EXPLANATORY NOTES

This bulletin presents industry and commodity statistics for Retail Trade and Selected Services* compiled from the Census of Retail Trade and Selected Services conducted for the year ended 30 June 1969. Preliminary industry statistics from this census were published in February 1971 in a preliminary statement (Reference No. 11.7) and further preliminary industry, commodity and area statistics for Australia, States and Territories were published in preliminary bulletins (Reference Nos 11.8 to 11.16) in December 1971. In this bulletin industries have, for the first time, been classified in accordance with the Australian Standard Industrial Classification (See paragraphs 8, 19 and 20 below). More detailed bulletins, which may include revisions to figures included here, will be issued at a later date.

INTEGRATION OF THE ECONOMIC CENSUSES

2. For the year ended 30 June 1969 the Census of Retail Trade and Selected Services was conducted as part of the first integrated economic censuses, which covered also Wholesale Trade, Mining, Manufacturing, and Electricity and Gas. The integration of these economic censuses was designed to increase substantially the usefulness and comparability of economic statistics collected and published by the Bureau and to form the basis for the sample surveys which supply current economic statistics from quarter to quarter, particularly those which provide data for the quarterly national income and expenditure estimates.

3. The economic censuses of Retail Trade, Mining, Manufacturing, and Electricity and Gas previously conducted in Australia were originally designed and subsequently developed primarily to provide statistics for particular industries on a basis which would best suit the requirements of users interested in statistics of those industries. More recently there has been a growth of interest in statistics describing activity in the economy as a whole - reflected, for example, in the development of employment and earnings statistics, surveys of capital expenditure and stocks and the whole field of national accounts statistics. For such purposes statistics derived from economic censuses in the past have had serious limitations despite the fact that they covered a broad area of the whole economy. Because of the special-purpose nature of each of these censuses, there were no common definitions of data, there was no common system of reporting units, and, as a standard industrial classification was not used for these censuses, industry boundaries were not defined in ways which would avoid overlapping or gaps occurring between the industrial sectors covered. For these reasons, direct aggregation and comparison of statistics from different censuses were not possible.

4. In the integrated economic censuses information was collected using a common framework of reporting units and data concepts and in accordance with a standard industrial classification. As a result the statistics for the industries covered by the censuses are provided with no overlapping or gaps in scope, and in such a way that aggregates for economic data such as value added, employment, wages and salaries, fixed capital expenditure and stocks can be obtained on a consistent basis for all sectors of the economy covered by the censuses.

* The selected service establishments included in the integrated economic censuses were motion picture theatres; cafes and restaurants; licensed hotels, motels and wine saloons; licensed clubs; laundry and dry cleaning services; hairdressing and beauty salons.

DEVELOPMENTS ASSOCIATED WITH INTEGRATION OF THE ECONOMIC CENSUSES

5. For the integration of the various censuses it was necessary to undertake three major developments:

- (a) The census units for which the statistics were to be collected (factories, mines, shops, etc.) had to be defined and identified in consistent ways and recorded in a central register, together with identifying data about the businesses owning and operating them.
- (b) A standard industrial classification had to be adopted so that the census units could be classified in consistent ways and to enable the boundaries of the various economic censuses to be determined without gaps or overlapping between them.
- (c) New forms had to be designed with definitions of data items consistent for all censuses.

Definition of Census Units

6. The basic unit used in the censuses is the establishment, which has been defined to include all the operations carried on under the one ownership at a single physical location. The retail establishment is thus one predominantly engaged in retailing but the data supplied for it cover all activities at the location. However, in cases where a combination of activities primary to more than one industry is carried on at one location, each of the secondary activities which has a value of sales of $1,000,000 or more can, under certain circumstances be treated as a separate establishment. Detailed rules relating to this treatment are included in "Australian Standard Industrial Classification (Preliminary Edition) Volume 1" published by this Bureau.

7. Separately located administrative offices and ancillary units serving establishments and forming part of the business which owns and operates the establishments are also included in the scope of the censuses. They are units such as head offices, storage premises, transport depots, and motor vehicle repair and maintenance workshops. The establishment statistics include data relating to these units but they are not included in the statistics of number of establishments.

Standardisation of the Industrial Classification

8. The Australian Standard Industrial Classification (ASIC), described in the Bureau publication "Australian Standard Industrial Classification (Preliminary Edition), 1969, Vol. 1," defines the industries in the economy for statistical purposes, thus permitting the scope of the different economic censuses to be specified without gaps or overlapping between them. It also sets out standard rules for identifying the statistical units (e.g. establishments) and for coding them to the industries of the classification. This classification is broadly convertible to the International Standard Industrial Classification adopted by the United Nations Statistical Commission.

