

MADE CHINA

JOURNAL

VOLUME 3, ISSUE 2, APR-JUN 2018

ANYBODY OUT THERE?

The Chinese Labour Movement under Xi

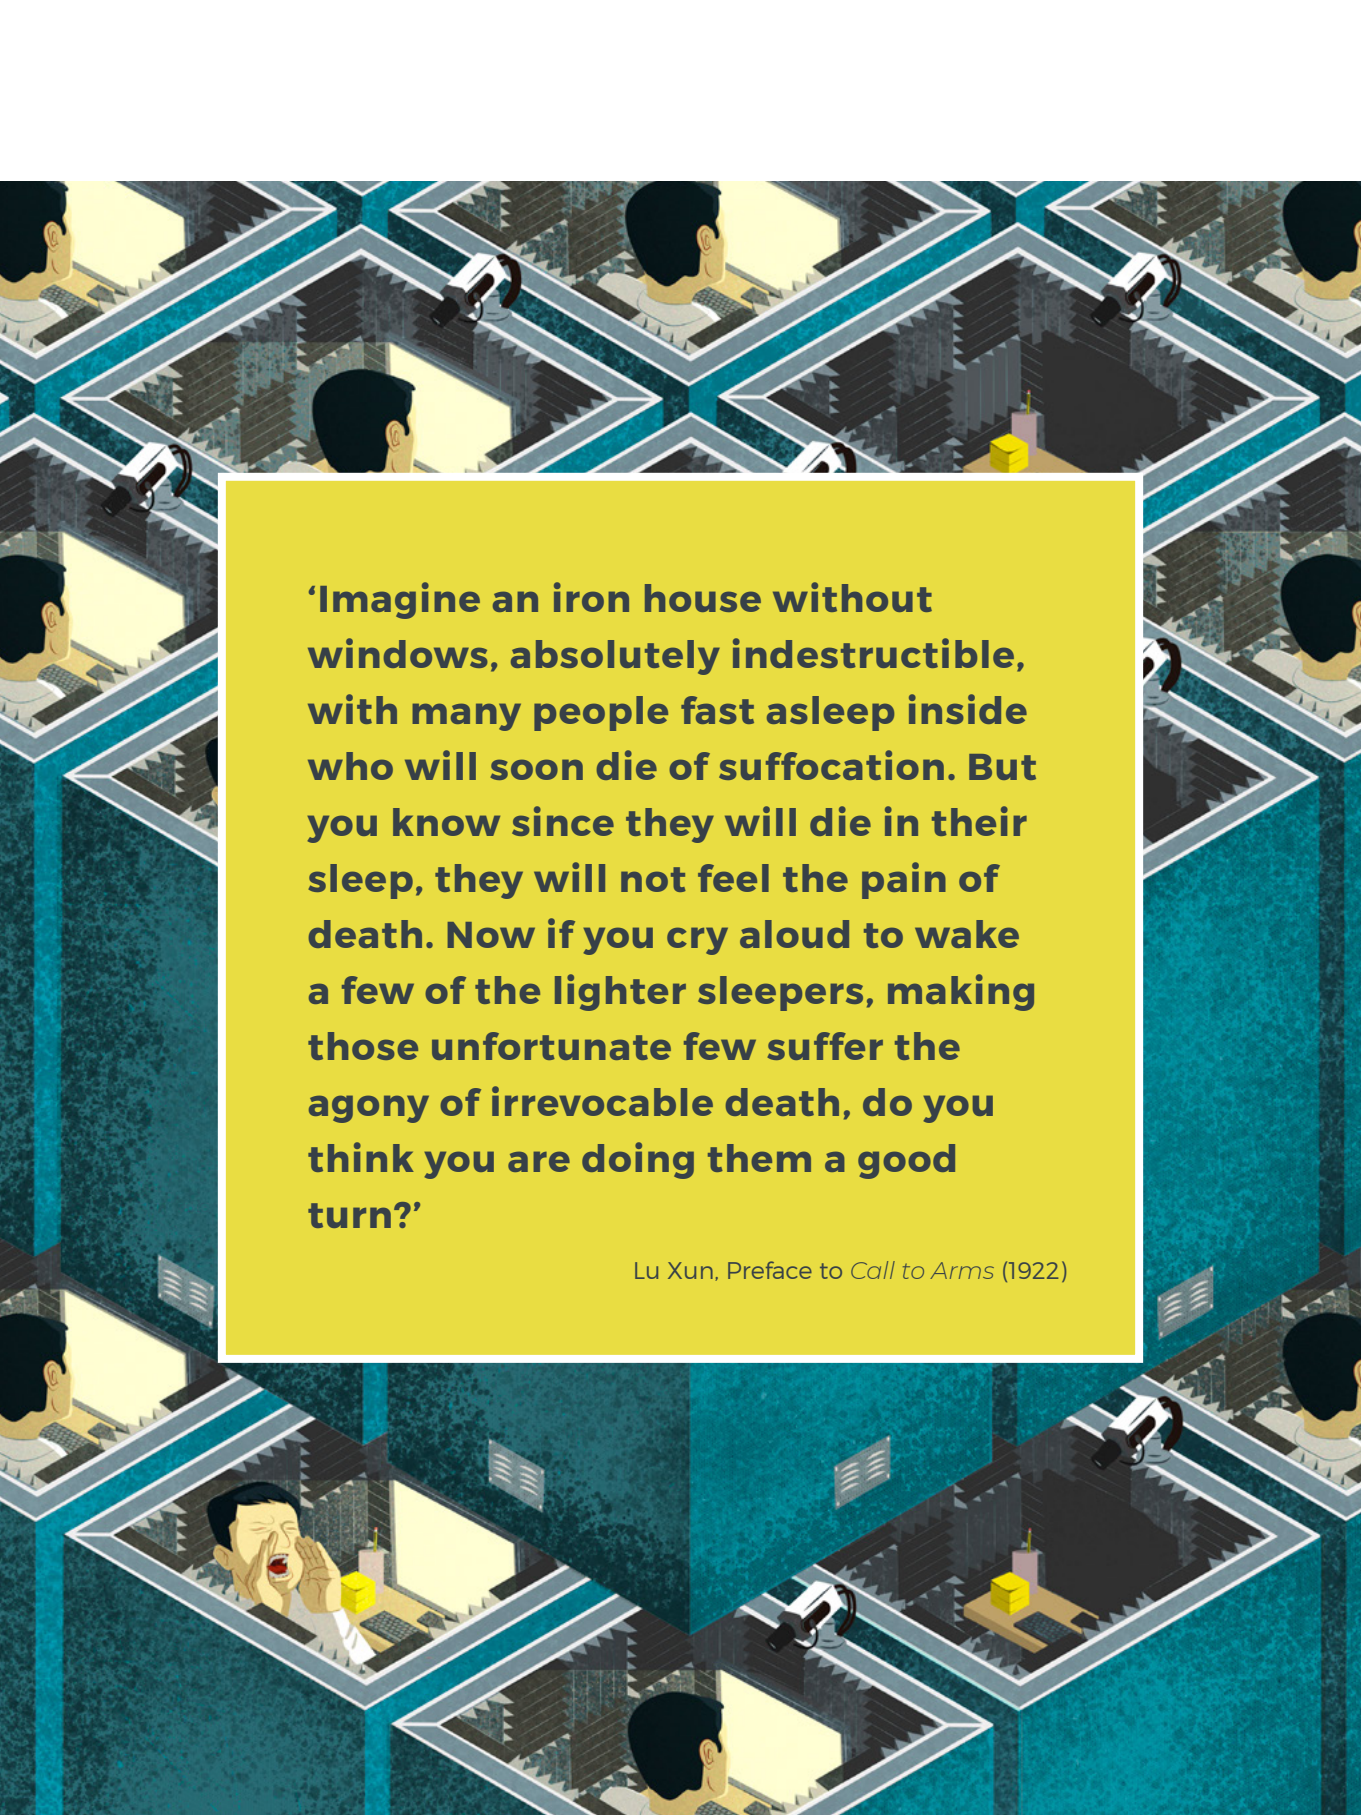

MADE IN CHINA JOURNAL

Made in China is a quarterly on Chinese labour, civil society, and rights. This project has been produced with the financial assistance of the Australian Centre on China in the World (CIW), the Australian National University; the European Union Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme under the Marie Skłodowska-Curie Grant Agreement No 654852; and the Centre for East and South-East Asian Studies, Lund University. The views expressed are those of the individual authors and do not represent the views of the European Union, CIW, Lund University, or the institutions to which the authors are affiliated.

