Main Features

- At 30 April 1976, there were 134,614 students (72,449 males and 62,165 females) enrolled at colleges of advanced education in Australia, an increase of 10 per cent over 1975. Of these, 82,611 students (61 per cent) were enrolled as full-time students, 42,812 (32 per cent) as part-time internal and 9,191 (7 per cent) as external students.
- Students enrolled in diploma courses comprises 52 per cent (69,365) of all enrolments, bachelor degree students 34 per cent (46,197), graduate diploma students 7 per cent (9,871) and associate diploma 6 per cent (8,740). There were also 441 students (less than one per cent), enrolled in master degree courses.
- The fields of study with the largest enrolments were Teacher education (58,107, 43 per cent), Commercial and business studies (26,563, 20 per cent), Liberal studies (10,831, 8 per cent) and Engineering and technology (10,563, 8 per cent).
- Students commencing courses in the first semester decreased by 4 per cent from 53,953 in 1975 to 52,122 for the same period in 1976.
- The teaching effort of staff in 1976, measured in full-time equivalents, was estimated to be 9,346 units compared with 8,767 units in 1975, an increase of 7 per cent. The teaching effort of part-time staff (1,181 equivalent full-time units) comprises 13 per cent of the total.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This bulletin contains statistics of students enrolled and staff engaged at colleges of advanced education. Preliminary statistics for 1976 were published in Colleges of Advanced Education, 1976 (Preliminary), (Reference No. 13.13) on 5 November 1976.

Scope

2. The statistics are obtained from returns provided by the colleges of advanced education and relate to students and staff at these colleges. For the purposes of these statistics, colleges of advanced education are those operative institutions listed in the appropriate States Grants (Advanced Education) Acts as colleges of advanced education, and the Canberra College of Advanced Education. The Acts empower the Federal Minister for Education to approve courses of study at such colleges for the purpose of financial assistance. In this bulletin the term approved relates to courses and parts of courses approved or submitted for approval.

Changes in scope and coverage

3. The number of colleges of advanced education, as at the 30 April reference dates, altered from 78 in 1975 to 83 in 1976 with the integration of Wagga Agricultural College as the School of Agriculture within the Riverina College of Advanced Education, the addition of the Sydney College of the Arts (which has assumed responsibility for courses in Design previously conducted as college of advanced education courses by the New South Wales Department of Technical and Further Education) and the inclusion of seven non-government teachers colleges, one amalgamating with an existing college of advanced education and two forming one college. A change not affecting the number of colleges is the name change of the New South Wales College of Paramedical Studies to the Cumberland College of Health Sciences. For a listing of the colleges of advanced education see the Appendix to this bulletin.

Reference dates

4. For 1973 and later years the reference date for the statistics of students and staff is 30 April except for students completing courses in the previous year, for whom the reference date is 31 December of that year, and for students commencing in second semester (or subsequent semesters) for whom the reference date is 30 September. Prior to 1973, the reference date for students varied between colleges, while staff statistics generally related to staff employed at 30 June. At colleges where the semester system operates, 30 April usually falls in the first semester. Students commencing in the second or subsequent semesters are therefore excluded from the main body of this bulletin; they are shown only in Table 24.

Definitions and classifications

5. A student is a person who was enrolled and entitled to receive tuition in a wholly approved course, the approved part of a part-approved course or a course submitted for approval, conducted by a college of advanced education at the reference date of the year to which the statistics apply. Students enrolled in more than one course have been allocated to the course which represents the greater student load.
6. Full-time students are those undertaking at least 75 per cent of the amount of work prescribed by a college as a year's work, either in the form of one full-time course or a combination of two or more part-time courses. Students enrolled full-time in 'sandwich' courses (i.e. courses in which the period of full-time study during the academic year is broken by a period of full-time employment which forms an integral part of the course) are included as full-time.
7. Part-time students are those undertaking less than 75 per cent of the amount of work prescribed by a college as a year's work. They are classified as either external or internal. Part-time external refers to students who live too far away from the college to attend regularly and for whom the colleges have special arrangements. Part-time internal refers to all students not classified as full-time or external students and includes full-time academic staff who are also enrolled in a college course.