9. Previous censuses of retail establishments included a number of activities that were also covered by the annual manufacturing census: principally motor vehicle repairs, dry cleaning, shoe repairs and tyre retreading. Takings from these activities were reported in the retail trade census but not included in "retail sales". The following activities were also included in previous retail censuses if they were carried on in establishments which had retail sales of more than $1000; custom dress-making and custom tailoring, clothing repair and alterations, making up and repair of blinds, awnings and curtains, repair of domestic appliances, panel beating and smash repairs, watch and clock repairs, jewellery repairs and baking of cakes in cake shops. These activities were also covered by the annual manufacturing census. With the adoption of the new establishment concept in the 1968-69 economic censuses, no establishment was required to supply returns in more than one census and all establishments mainly engaged in the above activities are now included in the retail trade census only.

10. Censuses of retail trade in Australia have traditionally included certain types of service establishments in their scope, in addition to retail establishments more narrowly defined. Some of the service establishments so included make retail sales in appreciable volume as well as providing important services for which the statistics can be conveniently collected in the framework of the retail census.

11. The census of retail trade for 1968-69 included the following types of service establishments in its scope in addition to establishments classified to Retail Trade (Sub-division 48 of the Australian Standard Industrial Classification): motion picture theatres; cafes and restaurants; licensed hotels, motels and wine saloons; licensed clubs; laundry and dry cleaning services; and hairdressing and beauty salons. Of these service industries, cafes and restaurants, licensed hotels, motels and wine saloons and hairdressing and beauty salons had been included in previous censuses as retail establishments, while the remainder were included in the supplementary collections made from establishments not described as retail establishments.

12. Some changes in the scope of the retail census have been made for reasons not connected with the introduction of the ASIC - for example bread vending and milk vending by independent vendors mainly engaged in retailing bread or milk by home service delivery are included for the first time.

13. The definition of 'retail trade' adopted in the 1968-69 Retail Census is the same as the definition used in previous retail censuses, i.e. the resale of new and used goods to final consumers for personal and household consumption.

Standardisation of Data Concepts

14. The third step in integrating the economic censuses, whereby the items of data on the census forms were standardised for all census sectors, has resulted in changes in the content of the statistics. For example, the main changes affecting turnover (or 'total takings' as it was called in the 1961-62 Retail Census) are:

- (a) Wholesale sales of goods by retail establishments are included in "turnover", from which they were in general omitted in the 1961-62 census because it was based on the narrower establishment concept;
- (b) "Goods withdrawn from stocks for own use as fixed tangible assets or for rental or lease" is a new item which is included in turnover. This item could be important in some types of business doing extensive hiring out of consumer goods;
- (c) Any goods manufactured by the retail establishment and included in its sales are also included in turnover.

The main changes to statistics of stocks brought about by the integration of the censuses arise from the use of the new establishment concept; the statistics will relate to total stocks of the establishment, not merely to those associated with the main activity covered by the census. Thus, retail establishments now include any stocks of materials held for other purposes, e.g. wholesaling or manufacturing.

15. In the economic censuses the fundamental measure of an establishment's contribution to economic activity is the value added. In the 1968-69 retail census value added is calculated as follows:

Sales of goods (~~to other establishments of the enterprise~~)

plus	Goods withdrawn from stocks for own use
plus	All other operating revenue
equals	Value of turnover
plus	Value of closing stocks
less	Value of opening stocks
less	Purchases and transfers in * (from other establishments of the enterprise)
less	Selected expenses
equals	Value added

The "selected expenses" do not include wages and salaries, interest, rent, depreciation, or overhead expenses usually recorded only for the enterprise as a whole. Broadly speaking, therefore, the value added is the source from which establishments derive the surplus to meet wages and salaries, interest, rent, depreciation and overhead expenses of the enterprise, and to provide a contribution to the profits of the enterprise. In addition, value added provides a useful measure for comparison of the Retail Trade sector with other sectors of the economy - Wholesale Trade - Manufacturing - Mining - Electricity and Gas - included in the integrated economic censuses.

16. Due to the changes which have occurred in the definition of census units, the scope of the census and the items of data collected, as set out in paragraphs 5-14 above, it is not possible to make direct comparisons between the figures obtained from the 1968-69 Retail Census and those obtained from previous retail censuses, or from the monthly and quarterly retail surveys based on previous retail censuses. Further information concerning such comparisons will be given in later bulletins.

17. For a more detailed description of the Integrated Economic Censuses, reference should be made to Chapter 31 of "Official Year Book of the Commonwealth of Australia", No. 56, 1970.

DESCRIPTION OF TABLES

Summary industry statistics

18. Table 1 presents summary industry statistics for retail trade for the year ended 30 June 1969 for Australia, States and Territories.

19. In this table establishments have been classified in accordance with the Australian Standard Industrial Classification. (See paragraph 8). The structure of the ASIC comprises four levels. The broadest of these is the Division level, which relates to wide categories such as "Manufacturing" and "Wholesale and Retail Trade". The structure may be illustrated by the following examples. A retail establishment mainly engaged in retailing fresh fruit and vegetables would be classified to:

* It should be noted that in the retail census "transfers in" are limited to transfers from establishments of the same enterprise other than retail establishments. Transfers of goods between retail establishments of the same enterprise are deducted from the purchases item in the return of the supplying establishments and added to purchases in the receiving establishments' returns.