中 全球研究中心
AUSTRALIAN CENTRE ON
CHINA IN THE WORLD

CHINOIRESIE
misaligned shards of China

‘Imagine an iron house without windows, absolutely indestructible, with many people fast asleep inside who will soon die of suffocation. But you know since they will die in their sleep, they will not feel the pain of death. Now if you cry aloud to wake a few of the lighter sleepers, making those unfortunate few suffer the agony of irrevocable death, do you think you are doing them a good turn?’

Lu Xun, Preface to Call to Arms (1922)

MADE IN CHINA
JOURNAL

VOLUME 3, ISSUE #2

APR-JUN 2018

ISSN 2206-9119

CHIEF EDITORS

Ivan Franceschini, Nicholas Loubere

GUEST EDITOR

Kevin Lin

EDITORIAL BOARD

Elisa Nesossi, Andrea Enrico Pia, Christian Sorace

ISSUE CONTRIBUTORS

Sarah M. Brooks, Kevin Carrico, Chris Chan, Nellie Chu, Geoffrey Crothall, Ivan Franceschini, Huang Wenhui, Huang Yu, Elaine Sio-leng Hui, Kevin Lin, Carl Minzner, Sverre Molland, Elisa Nesossi, Yu Chunsen, Zeng Jinyan, Zhang Lu

COPY-EDITING

Sharon Strange

EDITORIAL ASSISTANTS

Nan Liu, Tessie Sun

ART DIRECTION

Tommaso Facchin

COVER ARTWORK

Marc Verdugo

TABLE OF CONTENTS

EDITORIAL (P. 6)

BRIEFS (P. 7)

OP-EDS (P. 11)

CHINA STUDIES BETWEEN CENSORSHIP
AND SELF-CENSORSHIP (P. 12)

Kevin Carrico

WILL THE FUTURE OF HUMAN RIGHTS BE
'MADE IN CHINA'? (P. 16)

Sarah M. Brooks

FOCUS (P. 22)

CHANGES AND CONTINUITY: FOUR DECADES OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN
CHINA (P. 24)

Chris King-Chi Chan

CHINA'S LABOUR MOVEMENT IN TRANSITION (P. 28)

Geoffrey Crothall

GONGYOU, THE NEW DANGEROUS CLASS
IN CHINA? (P. 36)

Yu Chunsen

RECONFIGURING SUPPLY CHAINS:
TRANSREGIONAL INFRASTRUCTURE AND INFORMAL MANUFACTURING IN SOUTHERN
CHINA (P. 40)

Nellie Chu

THE STRUGGLES OF TEMPORARY AGENCY
WORKERS IN XI'S CHINA (P. 46)

Zhang Lu

ROBOT THREAT OR ROBOT DIVIDEND? A
STRUGGLE BETWEEN TWO LINES (P. 50)

Huang Yu

A 'PESSOPTIMISTIC' VIEW OF CHINESE
LABOUR NGOS (P. 56)
Ivan Franceschini
Kevin Lin

WORK OF ARTS (P. 60)

THE LAST DAYS OF SHI YANG (P. 61)
Ivan Franceschini

WE THE WORKERS: A CONVERSATION WITH
HUANG WENHAI (P. 66)
Zeng Jinyan

WINDOW ON ASIA (P. 76)

CHINA AND DEVELOPMENT AID: THE CASE OF ANTI-TRAFFICKING AND SEAFOOD IN SOUTHEAST ASIA (P. 78)
Sverre Molland

CONVERSATIONS (P. 82)

HEGEMONIC TRANSFORMATION: A
CONVERSATION WITH ELAINE SIO-IENG
HUI (P. 82)
Ivan Franceschini

END OF AN ERA: A CONVERSATION WITH
CARL MINZNER (P. 88)
Elisa Nesossi

CONTRIBUTOR BIOS (P. 94)

BIBLIOGRAPHY (P. 96)

Anybody Out There?

The Chinese Labour Movement under Xi

Labour activism has undergone significant transformation in China over the last decade. Between the mid-2000s and mid-2010s, an increase in labour protests seemed to herald a growing and more self-confident labour movement. A series of high-profile collective actions that took place in 2010—in particular a strike at a Honda auto parts factory in Foshan in 2010—brought forward a time of renewed optimism, during which the public debate on Chinese labour came to be dominated by the idea of China’s workers ‘awakening’ and taking their fate into their own hands. This new narrative was largely focussed on the so-called ‘new generation of migrant workers’, presented in much of the academic literature and public debate as the engine of the new wave of worker struggle. Far from the optimism of those years, today the effects of economic slowdown and the tightening of civil society have thrown China’s workers into a state of uncertainty and disorientation, and the Chinese labour movement has once again found itself at an impasse.

This issue of Made in China offers a series of essays that aim at assessing and understanding the current conjuncture. In Changes and Continuity, Chris King-Chi Chan offers a retrospective of the development of industrial relations in China over the past four decades. In China’s Labour Movement in Transition, Geoffrey Crothall analyses the latest trends in Chinese labour unrest. In Gongyou, the New Dangerous Class in China?, Yu Chunsen looks into the discourses that Chinese migrant workers use to define their shared identity, probing the possibility of them becoming the foundation of a new class consciousness. In Reconfiguring Supply Chains, Nellie Chu shows how infrastructure projects that link China’s interior and coastal manufacturing regions have intensified key aspects of the country’s informal economy. In The Struggles of Temporary Agency Workers in Xi’s China, Zhang Lu tracks the activism of dispatch workers in Chinese auto factories, examining the potential for this group to successfully bargain for their rights. In Robot Threat or Robot Dividend?, Huang Yu considers the possible consequences of automation and robotisation on employment and labour activism in China. Finally, in A ‘Pessoptimistic’ View of Chinese Labour NGOs, Ivan Franceschini and Kevin Lin revisit the debate on labour NGOs in China, offering their own reading of the current situation.

In the op-ed section, we include two pieces, one by Kevin Carrico about academic self-censorship and another by Sarah Brooks on the efforts of the Chinese authorities to influence international discourses and practices of human rights. The cultural section comprises two essays. In We the Workers, producer Zeng Jinyan and director Huang Wenhai discuss their latest documentary about labour NGOs and worker struggles in China. In The Last Days of Shi Yang, Ivan Franceschini presents a fictionalised account of a revolutionary martyr of the 1920s—a lawyer that played an important role in the labour struggles of those years. We conclude the issue with a new Conversations section, in which we feature interviews with the authors of two recently released books: Elaine Sio-Ieng Hui’s Hegemonic Transformation and Carl Minzner’s End of an Era. ■

The Editors

A 'Pessoptimistic' View of Chinese Labour NGOs

Ivan Franceschini
Kevin Lin

In the wake of the 2015 crackdown on labour NGOs, pessimism about the future of Chinese civil society has been unavoidable even for the most assured optimists. Still, pessimism and optimism in discussions of Chinese labour NGOs have roots that go far deeper than these latest turn of events. In this essay, Ivan Franceschini and Kevin Lin take stock of the existing literature and reconsider the debate in light of the latest developments, proposing a possible synthesis between 'optimistic' and 'pessimistic' views.