8. Students attending more than one college of advanced education are counted in each institution.

9. Residence. The following definitions have been used in preparing the statistics of residence of students:

Term residence refers to the place where a student at the time of enrolment indicates he will live for all or the greater part of the academic year.

Student residence is a residence administered by the college and approved by the Commission on Advanced Education.

Affiliated college is a residential college which is not a student residence administered by the college but which is approved by the Commission on Advanced Education and affiliated with a college of advanced education.

Other refers to flats, group houses, etc. not under the control of a college or an affiliated body.

Home residence refers to the place a student considers to be his permanent home.

Within 40 kilometres of the college is determined by the distance from the college by normal transport.

10. Students commencing. A commencing student is one who enrolls in:

- an approved course at a college of advanced education for the first time; or
- the same (or different) approved course at another college of advanced education for the first time; or
- a different approved course at the same college of advanced education for the first time.

That is, a commencing student is one who enrolls at a college of advanced education in a course for which the student has not previously been enrolled at that particular college.

11. Statistics for the years 1973 to 1976 are not directly comparable with previous years because of a change in definition of a commencing student. For the years prior to 1973 students who transferred from one college of advanced education to another without changing courses were not considered to be commencing.

12. Students commencing tertiary education for the first time are students who gained their entry qualifications in Australia and who have not previously commenced a tertiary level course at a university, college of advanced education or teachers college. Included are students commencing post-graduate courses whose entry qualifications were gained in institutions other than universities, colleges of advanced education or teachers colleges.

13. Students who completed approved courses are students who completed courses during the calendar year. Included are students who completed approved conversion courses enabling them to qualify for an award without further study. Students who completed courses by passing supplementary examinations at the beginning of an academic year are included in the previous year's statistics.

14. Overseas students are students normally resident overseas (including residence in Australia's external territories) who are temporarily resident in Australia for study purposes.

15. Courses are classified into ten broad fields of study. The fields are:

Agriculture (including farm management);

Applied sciences (including computing studies/science, food sciences, science (education));

Art and design (including art (education));

Building, surveying and architecture (including cartography, design studies, town planning);

Commercial and business studies (including data processing, school administration);

Engineering and technology (including metallurgy, textiles);

Liberal studies (including physical education, recreation, social work);

Music (including music education);

Para-medical (including dietetics, environmental health, nutrition);

Teacher education.

The field of teacher education includes not only courses for teacher trainees but also specialist or extension courses for practising or newly qualified teachers. Students are, where possible, allocated to the field of study which predominates in their course so that, for example, students in music (education) and art (education) courses are allocated to music and art respectively.

16. Courses are also classified by level according to the nomenclature and guidelines for awards in advanced education put forward by the Australian Council on

Awards in Advanced Education in its First Annual Report, 1972. Course levels are classified as follows :

Post-graduate

- Master degree
- Graduate diploma

Undergraduate

- Bachelor degree (including conversion courses leading to a bachelor degree)
- Diploma (including conversion courses leading to a diploma)
- Associate diploma.

Students in courses whose early stages are common to other courses of different levels have been classified to the highest level unless it was possible to identify them by level.

17. Approved conversion courses comprise the following :

- courses which enable students who have completed the first year of a diploma to commence the third year of a bachelor degree;
- courses which enable students who have gained a diploma to commence the final year of a bachelor degree;
- courses which enable students who have gained a diploma to qualify for a bachelor degree without further study;
- courses which convert an associate diploma to a diploma.

Staff

18. Staff statistics refer to those persons engaged in activities directly related to the performance of a college's functions. All staff on paid leave are included. Staff members temporarily performing higher duties are allocated to the higher position. All staff are shown as full-time or part-time and are expressed in full-time equivalent units rounded to whole numbers.

19. Academic staff are those full-time and part-time staff directly engaged to teach or organise the teaching of approved courses. They may be on a college's payroll or be paid wholly or partly by other bodies.

20. Although most teaching effort is provided by academic staff, some non-academic staff (e.g. principals and vice-principals in smaller colleges, computer staff and librarians) may also perform some teaching duties. In this bulletin the teaching effort in approved courses of both academic and non-academic staff has been shown, expressed in full-time equivalent units.