Division F	Wholesale and Retail Trade
Sub-division 48	Retail Trade
Group 482	Food Stores
Class 4824	Fruit and Vegetable Stores

A selected service establishment mainly engaged in projecting motion picture films would be classified to:

Division L	Entertainment, Recreation, Restaurants, Hotels and Personal Services
Sub-division 91	Entertainment and Recreational Services
Group 911	Entertainment
Class 9113	Motion Picture Theatres

20. Each ASIC Class is defined in terms of a specified range of economic activities designated as primary to it. (Retailing of fruit and vegetables, shown in the above example, is primary to Class 4824). Similarly each ASIC group is defined in terms of the economic activities designated as primary to the Classes within that group, and so on. An establishment which is engaged mainly in economic activities which have been designated as primary to a particular class has been classified to that class whether or not that establishment is also engaged in other "secondary" activities. Administrative offices and ancillary units have been classified to an ASIC class according to the predominant industry of the establishments they administer or serve.

Commodity Statistics

21. Table 2 presents the number of Retail and Selected Service establishments operating during 1968-69 reporting retail sales in each commodity item, classified by industry class. The number of wholesale, mining, manufacturing and electricity and gas establishments operating during 1968-69 reporting retail sales of goods in each commodity item is also included under the heading "other establishments". As many establishments reported sales for more than one commodity the sum of the number of establishments showing sales for individual items will exceed the total number of establishments reporting retail sales.

22. The value of retail sales in each commodity item by ASIC class is shown in Table 3. In supplying details of retail sales, businesses were asked to include cash and credit sales made during the year and to show value of sales net of all discounts. If the value of individual commodities sold was not available, businesses were asked to record careful estimates against the appropriate commodities listed on the forms. Retail sales for commodities other than those listed are included in the table as "goods not included above".

23. In the 1968-69 Retail Census particulars of retail sales in general included the resale of new and used goods to the final consumer for personal and household consumption. Commodities such as basic building materials, builders' hardware and builders' supplies, timber, commercial refrigerators and freezers, agricultural tractors, farm machinery and implements, construction and earth moving equipment, grain feed and fertilisers and agricultural supplies, business machines and equipment, although sold by some retailers and collected on the retail form, are not treated as retail sales. Where the value of sales of these commodities were supplied by retailers they have been included in the economic censuses tabulations as wholesale sales.

DEFINITIONS

Definitions of items included in this bulletin are:

Number of retail and selected service establishments (Table 1).

The number of retail and selected service establishments which operated at 30 June 1969. These relate to establishments as such and do not include the numbers of separately located administrative offices and ancillary units.

Number of establishments (Table 2).

The number of retail and selected service, wholesale, mining, manufacturing, and electricity and gas establishments operating during 1968-69 which reported retail sales.

Persons employed, male, female and total. Working proprietors at end of June 1969, employees (including part-time) on the payroll of the last pay period in June 1969, and unpaid members of the proprietor's family and other unpaid helpers working at least 15 hours during the last week of June 1969. Persons employed include those working at separately located administrative offices and ancillary units in the State. Note that persons employed (and their wages and salaries) relate to those employed at establishments, administrative offices or ancillary units located in the State even though the administrative offices or ancillary units may serve establishments located in another State.

Wages and salaries. The wages and salaries of all employees of the establishment including those working at separately located administrative offices and ancillary units in the State. Drawings of working proprietors are not included.

Turnover. Sales of goods (retail and wholesale), all other operating revenue from outside the enterprise such as repair and service revenue, hiring of consumer goods, commission, takings from meals and accommodation, hairdressing, theatre admissions and laundry and dry cleaning, and goods withdrawn from stocks for own use as fixed tangible assets or for rental or lease.

Stocks at 30 June 1968 and 1969. All stocks of goods for sale, materials, fuels and work-in-progress, owned by the enterprise and controlled by the establishment, whether located at the establishment or elsewhere.

Purchases, transfers in and selected expenses. Purchases of goods for resale and materials for manufacturing; transfers in from establishments of the enterprise other than retail establishments; charges for commission and sub-contract work; purchases of wrapping and packaging materials, electricity and fuel; repair and maintenance expenses; outward freight and cartage; motor vehicle running expenses; and sales commission payments.

Value added. Turnover plus increase (or less decrease) in the value of stocks less purchases, transfers in and selected expenses. See paragraph 15 above.

Fixed Capital Expenditure. Outlay on new and second-hand fixed tangible assets less disposals.

NOTE.

The details included in this bulletin contain revisions to the figures previously published in the series of Preliminary Bulletins for Australia, States and Territories (Reference Nos. 11.8 to 11.16). As stated in the preliminary bulletins a number of processing phases had not been completed when those bulletins were published. In particular detailed industry classification had not been carried out. Industry coding of establishments for the preliminary bulletins was, for the six States, based on the type of business classification allocated at either the 1961-62 Retail Census or in subsequent annual censuses of new businesses, and for the two Territories on the type of business classification allocated during the 1967-68 survey of retail establishments. The industry classification of establishments for this bulletin has been allocated on the basis of the actual data reported. See paragraphs 19 and 20.
