

Christina Gee

From: Shunichi Ishihara
Sent: Tuesday, 21 January 2014 8:58 AM
To: Christina Gee
Subject: Re: FW: New Scan Job

Follow Up Flag: Follow up
Flag Status: Flagged

Hi Chrissy,

> Can you please write an English abstract of the attached article you submitted?

Attached below:

Regards,
Shun

Abstract: After summarising the historical background of forensic speaker recognition, this paper describes the current trend of this area, in particular, focusing on the likelihood ratio-based framework, which has started being widely accepted internationally as the logically and legally correct way of analysing and presenting scientific forensic evidence.

--

Shunichi Ishihara (PhD, MSc, MA)
School of Culture, History and Language
College of Asia and the Pacific,
Baldessin Precinct Building #110
The Australian National University
Canberra, ACT 0200 AUSTRALIA

t: +61 2 6125 4656
f: +61 2 6125 0745
w: people.anu.edu.au/sishihara/
CRICOS: 00120C