21. Non-academic staff comprise all persons engaged in essentially non-teaching activities who are on a college's payroll servicing approved or non-approved courses, or both. Contract staff not directly employed by the college are excluded. Non-academic staff comprise mainly staff engaged in :

- academic services (e.g. library services - see below, audio visual aids, educational research and development, computer, technicians and laboratory assistants);
- student services (e.g. counselling, employment, health, housing);
- central and branch administration (e.g. principals and deputy principals, registrars and assistant registrars, administrative and clerical workers, typists, receptionists, printing);
- departmental administration (e.g. administrative and clerical workers, typists, receptionists, printing);
- staff of business undertakings (e.g. cafeteria, residential facilities);
- other staff (e.g. employed on farms, in stores, motor pools, maintenance, caretaking, cleaning, grounds).

22. Library staff comprise all college staff employed in central and branch libraries. A branch library is physically separate from the central library but carries stocks financed from central library funds. "Departmental", "faculty" or "school" libraries which carry stocks financed through a central library are also termed branch libraries for the purposes of this bulletin.

Classification of library staff

23. Library staff are classified into the following categories :

Professional -

- Librarians, Groups 1-4. Graduates who hold a university degree or equivalent qualification and who are eligible for professional membership of the Library Association of Australia. A Librarian, Group 4, is a person who had a salary near to $24,394 at 31 December 1975; a Librarian, Group 3, had a salary near to $20,909 at 31 December 1975; a Librarian, Group 2, had a salary range near to $16,512 to $19,193 at 31 December 1975 and a Librarian, Group 1, is a person with a salary below that of a Librarian, Group 2.
- Professional qualifications but no degree or equivalent are staff with professional membership of the Library Association of Australia but with no degree or equivalent.

University degree or equivalent without full professional qualifications includes all other graduates with a university degree or equivalent (except systems analysts and programmers) but without professional qualifications, whether or not they are studying for professional qualifications.

Non-professional -

Includes staff not included above (e.g. library clerks and attendants; secretarial and typing staff; systems analysts and programmers; bindery, photographic and other technical staff).

24. Professional library staff have been allocated to activities on the basis of the activity occupying the highest proportion of their time. A staff member who performs equally in two or more activities has been shown only once. Library activities are classified as follows:

Technical services

Acquisitions - includes acquiring, checking and accessioning books, periodicals and other materials, and keeping the necessary related records.

Cataloguing - includes preparing and maintaining the catalogue and preparing books for the shelves.

Other - includes any technical work other than acquisitions or cataloguing.

Reader services includes the work of reference and other staff responsible for direct contact with the public for reference or lending purposes.

Administration includes the work of the central group of senior professional staff responsible for determining library policy, that of their support staff and such related groups as accountants and personnel staff.

Other includes any other activities by professional staff.

Comparability

25. The comparability of college of advanced education statistics is affected by:

- (a) the establishment of new colleges, the amalgamation of one college with another and the inclusion of institutions previously not of college of advanced education status (see paragraph 3 above for the changes between 1975 and 1976).
- (b) changes in the classification of students, staff and courses as a result of
  - (i) consultations with the Commission on Advanced Education and
  - (ii) advised changes to the structure of courses at particular institutions.

26. In 1976, students enrolled in food science courses have been transferred from the field of Agriculture to Applied science and cartography course students from Engineering and technology to Building, surveying and architecture. Staff classified by field of teaching are similarly affected but to a lesser extent as they are reported by school, department or faculty whereas students are reported by course. Course level comparisons are also affected as some courses in Victoria formerly reported as Associate Diploma courses have in 1976 been classified as Diploma courses. In addition, some courses formerly reported as Diploma courses have been classified as Associate Diploma courses.

Symbols and other usages

Any discrepancies between totals and sums of components in the tables containing staff statistics are due to rounding.

All publications produced by the ABS are listed in Publications of the Australian Bureau of Statistics (Reference No. 1.8).

NON-GOVERNMENT TEACHERS COLLEGES

The college of advanced education statistics for 1976 include details of seven teachers colleges which previously did not have college of advanced education status. Details of the remaining nine non-government teachers colleges are shown in the table below.