Sola, Alone.
PC: Alexandra Antonini.

'We've entered a grey area: we're not organisations anymore, and maybe in the future we'll be reduced to only a few individuals.'

This was the ominous prediction of one Chinese labour activist in Shenzhen in 2016. If we consider that these words were proffered in the midst of the worst crackdown that labour NGOs had experienced since their appearance in China two decades before, his pessimism was warranted. A few months earlier, with little warning, the police in Guangdong province had arrested a couple dozen labour activists in various organisations, bringing charges against five of them. At the time of the interview, it was still unclear what would happen to the detained activists—only later would they be sentenced to detention for 18 to 36 months, suspended in all cases but one—and tension was running high within the community of Chinese labour NGOs. In addition, there was widespread concern that the enforcement of the Foreign NGO Management Law the following year would restrict or even cut off foreign funding for these organisations and, thus, jeopardise their very survival (Franceschini and Nesossi 2017).

At such a bleak time, pessimism was unavoidable even for the most assured optimists. Still, pessimism and optimism in discussions of Chinese labour NGOs—either among activists or among scholars—have roots that go far deeper than these latest turn of events. Proponents of negative and positive views of labour NGOs have been sparring with each other for at least a decade. In the latest addition to the discussion, Chris Chan (2018) has critiqued both mindsets. In his opinion, ‘over-optimism or over-pessimism can be harmful in hard times’, with optimists ‘preferring not to face the mistakes of their strategies’ and pessimists accusing labour NGOs of undermining worker solidarity and arguing that they are no longer needed, when this is, in fact, not the case. However, it is important to acknowledge that labour NGOs are not static entities, but rather dynamic institutions that change over time, adapting to the shifting political context. For this reason, any analysis of labour NGOs should take into account the changing environment, and evaluations of their ‘effectiveness’ must necessarily vary markedly over time.

In this essay, we take stock of the existing literature and reconsider it in light of the latest developments. In the next section we begin by outlining the main features of the scholarly debate over labour NGOs. This is followed by a description of how in recent years some organisations have attempted to adopt a new approach. We conclude the essay by offering some remarks on the prospects for the survival of these organisations going forward.

A Polarised Field

The earliest labour NGOs appeared in China in the mid-1990s, benefitting from an inflow of foreign funding in the wake of the Chinese government’s more open stance towards civil society (Chan 2013; Howell 2008; Pun and Chan 2004). Since the beginning, these organisations have focussed on four kinds of activities: a) the establishment of worker centres, which usually include a small library and offer special interest classes, educational classes, and recreational activities; b) the provision of legal consultation services and, in some rare cases, legal representation; c) outreach programmes on labour rights; and d) the social surveys and policy advocacy (Chan 2013; Xu 2013). It has been this choice of limiting themselves to such non-confrontational activities, adopting a strictly legalistic conception of rights—instead of focussing on promoting the interests of the workers or aggressively pushing for new progressive laws and regulations through collective struggle—that has attracted scrutiny in the existing literature.

Most scholars have maintained a positive assessment of these organisations’ focus on community building and legal mobilisation. For instance, Xu Yi has contended that the legal mobilisation strategy of many labour NGOs has important political implications, since ‘through legal mobilising, labour NGOs foster consciousness and the skills of organising [among the workers]’ (2013, 250). Diana Fu has argued that these organisations are actually resorting to ‘disguised collective actions,’ which she defines as ‘a form of organised activism in which civil society groups play a vital but under-the-radar role in coaching citizens to advance rights claims’ (2017b, 501). In this way, labour activists ‘rather than mounting the scale of disruption... guide citizens toward direct but individual confrontation with the state,’ assisting workers in claiming their rights without engaging in potentially perilous protests (2017b, 502). While admitting that from this perspective labour NGOs may be seen as unwitting tools of state domination, Fu believes this strategy still helps ‘[lower] the cost of coordinating contention in a repressive state that forbids these organisations from operating,’ allowing their survival and fostering the collective consciousness of the workers through a pedagogical process.

Other scholars have remained more sceptical. Among the earliest and harshest critics, Ching Kwan Lee and Shen Yuan have accused labour NGOs of being an ‘anti-solidarity machine’, with their individualistic approach to labour rights allegedly undermining the emergence of a collective consciousness among Chinese workers (2011). On a similar note, back in 2005 Chloé Froissart observed that labour NGOs are ‘also working for the benefit of the Party-state, to which they adhere, minimising social conflict and orienting reforms in a direction that can help the Party to maintain its power. While an integral part of the social movement of migrant workers, these organisations also delimit this social movement in their own way. These limitations are why some migrants question these NGOs’ legitimacy to represent them’ (2005, 11). Chan (2013), meanwhile, has noted that not all workers can benefit from the assistance of these organisations, as most NGOs rely on funding coming from overseas foundations that prefer to support the most vulnerable or exploited social groups, and thus overlook the issues faced by ordinary workers. Finally, Ivan Franceschini has argued that labour NGOs in China are undermined by a significant lack of ‘social capital’, which can be seen, among other things, in their difficulties to gain the trust of workers who ‘believe that anybody who offers voluntarily to help them must have an ulterior motive’ (2014, 485).

These criticisms have managed to polarise the field of Chinese labour studies, with ‘optimist’ and ‘pessimist’ scholars criticising each other, respectively, for wishful thinking or lacking long-term vision. Yet, in most cases ‘pessimist’ scholars have also acknowledged the importance of labour NGOs in assisting Chinese workers who otherwise would have been left entirely to their own devices; similarly, ‘optimist’ scholars do not refrain from acknowledging some shortcomings of these organisations. We believe that the two views are not necessarily in conflict. Labour NGOs are not static entities, they respond to opportunities and constraints. While some criticisms—and expectations—might hold true for a certain kinds of labour NGOs in specific times and places, the situation is varied and continually shifting. For instance, in recent years some organisations have changed their approach in a bid to overcome their limitations, thus transforming their relationship with the workers from one of subordination and dependency to one of partnership (A. Chan 2018).

From Legal Mobilisation to Collective Struggle

In the early 2010s, some labour NGOs started abandoning their traditional legalistic approach, and instead began promoting a new strategy focussed on the interests of the workers, articulated around the concept of ‘collective bargaining’ (jiti tanpan). Writing before the latest crackdown, Duan Yi (2015), a prominent labour lawyer based in Shenzhen, argued that Chinese labour NGOs were in the process of transforming from traditional ‘service-oriented’ (fuwuxing) and ‘rights protection-oriented’ (weiquanxing) organisations to real ‘labour movement organisations’ (gongyunxing zuzhi). Academics provided ample evidence of NGO intervention in collective disputes. In 2014, Chih-Jou Jay Chen followed the (attempted) involvement of Chinese labour NGOs in a protest by more than 40,000 workers in the Dongguan plant of Yue Yuen, a Taiwanese footwear company that had failed to pay social security to its employees (Chen 2015). We ourselves have tracked the involvement of labour NGOs in a case of collective mobilisation over several months between 2014 and 2015 at Lide, a footwear company based in Guangzhou that had decided to relocate production.

