EXPLANATORY NOTES

Introduction

1. This publication provides information relating to the structure of operating units in agricultural industries during 1978-79. Some statistics relating to 1976-77 and 1977-78 are also provided for comparative purposes. If comparisons are made with corresponding figures in previous issues of this publication, reference should be made to the Explanatory Notes of the publication concerned to ensure that the comparisons are valid.

2. The first issue, then titled Agricultural Sector: Part 1 - Structure of Operating Units, 1974-75, was published in February 1977. Information on the development of the new statistical framework is given in detail in paragraphs 2 to 6 of the Explanatory Notes of that publication.

Economic units

3. The Australian Bureau of Statistics conducted a special census of all operators of agricultural holdings in 1974, to obtain data on the operational units within the agricultural sector, so that statistics comparable with those for other industry sectors could be compiled. Information obtained from this census was used to delineate economic units engaged in agricultural activities, within a hierarchy of units, for incorporation in an integrated agricultural register of units. These economic units, in their hierarchical order, are:

Enterprise Group - The largest unit in the system. The enterprise group is a unit comprising all operations in Australia of a group of legal entities under common ownership and control. Any legal entity operating wholly outside Australia is excluded. For entities operating partly outside Australia, only those operations inside Australia are included.

Enterprise - The second level in the hierarchy of economic units. The enterprise is that unit comprising all operations in Australia of a single operating legal entity. (The term 'single legal entity' means a sole trader, partnership, company, trust, cooperative or estate in the private sector, or a department, local government authority or statutory authority in the public sector.) For the agricultural sector, a 'multi-State enterprise' is an enterprise which belongs to an enterprise group which undertakes agricultural activities in more than one State.

Establishment - The smallest economic unit in the system. The establishment covers all operations carried out by one enterprise at a single physical location. For the agricultural sector, a physical location has been interpreted to mean each individual agricultural holding. However, where two or more holdings in the one local government area (county in South Australia) are operated under one management, the holdings are combined to form one establishment.

4. These definitions are compatible with those used for economic units in sectors other than agriculture. In some cases, the information obtained in the 1974 census was not sufficient to delineate enterprise groups; work is continuing to define these units.

5. The identification of economic units within the agricultural sector has allowed the production of more meaningful statistics of economic size, legal status and industry classification on a basis comparable with statistics available for other industry sectors. It has also provided some insight into the activities of agricultural enterprises in other sectors of the economy and the activities of non-agricultural enterprises in the agricultural sector.

6. A beginning has also been made to identify units in the agricultural sector that traditionally have been outside the scope of the Agricultural Census (e.g. horse and goat breeding). In addition, certain types of agricultural producers with no fixed operational land base (e.g. beekeepers) have been identified.

Industry classification

7. The economic units within the agricultural sector have been classified in accordance with the methodology used in the Australian Standard Industrial Classification (ASIC), issued initially as a preliminary edition in 1969.

8. The classification of agricultural industries in the 1969 preliminary edition of the ASIC was subjected to an interim revision in 1974, prior to the classification of the newly defined economic units in the agricultural sector. The 1978-79 figures in this issue are the first to utilise the 1978 edition of ASIC, which was introduced after an extensive review.

9. As a consequence of that review, two previous ASIC classes, which related to Agriculture, are no longer recorded. These were, 'Oilseeds (n.e.c.)', formerly ASIC Class 0112, and 'Multi-purpose farming', formerly ASIC Class 0150.

10. The first of these has been absorbed by the 1978 ASIC Class 0181, 'Cereal grains (incl. oilseeds n.e.c.)'. Thus, this new Class is comparable with the sum of the two pre-1978 ASIC Classes, 0111 (Cereal grains) and 0112 (Oilseeds (n.e.c.)). Comparative tables in this issue utilise this relationship by combining the earlier figures recorded in the two obsolete Classes and comparing them with the single 1978-79 Class.

11. The other Class affected, namely, 'Multi-purpose farming', has been discontinued. The effect of discontinuance has been to disperse those units previously recorded - 469 enterprises Australia-wide in 1977-78 - amongst the 1978 ASIC Classes, according to the PREDOMINANT ACTIVITY (see paragraph 16) of each of the units so dispersed.

12. A list of industries in the 1978 edition of ASIC which relate to 'Subdivision 91: Agriculture' is given in the accompanying table.

Method of classification according to ASIC

13. The basic method for determining the industry class of an economic unit is the 'step by step' method of classification described in Chapter 4 of the 1978 edition of the Australian Standard Industrial Classification. Certain departures from this basic method are outlined in the descriptions of individual classes within ASIC Subdivision 01: Agriculture.

