EXPLANATORY NOTES

Introduction

This publication makes available selected statistics prepared for the comprehensive printed publication Australian National Accounts, National Income and Expenditure, 1984-85 (5204.0), which is based on statistics available up to February 1986 and is to be issued later this year. The estimates are consistent with those contained in the December quarter 1985 issue of Quarterly Estimates of National Income and Expenditure, Australia (5206.0) recently released. Prior to the release of 5204.0 additional detail from that publication is available on request. Figures (at current and constant prices) for 1984-85 are preliminary and some figures for earlier years are still subject to revision.

Concepts, definitions, sources and methods

2. The concepts, definitions, sources and methods applicable to these estimates are discussed in Australian National Accounts, Concepts, Sources and Methods (5216.0). A reprint of 5216.0 was released late in 1983 which was consistent with the concepts, sources and methods applicable to the 1980-81 issue of 5204.0. The reprint contains a new appendix (Appendix D) which details changes which occurred between the release of the 1980-81 issue of 5204.0 and August 1983. As discussed below in 'Changes in this issue' a number of conceptual and presentational changes have been made in this publication. All changes in concepts, sources and methods which have been made since the first release of 5216.0 in January 1982 will be outlined in Appendix A of the forthcoming issue of 5204.0.

Changes in this issue

3. Changes have been made in the presentation of these accounts in line with classificatory and presentational changes introduced in the December quarter 1985 issue of Balance of Payments, Australia (5302.0). The major changes which affect the presentation of data in the national accounts include:

- (a) Identification of payments and receipts of labour income between the resident and non-resident sectors. (This change is a consequence of a more rigorous separation of services, income and unrequited transfers.) It should be noted that there is now a minor definitional difference between wages, salaries and supplements as published in the domestic production account (payments by Australian resident producers) and as published in the households income and outlay account (receipts by Australian resident individuals).
- (b) Extraordinary insurance claims from overseas are now shown as a separate category of income from overseas rather than as an element of unrequited transfers from overseas. Claims associated with the Brisbane floods of 1974 have now been treated as 'extraordinary'.

- (c) A more systematic approach has been taken to the classification of capital transactions.

For a more detailed discussion of the changes introduced to the balance of payments statistics, reference should be made to the ABS Information Paper Changes in the Presentation of Australian Balance of Payments Statistics (5340.0) published on 23 December 1985.

4. The series for gross fixed capital expenditure on private dwellings has been increased substantially because of the inclusion of an allowance for the value of alterations and additions which either do not require a permit or for which the owner does not obtain the requisite permit. Estimates for this expenditure have been benchmarked to results from the 1984 Household Expenditure Survey (HES) and are consistent with similar data collected in the 1974-75 HES. (The 1974-75 HES provided evidence of substantial understatement of expenditure on alterations and additions to dwellings but on its own did not provide sufficient information to enable an adjustment to the entire time series for gross fixed capital expenditure — private dwellings.)

5. Significant adjustments have been made to the income aggregates for gross operating surplus of trading enterprise companies and unincorporated enterprises in order to make adequate allowance for understatement of income as reported for income taxation purposes. These adjustments have been based predominantly on the information provided by the Commissioner of Taxation in the Taxation Draft White Paper released in June 1985.

6. An adjustment has been included in the gross operating surplus for the construction industry to allow for the value added in the construction of dwellings by owner-builders. A consequential adjustment to gross fixed capital expenditure on private dwellings was not required since new dwellings constructed by owner-builders have always been included at their market value.

7. Estimates of gross product by industry (Table 15) have been extended by two years to 1984-85. Estimates for the last two years should be regarded as preliminary and interpreted cautiously as they may be subject to significant revision, especially for the latest year.

Revisions in this issue

8. Significant revisions have been made to various aggregates as a consequence of the changes discussed above.

9. Revisions have also been made to estimates for recent years as a result of assimilating later information from taxation assessment statistics, the gross value of farm production series and other sources which normally become available by this time each year.

Accuracy of estimates

10. The statistical discrepancy shown in the tables represents the difference between estimates of gross domestic product plus imports and gross national expenditure plus exports. The inclusion of the statistical discrepancy on the expenditure side of the domestic production account is a convention and does not necessarily imply that the sum of the income components more accurately measures GDP than the sum of the expenditure components (plus exports less imports).

Related publications

11. As well as the publications referred to above other national accounts publications which may be of interest are:

Quarterly Estimates of National Income and Expenditure, Australia (Preliminary) (5205.0)—issued for June quarter only

Historical Series of Estimates of National Income and Expenditure, Australia (5207.0)—issued for December quarter only