Some scholars have attempted to build a more comprehensive framework to account for these changes. In a recent study, Chen Feng and Yang Xuehui have argued that the new ‘movement-oriented’ labour NGOs promote a kind of ‘displaced unionism’— where ‘unionism’ indicates ‘certain union-like roles these groups play, in contrast with many of their counterparts operating mainly as service providers, social workers, legal advisors, or advocates’, and ‘displaced’ denotes the ‘actual social location of these groups and where they perform their roles’ (2017, 159). In another study, Froissart has provided an impressively detailed account of the role that labour NGOs play in promoting an authentic ‘worker-led collective bargaining’—in contrast to state-sponsored ‘collective negotiations’ (jiti xieshang)—helping workers to design strategies to engage with employers, trade unions, and local authorities so that they can ‘[exercise] their rights before they are granted and by putting pressure on authorities to act as real authorities rather than representatives of a rogue state’ (Froissart 2018, 13).

An Interrupted Transition?

Most likely, it was the shift of these few organisations from atomised legal mobilisation to union-like collective struggle that prompted the Chinese authorities to harshly clamp down on them. While repression was never far from the surface, with activists having to deal with harassment and surveillance on a daily basis (Fu 2017a), the latest attack poses a more fundamental challenge to labour NGOs for at least two reasons: first, it was not a local initiative, but in all likelihood part of a nationwide campaign supported by the highest echelons of the Party-state. Second, in coordination with the new Foreign NGO Management Law, this latest crackdown has threatened to cut off access to foreign funding vital for the survival of domestic labour NGOs.

However, we should not underestimate the ability of labour NGOs to adapt. It is true that some have simply stopped operating, prevented by a combination of state repression and declining financial support. Others have scaled down their activities, limiting themselves to realms deemed acceptable to the authorities, such as community building and, in some instances, individual legal mobilisation. In both cases, this has led activists—including the one cited at the beginning of the article—to go underground in the hope of keeping up their work under the radar. However, a few organisations are still continuing to support workers in collective bargaining, even if much less directly. But they are more careful in screening their cases, warning the workers about possible consequences, and staying away from politically delicate situations (Franceschini and Nesossi 2018). In the meantime, in conversations with labour NGOs, it is clear that this crisis is also forcing some activists to rethink and reinvent their strategies. Where does this leave us in the debate between pessimistic and optimistic views of labour NGOs? While the current situation does not warrant the optimism of those who see labour NGOs as the spearhead of a broader labour movement in China, we agree with Chris Chan that ‘we should not simply describe or understand these organisations and their members as “being mollified” ’ (2018). It is undoubtedly true that the space of collective bargaining has narrowed, to the point that some scholars have argued that collective bargaining as a political project is dead (Friedman 2018). Still if the experience of the past two decades teaches us anything, it is that Chinese labour NGOs, in spite of their shortcomings, are resilient entities, apt at navigating the vagaries of the Chinese political landscape and taking advantage of any political opening. In following Lee’s (2016) suggestions for the study of labour activism in China, we should now, more than ever, adhere to Gramsci’s dictum: ‘I’m a pessimist because of intelligence, but an optimist because of will’ (1963, 310). ■

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Will the Future of Human Rights Be ‘Made in China’? (SARAH M. BROOKS)

CHRD (Chinese Human Rights Defenders). 2013. “China Must Stop Excluding Civil Society from UN Human Rights Review.” Chinese Human Rights Defenders, 7 October. <https://www.nchr.org/2013/10/china-must-stop-excluding-civil-society-from-un-human-rights-review>.

Emmott, Robin, and Angeliki Koutantou. 2017. “Greece Blocks EU Statement on China Human Rights at U.N.” Reuters, 18 June. <https://www.reuters.com/article/us-eu-un-rights/greece-blocks-eu-statement-on-china-human-rights-at-u-n-idUSKBN1990FP>.

Eve, Frances. 2018. “The US Withdrawal from the UNHRC Is Perfect for Xi Jinping and China.” The Guardian, 22 June. <https://www.theguardian.com/world/commentisfree/2018/jun/22/the-us-withdrawal-from-the-unhrc-is-perfect-for-xi-jinping-and-china>.

Focus Taiwan. 2017. “Taiwan: Taipei Urges UN to Promote Country’s Integration in Multilateral Organisations.” Unrepresented Nations and Peoples Organisation, 13 September. <http://unpo.org/article/20320>.

ISHR (International Service for Human Rights). 2018. “The Backlash against Civil Society Access and Participation at the United Nations.” International Service for Human Rights, 30 May. https://www.ishr.ch/sites/default/files/documents/mappingreport_web.pdf.

ISHR (International Service for Human Rights). 2017. “Human Rights Council Side Event: Defenders in Detention – Safeguarding the Legacy of Liu Xiaobo.” International Service for Human Rights, 12 September. <https://www.ishr.ch/human-rights-council-side-event-defenders-detention-safeguarding-legacy-liu-xiaobo>.

Kaiman, Jonathan. 2014. “Chinese Activist Cao Shunli Dies after Being Denied Medical Help, Says Website.” The Guardian, 15 March. <https://www.theguardian.com/world/2014/mar/14/china-activist-cao-shunli-dies-human-rights>.

Lynch, Colum. 2018. “Russia and China See in Trump Era a Chance to Roll Back Human Rights Promotion at U.N.” Foreign Policy, 26 June. <https://foreignpolicy.com/2018/06/26/russia-and-china-see-in-trump-era-a-chance-to-roll-back-human-rights-promotion-at-u-n>.

Reuters. 2016. “China Angered as U.N. Rights Chief Attends Ceremony for Jailed Academic.” Reuters, 12 October. <https://www.reuters.com/article/us-china-rights-un-idUSKCN12C0X2>.

UN Committee against Torture. 2016. "Concluding Observations on the Fifth Periodic Report of China" United Nations Committee against Torture, 3 February. <http://docstore.ohchr.org/SelfServices/FilesHandler.ashx?enc=6QkG1d%2FPPRiCAqhKb7yhsIEE2YuVt8GA5WKG3GEX%2BZEXqjnsVnWP%2BkQ6f9cmzWcEPJYdFWEXvIFmDTE3WtKbIKZXAKr5OVTwnh86Q4GNZXSmrqMf55xyaMPMcFusW3o2>.

UN Committee against Torture. 2015. "List of Issues in Relation to the Fifth Periodic Report of China" United Nations Committee against Torture, 15 June. <http://www.refworld.org/docid/564ed6854.html>.

UN Office at Geneva. 2018. "Human Rights Council Holds Interactive Dialogue with Special Rapporteurs on Extrajudicial Executions and on Freedom of Expression." The United Nations Office at Geneva, 20 June. https://www.unog.ch/unog/website/news_media.nsf/\(httpNewsByYear_en\)/89894A16234574F5C12582B2004476FF?OpenDocument/89894A16234574F5C12582B2004476FF?OpenDocument).

UN Office at Geneva. 2017a. "Council Begins Interactive Dialogue on Human Rights of Internally Displaced Persons, and on Human Rights and Extreme Poverty." The United Nations Office at Geneva, 7 June. https://www.unog.ch/unog/website/news_media.nsf/\(httpNewsByYear_en\)/42F8EF03A6A88996C1258138005BC998?OpenDocument/42F8EF03A6A88996C1258138005BC998?OpenDocument).

UN Office at Geneva. 2017b. "Human Rights Council Concludes Interactive Dialogue on Internally Displaced Persons, and on Human Rights and Extreme Poverty." The United Nations Office at Geneva, 8 June. https://www.unog.ch/unog/website/news_media.nsf/\(httpNewsByYear_en\)/B0F95625A13F165AC125813900458CE7?OpenDocument/B0F95625A13F165AC125813900458CE7?OpenDocument).

Wade, Samuel. 2018. "U.S. Rights Council Exit: A Victory for China?" China Digital Times, 22 June. <https://chinadigitaltimes.net/2018/06/american-exit-from-u-n-rights-council-a-crushing-victory-for-china>.

