EXPLANATORY NOTES

1. Introduction

This supplement has been produced to provide the table (Table 5) of 1986 Census urban centres/(rural) localities which was not available at the time of publishing of Census 86 — Australian Standard Geographical Classification; Geographic Code List (Edition 1) (2188.0).

At the time of publishing Edition 1, it had been intended to include this table in an Edition 2 of the A.S.G.C. Geographic Code List but it has now been decided to publish the table in this supplement instead. Should a reprint of Edition 1 become necessary, the table would then be included in the main volume.

2. Geographic Definition

Urban Centre/(Rural) Locality

After the 1986 Census of Population and Housing a boundary was finalised for each population cluster of 1,000 or more people and for known holiday resorts of less population if they contained 250 or more dwellings (not including caravans etc. in caravan parks) of which at least 100 were occupied. These clusters are known as urban centres and the population and dwellings enumerated in them are classified as urban for statistical purposes. Population clusters of between 200 and 999 people are also defined; they form localities and the populations are classified as rural. The rules used to determine urban centres and (rural) localities, and to define their boundaries, are complex and are not reproduced here, but are available on request.

3. Abbreviations used in table

- S — State
- T — Territory
- UC L — Urban Centre (Rural) Locality
- (L) — Locality
- (H) — Known Holiday Resort
