PREFACE

This bulletin contains statistics for the year 1959 relating to staff, students, and degrees conferred at the Universities of Sydney, Melbourne, Queensland, Adelaide, Western Australia, Tasmania, New South Wales and New England (Armidale, New South Wales), and the Canberra University College. Particulars of the Australian National University (Canberra) are included only in Tables 24 to 31 inclusive. Particulars of the Newcastle University College are included with the University of New South Wales.

The tables present figures on a comparable basis as between Universities or show Australian totals for the years 1955 to 1959 for purposes of comparison. However, comparability is affected by factors such as differences and changes in practices in various Universities including re-organizations of faculties and courses and commencement of new courses.

Staff statistics relate to the end of the year to which they refer.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This Bulletin contains statistics for the year 1960 relating to staff, students, and degrees conferred at the Universities of Sydney, Melbourne, Queensland, Adelaide, Western Australia, Tasmania, New South Wales and New England (Armidale, New South Wales), and the Canberra University College. Particulars of the Australian National University (Canberra) are included only in Tables 24 to 31 inclusive. Particulars of the Newcastle University College are included with the University of New South Wales.

The new Victorian University, Monash, did not commence teaching until 1961. Particulars of Monash University staff employed at the end of 1960 are included in the "Total" columns of Tables 1 to 7. These particulars are also specified in a footnote to Table 1. No separate columns for Monash University are shown in any of the tables of this issue of the Bulletin.

From September 1960, the institutions referred to in this publication as the Australian National University and the Canberra University College became respectively, the Institute of Advanced Studies and the School of General Studies, of the Australian National University.

The tables present figures on a comparable basis as between Universities or show Australian totals for the years 1956 to 1960 for purposes of comparison. However, comparability is affected by factors such as differences and changes in practices in various Universities, including re-organizations of faculties and courses, and commencement of new courses.

Staff statistics relate to the end of the year to which they refer.