Changes and Continuity: Four Decades of Industrial Relations in China (CHRIS KING-CHI CHAN)

Caixin. 2017. "Guangdong zuidi gongzi biao zhun gaiwei 'sannian yitiao' [The Minimum Wage in Guangdong Transformed to Adjustment in Every Three Years]." Caixin, 4 March. <http://china.caixin.com/2017-03-04/101062231.html>.

Chan, Anita. 2018. "The Relationship between Labour NGOs and Chinese Workers in an Authoritarian Regime." Global Labour Journal 9, no. 1: 1–18.

Chan, Chris King-Chi. 2012. "Class or Citizenship? Debating Workplace Conflict in China." Journal of Contemporary Asia 42, no. 2: 308–327.

Chan, Chris King-Chi. 2010. The Challenge of Labour in China: Strikes and the Changing Labour Regime in Global Factories. London: Routledge.

Chan, Chris King-Chi, and Elaine Sio-Ieng Hui. 2017. "Bringing Class Struggles Back: A Marxian Analysis of the State and Class Relations in China." Globalizations 14, no. 2: 232–244.

Chan, Chris King-Chi, and Elaine Sio-Ieng Hui. 2014. "The Development of Collective Bargaining in China: From 'Collective Bargaining by Riot' to 'Party State-led Wage Bargaining'." The China Quarterly 217: 221–242.

Chen, Jay Chih-Jou. 2015. "Zhongguo weiquan zhengtixia de jiti kangyi: taizichang dabagong de anli fenxi [Popular Protest in an Authoritarian Regime: A Wildcat Strike in Southern China]." Taiwanese Sociology 30: 1–53.

China Labour Bulletin. 2016. "As China's Economy Shifts to Services in Q3, So Too Does Labour Unrest." China Labour Bulletin, 21 October. <http://www.clb.org.hk/content/china's-economy-shifts-services-q3-so-too-does-labour-unrest>.

Chuang. 2018. "The Mastermind: A Third Young Leftist Speaks Out on the November 15th Incident." Chuang, 20 January. <http://chuangcn.org/2018/01/the-mastermind>.

Dou, Xuwei. 2017. "Local Trade Union Reform in Shenzhen: Practice and Experience." Paper presented at the international workshop "Labour in Rising Powers: China in Comparison with India and Brazil," held at the City University of Hong Kong on 15 and 16 September.

Duan, Yi. 2015. "Gongyunxing laogong NGO de qianjing yu tiaozhan [Prospects and challenges for labour NGOs of the labour movement type]." Gongmin, 20 May. xgmyd.com/archives/17927.

Froissart, Chloé. 2018. "Negotiating Authoritarianism and Its Limits: Worker-led Collective Bargaining in Guangdong Province." China Information 32, no. 1: 23–45.

Lee, Ching Kwan. 2007. Against the Law: Labor Protests in China's Rustbelt and Sunbelt. Berkeley: University of California Press.

Lee, Ching Kwan. 1998. Gender and the South China Miracle: Two Worlds of Factory Women. Berkeley: University of California Press.

Mitchell, Tom. 2015. "End of China's Migrant Miracle: Toil and Trouble." Financial Times, 7 June. <https://www.ft.com/content/dc3db3e4-fef9-11e4-94c8-00144feabdc0>.

National Bureau of Statistics of China. 2017. Zhongguo tongji nianjian 2016 [China Statistical Yearbook 2016]. Beijing: Zhongguo Tongji Chubanshe.

National Bureau of Statistics of China. 2013. Zhongguo tongji nianjian 2012 [China Statistical Yearbook 2012]. Beijing: Zhongguo Tongji Chubanshe.

National Bureau of Statistics of China. 2011. Zhongguo tongji nianjian 2010 [China Statistical Yearbook 2010]. Beijing: Zhongguo Tongji Chubanshe.

Pun, Ngai. 2005. Made in China: Women Factory Workers in a Global Workplace. Durham, NC, and Hong Kong: Duke University Press and Hong Kong University Press.

Siu, Kaxton. 2018. "From Dormitory System to Conciliatory Despotism: Changing Labour Regimes in Chinese Factories." In Made in China Yearbook 2017: Gilded Age, edited by Ivan Franceschini and Nicholas Loubere, 48–51. Canberra: ANU Press.

Yin, Han. 2018. "Chinese Crane Operators Protest for Better Pay, Working Conditions." Global Times, 1 May. <http://www.globaltimes.cn/content/1100323.shtml>.

China's Labour Movement in Transition (GEOFFREY CROTHALL)

China Labour Bulletin. 2017a. "China's Walmart Workers: Creating an Opportunity for Genuine Trade Unionism." China Labour Bulletin. <http://www.clb.org.hk/sites/default/files/Walmart%20report%20Final.pdf>.

China Labour Bulletin. 2017b. "Why Has There Been a Drastic Reduction in Worker Protests in Dongguan?" China Labour Bulletin, 28 September. <http://www.clb.org.hk/content/why-has-there-been-drastic-reduction-worker-protests-dongguan>.

China Labour Bulletin. 2016a. "Labour Activist Meng Han Sentenced to 21 Months." China Labour Bulletin, 4 November. <http://www.clb.org.hk/content/labour-activist-meng-han-sentenced-21-months>.

China Labour Bulletin. 2016b. "What Happens When the Boss Actually Abides by the Law during a Factory Closure in China?" China Labour Bulletin, 1 February. <http://www.clb.org.hk/en/content/what-happens-when-boss-actually-abides-law-during-factory-closure-china>.

China Labour Bulletin. 2015. "The Lide Shoe Factory Workers' Campaign for Relocation Compensation." China Labour Bulletin, 22 June. <http://www.clb.org.hk/en/content/trying-hit-moving-target-lide-shoe-factory-workers%E2%84%A2-campaign-relocation-compensation>.

China Labour Bulletin. 2014a. "Unity Is Strength: The Story of the Guangzhou University Town Sanitation Workers' Strike." China Labour Bulletin, 16 October. <http://www.clb.org.hk/en/content/unity-strength-story-guangzhou-university-town-sanitation-workers%E2%84%A2-strike>.

China Labour Bulletin. 2014b. "Taking a Stand: Trade Union Chairman Fights Back against Walmart." China Labour Bulletin, 24 June. <http://www.clb.org.hk/en/content/taking-stand-trade-union-chairman-fights-back-against-walmart>.

Feng, Emily. 2017. "China's Laid-off Workers Pose Daunting Welfare Challenge." Financial Times, 16 November. <https://www.ft.com/content/de33f222-af09-11e7-aab9-abaa44b1e130>.

Tu, Chonghang. 2015. "Dongguan 'qiye daobichao' beihou de zhuanxing zhentong [The Transformation Pain behind Dongguan's Wave of Factory Closures]." Beijing News, 25 November. http://www.xinhuanet.com/info/2015-11/25/c_134852198.htm.

Zhao, Yinan. 2015. "Premier Meets with Group of Innovators over Coffee." China Daily, 8 May. http://www.chinadaily.com.cn/china/2015-05/08/content_20654522.htm.

Gongyou: The New Dangerous Class in China? (YU CHUNSEN)

China Labour Bulletin. 2010. “Bentian gongren bagong yaoqiu tigao jiben gongzi [Honda Workers Go on Strike and Request to Increase Basic Salary].” China Labour Bulletin, 19 November. <http://www.clb.org.hk/content/本田工人罢工要求提高基本工资>.

China News Weekly. 2010. “Nanhai bentian fugong gongren qude jubuxing shengli [Workers of Nanhai Honda Return to Work: Workers Have Achieved Part of Success].” China News Weekly, 3 June. <http://style.sina.com.cn/news/2010-06-03/094562469.shtml>.

Friedman, Eli. 2012. “China in Revolt.” Jacobin, 8 January. <https://www.jacobinmag.com/2012/08/china-in-revolt>.

