored. Where any title begins with a figure, that figure has been regarded as spelt out for alphabetical order purposes.

Bibliographies for previous years will be found in the Calendars for the years 1958 to 1963 inclusive. Consolidated lists will be published in 1965 and every five years thereafter. An alphabetical list of the journals cited, showing places of publication and the abbreviations used, was printed in the 1958 Calendar.
