

A Notice about the Poetry

(and a few other things)

As explained in class today, for reasons beyond my control we shall not be studying the fourth literary text, the poems.

Consequently, we shall have an extra class on Les belles images.

The last class on this text will now be held on Friday 16th August.

The deadline for the essay on Les belles images will also be extended.

The final date for submission of this essay is now Friday 30th August.

A further consequence of this change will be that we shall have more classes than originally planned on the last of the literary texts, Raymond Radiguet's Le diable au corps.

The first class on Radiguet will be on Friday 30th August.

James Grieve
Friday 2 August 1966