EXPORT PRICE INDEX, SEPTEMBER 1969

This bulletin contains Export Price Index numbers on the reference base: Year 1959-60 = 100. A full description of the index and its relationship with the previous index is given in Commonwealth Year Book No. 54, 1968 (pages 272-276).

2. The Export Price Index is a fixed-weights index. Its purpose is to provide comparisons monthly over a limited number of years of the level of export prices of the selected items, making no allowance for variations in quantities exported. The index numbers are thus measures of price change only.
3. The price series used in the index relate to specified standards for each commodity and in most cases are combinations of prices for a number of representative grades, types, etc. For some commodities price movements in the predominant market, or markets, are used, while for other commodities average realisations in all export markets are used. As nearly as possible, prices used are on the basis f.o.b. at the main Australian ports of export.
4. There are 29 ^{items} in the index with weights based on average annual values of exports during the 5 years 1956-57 to 1960-61. During that period these items constituted 83% of the total value of Australian exports. In recent years this proportion has decreased and in 1966-67 and 1967-68 was less than 75% of the total value. A review of the content and weighting pattern of the index is proceeding.
5. The Export Price Index has been compiled for each month from July 1959. Index numbers for each of the groups and All Groups are shown in Table 2 on page 2. The yearly index numbers are simple averages of the twelve monthly index numbers in each year.
6. Table 1 below shows for each index the percentage change of the index numbers for the month of September 1969, from the preceding month (August 1969) and from the corresponding month of the previous year (September 1968).