Hurst, William. 2017. “The Chinese Working Class: Made, Unmade, In Itself, For Itself, or None of the Above?” In Made in China Yearbook 2016: Disturbances in Heaven, edited by Ivan Franceschini, Kevin Lin, and Nicholas Loubere, 16–19. Canberra: ANU Press.

Lau, Mimi, and Will Clem. 2010. “Hundreds Clash as Labour Strife Widens.” South China Morning Post, 9 June. <https://www.scmp.com/article/716586/hundreds-clash-labour-strife-widens>.

Lee, Ching Kwan. 2007. Against the Law: Labour Protests in China's Rustbelt and Sunbelt. Berkeley: University of California Press.

Lu, Xun. 1927. Zai Zhonglou Shang [On the Clock Tower]. <https://www.marxists.org/chinese/reference-books/luxun/12/033.htm>.

Lü, Tu. 2013. Zhongguo xingongren: mishi yu jueqi [Chinese New Workers: Lost and Rise]. Beijing: Legal Publishing House.

Lü, Tu. 2015. Zhongguo xingongren: wenhua yu mingyun [Chinese New Workers: Culture and Destiny]. Beijing: Legal Publishing House.

New Taipei City Government. 2014. “Xinbei shizhengfu gongyou gongzuo guize [New Taipei City Government on Workers' Working Regulations].” New Taipei City Government Secretariat, 26 May. 新北市府工友工作規則 (103/05/26修訂)(PDF格式).

Owens, Timothy J., Dawn T. Robinson, and Lynn Smith-Lovin. 2010. “Three Faces of Identity.” Annual Review of Sociology 36: 477–499.

Pun, Ngai, and Chris King-Chi Chan. 2008. “The Subsumption of Class Discourse in China.” Boundary 2 35, no. 2: 75–91.

Pun, Ngai, and Huilin Lu. 2010. “Unfinished Proletarianisation: Self, Anger, and Class Action among the Second Generation of Peasant-workers in Present-day China.” Modern China 36, no. 5: 493–519.

SFTU (Shandong Federation of Trade Unions). 2006. “Shandongsheng zonggonghui guanyu gongyou chuangye xingdong de shishi yijian [Shandong Federation of Trade Unions about the Opinions of Implementation of Workers’ Actions of Entrepreneurship].” Jining Trade Union Federation, 29 May. <http://www.jngh.org/a/bangfubaozhang/ghjy/2013/0529/1422.html>.

Smith, Chris, and Ngai Pun. 2017. “Class and Precarity in China: A Contested Relationship.” In Made in China Yearbook 2017: Gilded Age, edited by Ivan Franceschini and Nicholas Loubere, 44–47. Canberra: ANU Press.

Standing, Guy. 2016. “The Precariat, Class and Progressive Politics: A Response.” Global Labour Journal 7, no. 2: 189–200.

Swider, Sarah. 2015. Building China: Informal Work and the New Precariat. New York: Cornell University Press.

The Economic Observer. 2010. “‘Bagong’ you name kepa, kezeng ma? [Is the Strike so Horrible and Hateful?].” The Economic Observer, 1 July. <http://www.eeo.com.cn/observer/shijiao/2010/07/01/174266.shtml>.

Wang, Tongxin, and Hongli Wang. 2013. “Shenzhen xinshengdai nongmingong de zongti zhuan-guang [Shenzhen New-generation Rural Migrant Workers’ General Situations].” In Shenzhen xinshengdai nongmingong diaocha baogao, edited by Tongxin Wang and Yujuan Zhai, 34–68. Beijing: China Legal Publishing House.

Woronov, Terry. 2015. Class Work: Vocational Schools and China’s Urban Youth. Stanford, CA: Stanford University Press.

Xie, Jianshe. 2005. Xinchanye gongren jieceng: shehui zhuanxingzhong de nongmingong [New Industrial Workers: Rural Migrant Workers within Social Transformation]. Beijing: Social Sciences Academic Press.

Yang, Chunhua. 2010. “On the Issue of the New Generation of Migrant Workers.” Issues in Agricultural Economy 4: 80–84.

Yang, Shuo. 1950. Yalujiang nanbei [North and South of the Yalu River]. <http://www.people.com.cn/GB/channel1/10/20001010/265308.html>.

Ye, Shengtao. 1925. Zai minjian [Among the People]. <http://www.zgwxmz.com/m/xian-daiwenxue/051010052016/1017.html>.

The Struggles of Temporary Agency Workers in Xi’s China (ZHANG LU)

All-China Federation of Trade Unions. 2012. “Laowu paiqian diaoyan baogao: Dangqian woguo laowu paiqian yonggong xiankuang diaocha [Report on Labor Dispatch: Surveys on the Current Use of Labour Dispatch in China].” ACFTU Internal Report, Beijing.

China Labour Bulletin. 2017a. “Hundreds of Volkswagen workers in northeast China demand equal pay.” China Labour Bulletin, 27 February. <http://www.clb.org.hk/content/hundreds-volkswagen-workers-northeast-china-demand-equal-pay>.

China Labour Bulletin. 2017b. “Volkswagen worker representatives arrested at Changchun plant.” China Labour Bulletin, 6 June. <http://www.clb.org.hk/content/volkswagen-worker-representatives-arrested-changchun-plant>.

China Labour Bulletin. 2017c. “Chinese Volkswagen workers call on German parent company to assume responsibility for violations.” China Labour Bulletin, 13 July, <http://www.clb.org.hk/content/chinese-volkswagen-workers-call-german-parent-company-assume-responsibility-violation>.

Gonos., George 1997. “The Contest Over ‘Employer’ Status in the Postwar United States: The Case of Temporary Help Firms.” Law & Society Review 31, no. 1: 81–110.

Peng, Wenzhuo. 2016. “Meiti xi lanyong laowu paiqian nan genzhi [Why Is It Difficult to Cure the Abusive Use of Labour Dispatching?].” Worker’s Daily, 5 January 2016, 5.

Pringle, Tim. 2016. “A Class against Capital: Class and Collective Bargaining in Guangdong.” Globalizations 14, no. 2: 245–258.

Ruckus, Ralf. 2018. “VW workers in China and elsewhere in struggle while the company starts historic transformation.” Preface to the German translation of Lu Zhang, Inside China’s Automobile Factories: The Politics of Labor and Worker Resistance (Cambridge 2015), Mandelbaum.

Vosko, Leah F. 2010. Managing the Margins: Gender, Citizenship and the International Regulation of Precarious Employment. New York: Oxford University Press.

Wong, Chun Han. 2016. “China’s Slowing Growth Forces Rethink on Worker Protections.” Wall Street Journal, 29 November. <http://www.wsj.com/articles/china-looks-to-loosen-job-security-law-in-face-of-slowing-economic-growth-1480415405>.

Xia, Nü. 2018. “Has the Workers’ Protest at FAW-VW Ended?” Gongchao, 15 January. <http://www.gongchao.org/2018/01/15/has-the-workers-protest-at-faw-vw-ended>.

Zhang, Lu. 2015. Inside China’s Automobile Factories: The Politics of Labor and Worker Resistance. New York: Cambridge University Press.

Robot Threat or Robot Dividend? A Struggle between Two Lines (HUANG YU)

Acemoglu, Daron, and Pascual Restrepo. 2017. “Robots and Jobs: Evidence from US Labour Markets.” NBER Working Paper No. 23285. <http://www.nber.org/papers/w23285.pdf>.

Braverman, Harry. 1988. Labour and Monopoly Capital: The Degradation of Work in the Twentieth Century. New York: Monthly Review Press.

