Glossary

For items which have both Australia-wide and elective regional names, the main entry is the most commonly used Australia-wide name. For items which have obligatory regional names only, the main entry is the name used in the NSW part of the North-East usage region. (The only exception is sourgrass. This item does not seem to be known in the NE, so the name used in the nearest region, the South-East, is used as the main entry.) All entries are cross-referenced.

The definitions given here are for the words only as used in this survey, e.g., stone here refers only to a stone suitable for throwing. Definitions in most cases are taken or adapted from the Macquarie Dictionary (1991). The definition given for an item here may not be the one given as the main entry in the MD. It may be the definition of one of the other regional words for the item (e.g., the definition for yongie is combined with the definition of stone as the definition of stone here), or it may be under a cross-referenced entry (e.g., swimming costume (the main entry here) is cross-referenced in the MD to swimsuit, where it is defined). Entries marked * differ substantially from those in the MD.

The item numbers in brackets refer to the pictorial questionnaire.
