

AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL UNIVERSITY

LIBRARY

The persons whose signatures appear below have consulted this thesis by Amit Katsav and are aware that it is available for study only and that no quotations, or substantive information not otherwise available, may be published therefrom without the consent of the author and of

.....

Name (PRINT & Sign)	Date	Name (PRINT & Sign)	Date

Permission is given /  to the University Librarian or his representative to allow persons other than students or members of staff of the University to consult my thesis only for the purposes of private study and research.

South Korea's democratisation process:
The international factor

Amit Katsav
Submission date: 3 June 2005

Thesis submitted in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the Degree of Master of Arts (Asian Studies) of the Australian National University

AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL UNIVERSITY
CANBERRA 2005

DECLARATION

Except where otherwise indicated this thesis is my own work.
All sources used have been acknowledged.

Amit Katsav
2005

Acknowledgements

I would like to thank Professor Ken Wells for his supervision and his help in writing this thesis. In the course of writing this paper his advices and efforts are truly appreciated.

Secondly, I am in debt to the Korea Foundation. Without their continued support this paper could not have been published.

For many useful advices I would like to express my appreciation to Dr. Andrei Lankov who also was a great source of help during my studies and my visit to South Korea.

Finally, I would like to mention the help of the Korean National Library staff and the Australian National University's library, especially Darrell.Dorrington who helped me with the final draft.

On a more personal note, I would like to thank my dear Hee-Jung who always been there for me, encouraging and giving helpful advices.

Table of Contents

Declaration	ii
Acknowledgements	iii
Notes for readers	v
Introduction	1
Chapter I: Theoretical background – The Transition to Democracy	5
1.1 The meaning of democracy	6
1.2 International factors	15
1.3 Economic development – a basic condition for democracy?	24
1.4 Is there really a connection between Civil Society and Democracy?	26
Chapter II: 1945-1960 – The Introduction of Democracy and its Failure	32
2.1 Korea's First Experiment with Democracy –The American Occupation (1945-1948)	33
2.2 From Apathy to deep involvement 1948-1958	44
2.3 The Second Republic	53
Chapter III: 1979-1980, the Hope of Democracy	62
3.1 The Murder and its after math	63
3.2 Kwangju and world involvement	75
3.3 The Repercussions of the U.S. Actions	86
Chapter IV: The Success of Democratisation	93
4.1 The socio-economic situation of the Fifth Republic	94
4.2 Historical Review	97
4.3 The international Factors	104
4.4 Korean Democracy and its benefits	113
Conclusion	121
Reference List	126

Notes for readers

Romanisation of Korean

In this paper I will follow the McCune-Reischauer system. That system applied toward Korean names, institutions and publications. The common romanisation of a person, as it appears in newspapers and other publications is used in some cases following the proper romanisation.

Translations

All of the translations from Korean sources made by the author unless indicated otherwise.