Butollo, Florian, and Boy L  thje. 2017. “‘Made in China 2025’: Intelligent Manufacturing and Work.” In The New Digital Workplace: How New Technologies Revolutionise Work, edited by Kendra Briken, Shiona Chillas, and Martin Krzywdzinski, 42–61. London: Palgrave.

Chen, Li-Kai, Mona Mourshed, and Andrew Grant. 2013. “The $250 Billion Question: Can China Close the Skills Gap?” Mckinsey and Company. https://www.mckinsey.com/~/media/mckinsey/industries/social%20sector/our%20insights/the%20\$250%20billion%20question%20can%20china%20close%20the%20skills%20gap/the%20dollar%20\$250%20billion%20question%20can%20china%20close%20the%20skills%20gap.ashx.

Guo, Rui. 2016. “Jiqi shengji shi Dongguan gongren daliang shiye 90 hou nongmingong cheng qiantu juewang [Machine Upgrading Results in Massive Unemployment in Dongguan, Post-90s Migrant Workers Say They Are Hopeless].” Phoenix Net, 29 February. http://news.ifeng.com/a/20160229/47626474_0.shtml.

Huang, Yinchuan, and Peng Fu. 2017. “‘Jiqi dairen’ de chengben jingsuan [The Cost Breakdown of ‘Machines Replacing Humans’].” Nanfang Daily, 24 July. http://epaper.southcn.com/nfdaily/html/2017-07/24/content_7655509.htm.

Huang, Yu, and Naubahar Sharif. 2017. “From ‘Labor Dividend’ to ‘Robot Dividend’: Technological Change and Workers’ Power in South China.” Agrarian South: Journal of Political Economy 6, no. 1: 53–78.

IFR (International Federation of Robotics). 2018. “Robot Density Rises Globally.” International Federation of Robotics, 7 February. <https://ifr.org/ifr-press-releases/news/robot-density-rises-globally>.

IFR (International Federation of Robotics). 2017. “Robots: China Breaks Historic Records in Automation.” International Federation of Robotics, 16 August. <https://ifr.org/ifr-press-releases/news/robots-china-breaks-historic-records-in-automation>.

Jianxiaojiao. 2017. “Nanian huakai fangzhi gongren yin shiye za jiqi, jiqi huanren li women haiyou duoyuan? [In ‘Nothing Gold Can Stay’ Textile Workers Smash Machines, How Far is Robotization Away from Us?].” Jianjiao Buluo, 9 October. <http://www.jianjiaobuluo.com/content/10789>.

Jin, Lu. 2017. “Zidonghua qudaile 80 wan ming gongren que chuangzaochu 350 wan ge xingongzuo [Automation Replaces 800,000 Workers But Creates 3.5 Million New Jobs].” Tencent Technology, 8 September. <http://tech.qq.com/a/20170908/019354.htm>.

Klorer, Elena, and Matthias Stepan. 2015. “Off Target: China’s Vocational Education and Training System Threatens the Country’s Rise to Industrial Superpower Status.” Mercator Institute for China Studies, 2 October. http://www.merics.org/fileadmin/templates/download/china-monitor/China_Monitor_No_24_EN.pdf.

Kwong, Robin. 2012. “Terry Gou: Managing ‘1m Animals’.” Financial Times, 20 January. <https://next.ft.com/content/be3d2550-f9e6-34c0-91fb-afd639d3e750>.

Liu, Chenchen. 2014. "Reporting from Beijing: China Announces Modern Vocational Education Development Strategy 2014–2020". Embassy of Switzerland in China, 29 July. http://www.sinoptic.ch/textes/education/2014/20140729_Ambassade.de.Suisse_Apprentissage.en.Chine-en.pdf.

Ministry of Agriculture. 2018. "2016 nian nongcun jiating chengbao gengdi liuzhuan ji jiufen tiaochu qingkuang [Information on the Transfer of Family Contract Land and Dispute Mitigation]." Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs, 5 January. http://jiuban.moa.gov.cn/zwl/m/tzgg/tz/201710/t20171017_5842411.htm.

Ministry of Industry and Information Technology. 2017. "Sanbuwei guanyu yinfa 'zhizaoye rencai fazhan guihua zhinan' de tongzhi [Announcement on the Three Ministries Issuing The Development Planning Guidelines for Manufacturing Talents]." Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, 24 February. <http://www.miit.gov.cn/n1146295/n1652858/n1652930/n3757016/c5500114/content.html>.

Morris-Suzuki, Tessa. 1988. Beyond Computopia: Information, Automation and Democracy in Japan. New York: Routledge.

Noble, David Franklin. 1979. "Social Choice in Machine Design: The Case of Automatically Controlled Machine Tools, and a Challenge for Labour." Politics and Society 8, no. 3–4: 313–347.

Pun, Ngai, and Jenny Chan. 2012. "Global Capital, the State, and Chinese Workers: The Foxconn Experience." Modern China 38, no. 4: 383–410.

Sharif, Naubahar, and Yu Huang. Forthcoming 2019. "Industrial Automation in China's 'Workshop of the World'." The China Journal.

Tian, Aili, and Hui Cai. 2018. "Yige jiqiren chuangzao 3.6 ge gangwei, AI chanyehua chuangzao wuda jiuye xinfangxiang [One Robot Creates 3.6 Jobs, The AI Industry Forges Five New Directions of Employment]." Southern Metropolis Daily, 25 January. http://epaper.oeeee.com/epaper/D/html/2018-01/25/content_5844.htm.

Trobe, Frank. 2016. "Collaborative Robots Are Broadening Their Marketplaces." The Robot Report, 4 March. <https://www.therobotreport.com/collaborative-robots-are-broadening-their-marketplaces>.

Worker Empowerment. 2017. "Diaocha baogao: fuwuye gongren laodong zhuangkuang diaocha baogaoji [Research Report on the Labor Condition of Service Industry Workers]." Worker Empowerment, 17 August. <http://www.workerempowerment.org/zh/%E8%AA%BF%E6%9F%A5%E5%A0%B1%E5%91%8A/384>.

Writing Group for 'Socialist Political Economy'. 1976. Socialist Political Economy (Unpublished). Shanghai.

Wuhua. 2017. "Rengong zhineng keneng hui rang ni shiye, danshi buhui rang renlei shiye [Artificial Intelligence Might Make You Unemployed, But Won't Let Human Beings Unemployed]." Welle Studio, 5 May. <https://www.douban.com/note/618928476/>.

Xia, Licheng. 2018. "2020 nian, rengong zhineng jiang chuangzao gengduo de jiuye jihui, ye hui you gengduo de ren shiqu gongzuo [By 2020, AI Will Create More Job Opportunities, But Will Also Cause More Unemployment]." Sohu, 14 May. http://www.sohu.com/a/231500788_100101980.

Xing, Lijian. 2016. "Bei jiqi huanxialai de yuangong jixu tongchou anzhi [It Is Necessary to Coordinate the Arrangement of Workers Displaced by Machines]." Beijing Youth Daily, 27 May. http://www.xinhuanet.com/2016-05/27/c_1118940767.htm.

Xinhua. 2005. "Jiqi huanren' de xi yu you: Guangdong Gongguan shoujia "wuren gongchang" dundian diaocha [The Joy and Concerns Regarding the 'Replacing Humans with Machines': Investigation on the First 'Workerless Factory' in Dongguan, Guangdong]." Xinhua, 31 July. http://news.xinhuanet.com/fortune/2015-07/13/c_1115909116.htm.

Yoshino, Jiro. 2017. "China Emerging as a Service Robot Powerhouse." Nikkei, 5 September. <https://asia.nikkei.com/Tech-Science/Tech/China-emerging-as-a-service-robot-powerhouse>.

Zheng, Bin. 2017. "Jiuye 'shashou' haishi 'zhushou' [Job 'Killer' or 'Helper']." Economy Daily, 15 August. http://paper.ce.cn/jjrb/html/2017-08/15/content_341586.htm.