14. The basic method, and departures from this method referred to above, requires that the ASIC

Division code of the unit be determined first. The ASIC Subdivision code within the major ASIC Division of the unit is then determined, followed by the ASIC Group code and finally the ASIC Class code of the unit.

15. During the special census of operators of holdings in 1974, referred to above, the ASIC Division and Subdivision of each economic unit were identified by obtaining estimates of gross receipts derived from each activity undertaken by the units identified. The annual Agricultural Census and various coverage collections provide information to enable the ASIC Division and Subdivision of economic units to be reviewed from time to time.

16. For those units within Subdivision 01: Agriculture, which operate land, the ASIC Group and Class codes are determined annually by applying unit prices to each agricultural activity undertaken by the unit and by then assessing the PREDOMINANT ACTIVITY according to the estimated value derived. For units that do not operate land, the ASIC Group and Class codes are determined by the operator's description of his activities.

17. Enterprise or establishment units, which are predominantly engaged in activities covered by ASIC Subdivision 01 : Agriculture, are referred to respectively as agricultural enterprises (Tables 14 to 34) or agricultural establishments (Tables 35 to 45).

18. Enterprises which are predominantly engaged in Services to Agriculture, Mining, Manufacturing, etc. (that is non-agricultural enterprises) may also operate some establishments which are predominantly engaged in agriculture (that is agricultural establishments). Such non-agricultural enterprises are shown in summary in the lower portion of Table 1 and in more detail in Table 2.

Size classification

19. The industry classification of agricultural economic units involves (as explained above) the valuing of physical crop and livestock information collected primarily in the Agricultural Census. The valuation procedure allows for the industry classification of individual units to be changed to reflect significant or long term changes in their activities. However, the procedure provides for a dampening or resistance effect to offset instability in classifications which would arise from short term factors such as flood, drought, or sudden changes in market values. To obviate the effects of droughts and floods, the valuation procedure takes into account (without double counting) the area of crops sown and numbers of livestock on establishments at a point in time as well as the crops produced and livestock turnover during a year. To obviate short term price fluctuations, three year weighted average unit prices are used. The resultant aggregation of these commodity values has been termed the ESTIMATED VALUE OF AGRICULTURAL OPERATIONS (EVAO). An estimate of the value of the non-agricultural operations is obtained by using the ratio of agricultural and non-agricultural receipts obtained in the 1974 units census and the coverage collections referred to above. The resultant value for ALL the operations (both agricultural and non-agricultural) undertaken by an economic unit has been termed the ESTIMATED VALUE OF OPERATIONS (EVO).

20. The size classifications shown in this bulletin for agricultural enterprises and establishments are based on the 'estimated value of operations' (which includes both agricultural and non-agricultural operations). It should be noted that in most cases the value of non-agricultural operations of agricultural economic units represents an insignificant proportion of the value of their total operations.

21. The estimation procedure for industry coding purposes described above was also used for size classification purposes. It should be stressed, however, that constraints on the calculation of this value of operations figure, arising from the use of resistance factors (see paragraph 19), result in the figure itself being applicable ONLY FOR INDUSTRY CODING AND SIZE VALUATION PURPOSES, and not being a true indication of receipts obtained by units in a particular year. Details of the ACTUAL RECEIPTS obtained by economic units operating in the agricultural sector are contained in Agricultural Sector : Financial Statistics (7507.0).

Comparison with previous statistical system

22. Under the previous system, information about the structure of the agricultural sector was compiled from the Agricultural Census, and was based upon information collected in respect of the agricultural holding. Under the current system, information about the structure of the agricultural sector is compiled from agricultural establishment and enterprise data. Table 1 summarises the relationship between establishments and enterprises.

Definitions

23. Following are definitions of terms used in the tables of this bulletin.

Enterprise is that unit comprising all operations in Australia of a single operating legal entity (see also paragraph 3).

Establishment covers all operations carried out by one enterprise at a single physical location (see also paragraph 3).

Agricultural Enterprise is an enterprise which is engaged MAINLY in agricultural activities. The estimated value of operations of these enterprises includes the estimated value of non-agricultural operations (see also paragraph 19).

Agricultural Establishment is an establishment which is engaged MAINLY in agricultural activities. The estimated value of operations of these establishments includes the estimated value of non-agricultural operations (see also paragraph 19).

Australian Totals include (in addition to the units shown for the respective States):

Establishments : establishments in the Northern Territory and Australian Capital Territory.

Enterprises : enterprises in the Northern Territory and Australian Capital Territory and multi-State enterprises (for the definition of a multi-State enterprise see paragraph 3).

Estimated Value of Operations is rounded to nearest $'000.

Enterprises and their component Establishments are not tabulated if the enterprise had an EVAO of less than $1,500.