Zhou, Jianping, and Chenyue Jiang. 2016. "Jiqi huanren' dachao xia de gongren: youren shengji, youren cheng kan budao xiwang [Workers in the Wave of 'Machines Replacing Human Labor': Some Get Upgrading, Some Claim Hopeless]." The Paper, 24 September. https://www.thepaper.cn/newsDetail_forward_1533577.

Zuo, Mandy. 2016. "Rise of the Robots: 60,000 Workers Culled from Just One Factory as China's Struggling Electronics Hub Turns to Artificial Intelligence." South China Morning Post, 21 May. <https://www.scmp.com/news/china/economy/article/1949918/rise-robots-60000-workers-culled-just-one-factory-chinas>.

A 'Pessoptimistic' View of Labour NGOs (IVAN FRANCESCHINI AND KEVIN LIN)

Chan, Anita. 2018. "The Relationship between Labour NGOs and Chinese Workers in an Authoritarian Regime." Global Labour Journal 9, no. 1: 1–18..

Chan, Chris King-Chi. 2018. "The Future of Labour NGOs: A Response to Two Mindsets." Hong Kong Confederation of Trade Unions. <http://en.hkctu.org.hk/mainland-china/position-and-analysis/the-future-of-labour-ngos-a-response-to-two-mindsets>.

Chan, Chris King-Chi. 2013. "Community-based Organizations for Migrant Workers' Rights: The Emergence of Labour NGOs in China." Community Development Journal 48, no. 1: 6–22.

Chen, Feng, and Xuehui Yang. 2017. "Movement-oriented Labour NGOs in South China: Exit with Voice and Displaced Unionism." China Information 31, no. 1: 155–175.

Chen, Jay Chih-Jou. 2015. "Zhongguo weiquan zhengtixia de jiti kangyi: taizichang dabagong de anli fenxi [Popular Protest in an Authoritarian Regime: A Wildcat Strike in Southern China]." Taiwanese Sociology 30: 1–53.

Duan, Yi. 2015. “Gongyunxing laogong NGO de qianjing yu tiaozhan [Prospects and challenges for labour NGOs of the labour movement type].” Gongmin, 20 May. xgmyd.com/archives/17927.

Franceschini, Ivan. 2014. “Labour NGOs in China: A Real Force for Political Change?” The China Quarterly 218: 474–492.

Franceschini, Ivan and Elisa Nesossi. 2018. “State Repression of Chinese Labor NGOs: A Chilling Effect?” The China Journal 80: 111–129.

Franceschini, Ivan and Elisa Nesossi. 2017. “The Foreign NGOs Management Law: A Compendium.” In Made in China Yearbook 2016: Disturbances in Heaven, edited by Ivan Franceschini, Kevin Lin, and Nicholas Loubere, 60–67. Canberra, ANU Press.

Friedman, Eli. 2018. “Collective Bargaining in China is Dead: The Situation is Excellent.” In Made in China Yearbook 2017: Gilded Age, edited by Ivan Franceschini and Nicholas Loubere, 56–59. Canberra: ANU Press.

Froissart, Chloé. 2018. “Negotiating Authoritarianism and Its Limits: Worker-led Collective Bargaining in Guangdong Province.” China Information 32, no. 1: 23–45.

Froissart, Chloé. 2005. “The Rise of Social Movements among Migrant Workers: Uncertain Strivings for Autonomy.” China Perspectives 61. <https://journals.openedition.org/chinaperspectives/526>.

Fu, Diana. 2017a. “Fragmented Control: Governing Contentious Labor Organizations in China.” Governance: An International Journal of Policy, Administration and Institutions 30, no. 3: 445–462.

Fu, Diana. 2017b. “Disguised Collective Action in China.” Comparative Political Studies 50, no. 4: 499–527.

Gramsci, Antonio. 1963. Lettere dal carcere. Torino: Einaudi.

Howell, Jude. 2008. “Civil Society and Migrants in China.” In Migrant Labour and Social Development in Contemporary China, edited by Rachel Murphy, 171–194. London: Routledge.

Lee, Ching Kwan. 2016. “Precarization or Empowerment? Reflections on Recent Labour Unrest in China.” Journal of Asian Studies 75, no. 2: 317–333.

Lee, Ching Kwan, and Yuan Shen. 2011. “The Anti-Solidarity Machine? Labor Nongovernmental Organizations in China.” In From Iron Rice Bowl to Informalization, edited by Sarosh Kuruvilla, Ching Kwan Lee, and Mary E. Gallagher, 173–187. Ithaca and London: Cornell University Press.

Pun, Ngai, and Wai Ling Chan. 2004. “Community Based Labour Organizing.” International Union Rights 11, no. 4: 10–11.

Xu, Yi. 2013. “Labor Non-governmental Organizations in China: Mobilizing Rural Migrant Workers.” Journal of Industrial Relations 55, no. 2: 243–259.

China and Development Aid: The Case of Anti-trafficking and Seafood in Southeast Asia (SVERRE MOLLAND)

Anderson, Bridget. 2012. "Where's the Harm in That? Immigration Enforcement, Trafficking, and the Protection of Migrants' Rights." American Behavioral Scientist 56, no. 9: 1241–1257.

Auethavornpipat, Ruji. 2017. "Assessing Regional Cooperation: ASEAN States, Migrant Worker Rights and Norm Socialization in Southeast Asia." Global Change, Peace & Security 29, no. 2: 129–143.

Baird, Ian G. 2011. "Turning Land into Capital, Turning People into Labor: Primitive Accumulation and the Arrival of Large-scale Economic Land Concessions in the Lao People's Democratic Republic." New Proposals: Journal of Marxism and Interdisciplinary Inquiry 5, no. 1: 10–26.

Diana, Antonella. 2018. "Liquid Labourscape: Ad Hoc Experimentation in a Chinese Special Economic Zone in Laos." In Made in China Yearbook 2017: Gilded Age, edited by Ivan Franceschini and Nicholas Loubere, 80–83. Canberra: ANU Press.

Gallagher, Anne T. 2017. "What's Wrong with the Global Slavery Index." Anti-Trafficking Review no. 8.

Keo, Chenda, Thierry Bouhours, Roderic Broadhurst, and Brigitte Bouhours. 2014. "Human Trafficking and Moral Panic in Cambodia." The ANNALS of the American Academy of Political and Social Science 653, no. 1: 202–224.

Molland, Sverre. 2012. The Perfect Business? Anti-Trafficking and the Sex Trade Along the Mekong. Honolulu: University of Hawaii Press.

Nyíri, Pál. 2012. "Enclaves of Improvement: Sovereignty and Developmentalism in the Special Zones of the China-Lao Borderlands." Comparative Studies in Society and History 54, no. 3: 533–562.

Tan, Danielle. 2014. "Chinese Networks, Economic and Territorial Redefinitions in Northern Lao PDR." In Transnational Dynamics in Southeast Asia, edited by Sirivanh Khntaphane, Christian Tailard, and Nathalie Fau, 422–452. Singapore: Institute of Southeast Asian Studies.

UNIAP. 2013. Report on an Exploratory Research about Migration and Human Trafficking to China in Luang Namtha and Phongsaly, Lao PDR. Vientiane: UNIAP.

World Bank and FAO. 2013. Fish to 2030: Prospects for Fisheries and Aquaculture. Washington: World Bank Report Number 83177-Glb.

MADE IN CHINA
JOURNAL

中(華)全球研究中心

AUSTRALIAN CENTRE ON
CHINA IN THE WORLD

LUND
UNIVERSITY

CHIN*Q*RESI*E*
mismatched shards of China

MADE IN CHINA
JOURNAL